Seminar A July 9 - 15
Seminar B — July 16 - 23
Seminar C — July 23 - 29
Seminar D — July 30 - August 5th.

Total Cost is $45.00 — —This covers a) Transportation from a central point to and from Goldeye, b) room and meals while at the seminar.

Application forms are available from this office.

June is Dairy Month in Canada . . . the month we pay special attention to all those delicious foods that make home cooking so flavorful and add so much to your family's good nutrition all year round. This is the first of a series of four articles on dairy products.

Did you know yogurt (also spelled yoghurt or yogourt) is just another form of milk. It is not a new product but Canadians are just discovering its' fresh, lively flavor. The yogurt sold by our dairies is made from partly skimmed milk, although whole or skim milk may be used. Special bacteria culture is added under carefully controlled conditions. This process breaks down the milk protein into a fine curd which is easier to digest than plain milk. A pleasantly sharp flavour develops and the consistency changes to give a thick smooth product.

There are two types of yogurt, the "set" type which is quite firm, almost like a baked custard and the "stirred" type labelled "Swiss Style" a very soft yogurt. Either may be used in most recipes and fruit and flavourings are added to both.

Yogurt is a good source of calcium protein, and riboflavin. Wondering what the calorie count of yogurt is? Since its made from partly skimmed milk its' quite low in calories. One half cup of plain yogurt (that's four ounces) contains around 65 calories (calories vary between brands). Flavored yogurt usually has added sugar as well as fruit and so has a slightly higher calorie count - about 90 - 120 calories per half cup.

Yogurt will keep two or three weeks in the refridgerator but will develop a sharper flavour with age.

Tasty Tips with Yogurt

"Dress-up" your next tossed salad with a tangy new yogurt dressing. Combine an eight-ounce container of yogurt with one half cup of cottage cheese, 1 tablespoon ketchup. Season with salt, paprika and a dash of Tabasco.

Try some blender magic with flavoured yogurt. Add

NEW LARGE PRINT BOOKS AT THE TOFIELD LIBRARY

Stevenson, D. E. — Listening Valley. Romance.

Durrel, Gerald— Three singles to adventure. A trip to BRITISH GUIANA in 1950.

Christie, Agatha—One, Two, buckle my shoe. Mystery.

Non-Fiction

Denny, Cecil E. — The LAW MARCHES ON. Reprint 1973. Illustrated. It is appropriate that this second printing should appear in the year which marks the 100th. anniversary of the founding of the North West Mounted Police. The book chronicles the work of this famous force, from its inception in 1873 until about the turn of the century. Sir Cecil Denny is well qualified to tell the story. He was an original member of the force and commanded one of the six troops of Mounted Police that made the long March from Fort Whoop-Up at the foothills of the Rockies in 1874. Denny brings the reader a personal view of the important events in this formative period of the Canadian West.

Burnford, Sheila — One WOMAN'S ARCTIC. 1973. This book is well named, for it is a vivid picture of the Arctic, its colour, sound, people and wildlife, by one sharply observant woman. She takes us to Pond Inlet on the northern tip of Baffin Island, and before we are finished we are totally immersed in the ways of the Arctic. With camera and tape recorder, Mrs. Burnford takes part in everything that happens and, surprisingly, there is plenty of action. She attends a wedding, travels over great distances by dog team, takes part in a survey of snow geese, assists in a dig of Dorset culture artifacts, investigates an old Eskimo - white murder story, and, on her last day, joins in a norwhal hunt.

Atkin, Ronald—MAINTAIN THE RIGHT. 1973 Illustrated. Atkin described the background of the formation of the force in the early 1870's' and by the extensive use of anecdotes, outlines the role in the opening of the CANADIAN WEST

Youth

Boy's Life — Basketball stories.

NEW LARGE PRINT BOOKS AT THE TOFIELD LIBRARY

Stevenson, D. E. — Listening Valley. Romance.

Christie, Agatha—One, Two, buckle my shoe. Mystery.

Non-Fiction

Denny, Cecil E. — The LAW MARCHES ON. Reprint 1973. Illustrated. It is appropriate that this second printing should appear in the year which marks the 100th. anniversary of the founding of the North West Mounted Police. The book chronicles the work of this famous force, from its inception in 1873 until about the turn of the century. Sir Cecil Denny is well qualified to tell the story. He was an original member of the force and commanded one of the six troops of Mounted Police that made the long March from Fort Whoop-Up at the foothills of the Rockies in 1874. Denny brings the reader a personal view of the important events in this formative period of the Canadian West.

Burnford, Sheila — One WOMAN'S ARCTIC. 1973. This book is well named, for it is a vivid picture of the Arctic, its colour, sound, people and wildlife, by one sharply observant woman. She takes us to Pond Inlet on the northern tip of Baffin Island, and before we are finished we are totally immersed in the ways of the Arctic. With camera and tape recorder, Mrs. Burnford takes part in everything that happens and, surprisingly, there is plenty of action. She attends a wedding, travels over great distances by dog team, takes part in a survey of snow geese, assists in a dig of Dorset culture artifacts, investigates an old Eskimo-white murder story, and, on her last day, joins in a narwhal hunt.

Atkin, Ronald—MAINTAIN THE RIGHT. 1973 Illustrated. Atkin described the background of the formation of the force in the early 1870's' and by the extensive use of anecdotes, outlines the role in the opening of the CANADIAN WEST

Youth

Boy's Life — Basketball stories.

Holden district news

(Mrs. G. H. Taylor)

HOLDEN, June 14 — Mrs. Olive Good drove down to Viking Saturday afternoon taking along Mrs. Maud Corliss, Mrs. Rosie Raeder, Mrs. Beth Campbell, Mrs. Mary Hooper and Mrs. Carrie Olson, all attending the Strawberry Tea at Vialta Lodge and visiting with Lars Riiland and Mrs. Mary James. They were unable to visit George Albrecht as he was away visiting his daughter and family at Stony Plain. Mrs. Carrie Olson also visited with her sister, Mrs. Alice Olberg at the nursing home.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Zwierschke's daughter, Norma and her husband, who have been residing in Edmonton for the past four years while he was attending the University of Alberta, are leaving shortly for Toronto, Ontario where they will make their home. Norma's husband will be employed by the I.B.M. Company.

A board meeting of the Holden United Church was held last Wednesday evening to arrange the services for Sunday, June 10th, this being the 48th anniversary of Church Union. Rev. K. Hessels of Edmonton, a former minister of Holden and Ryley was the guest speaker.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilmer Olsen and Mr. and Mrs. Otto Hurum were among a number of Holden residents taking in the show "Fiddler on The Roof," last Tuesday evening at Viking.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Taylor were Friday afternoon visitors with their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Taylor at Viking.

On Wednesday afternoon, June 6th, "Royal Purple Day" across Canada, Holden Lodge held a very enjoyable and rewarding afternoon, when they held a social afternoon and tea in Holden Community Hall entertaining senior citizens of Holden and district with about 38 attending. A number of games of bingo were enjoyed with small prizes for the winners. A prize was given to the oldest lady and gentleman attending, these being Mrs. Tekla Sroka the good age of 86 years and William Skyba, 84 and a half years young.

A lunch was then served, the tea table laid in white and purple with bouquets of white and purple lilacs. The long table centered with the Lodge rose bowl filled with purple and white flowers. On behalf of all attending, Otto Hurum, president of the Senior citizens group thanked the ladies for a very pleasant and enjoyable afternoon.

Mrs. Rosie Raeder was in Edmonton for a day or two last week, visiting with Mr. and Mrs. R. Lutz.

A cemetery committee meeting was held last Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. Beth Campbell. A very good financial report was given and it was decided that Holden cemetery clean-up day would be held on Monday, June 18th. A good turn out is hoped for. Those attending are requested to bring along hoes, rutes and clippers, etc. Ladies are to bring lunch and coffee will be provided as usual. Should the weather be inclement it will be held the following Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Appleby and son of Edmonton were visitors during the weekend, attending the Hrabec - Albrecht wedding.

Mrs. Mary Slywka had her son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Slywka and two girls of Sherwood Park visiting with her the past Sunday.

equal amounts of milk and some vanilla ice cream. Delicious and super for hot summer days.

A wide variety of dips can be made using yogurt. An easy example: Combine two cups of yogurt with 1 envelope (one and a half oz.) of dehydrated onion soup mix. Serve with potato chips.

Looking for a quick dessert for tonights supper? Mix applesauce, half and half with plain yogurt. Or jello and yogurt beaten together gives a refreshing foam dessert to brighten spring and summer meals.

For additional Dairy Foods information including yogurt call, write or come in to the District Home Economist office.

JUNE IS DAIRY MONTH
I scream - - - -
You scream - - - -
We all scream - - -
For ice cream - - -

A childs chant - - but how many of us revert to childhood when it comes to ice-cream? Do you remember when ice cream was made at home using the wooden freezer, buckets of cracked ice and salt. Muscles became weary turning the freezer crank, but ahh - - the reward!

Now-a-days, commercial ice cream has capitvated Canadians of all ages. Figures have shown that they consume over 56 million gallons of ice cream per year Because ice cream is put up in large packages, such 3 - pint and half and 1 gallon, and because most of us have home freezers, it is always on hand as a "convience" dessert.

Ice cream is made by combining cream with milk solids, sugar and flavoring. This mixture is pasteurized, homogenized, and frozen while air is whipped into it. A stabilizer such as gelatine is generally used to prevent large ice crystals from forming and to give ice cream its smooth, creamy texture. Ice cream must contain at least 10 percent milk fat. The hundreds of flavors come from the addition of fresh or preserved fruits, nuts or syrup.

All the important nutrients of cream and milk are retained in the manufacturing of ice-cream. In fact, half a cup contains almost the same food value as half a cup of milk. Besides being good to eat ice cream is a valuable addition to the daily menu.

ICE CREAM POINTERS

- Always store ice cream at 0 F. or colder.

- Keep containers tightly sealed and desserts well wrapped to prevent ice cream from "shrinking" caused by moisture evaporating.

- To avoid crystallation after a carton has been partly opened and used cover the cut surface of ice cream with a protective wrap.

- Never dip scoops or spoons in water when serving ice cream - -water creates larger crystals. Allow the container to stand at room temperature, for a few minutes, before serving.

- If the ice cream gets left out, which can easily happen, it can be refrozen without any danger to health. However, it will lose its smoothness because of the formation of large crystals.

DON'T FORGET — ice cream needn't always be "dressed up". Served solo, it's a quick and nutritious dessert that's easy on calories too!

ESTEMINE
Not a wonder herbicide. Just a super amine. Stays liquid longer for maximum penetration.
The problem with regular amines is crystal clear.
They form bead-like droplets which crystalize on leaves before the chemical has time to penetrate satisfactorily.
Estamine is a non-volatile weed killer with all the safety features of regular amine but none of their problems.
It spreads instead of beading. And because it spreads, it covers a greater surface of the leaf, so more of it penetrates the weed where it can do most harm, and your crop the most good.
It will cost you a few pennies more per acre for weed control that's proven better than any 2,4-D or MCPA Amine weed killers you've ever used before.

RCMP to lead Tofield Sports Day

by Grace Phillips

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police will be participating in Tofield's annual Canada Day celebrations.

Two RCMP officers will lead the parade. Two floats, those of the Tofield Historical Society and of the Town of Tofield, will feature RCMP officers in deference to 1973 being the Centennial Year of the Force.

BASEBALL

Umpires from the Alberta Umpires Association will be officiating for the baseball tournament. The games they will be working at are as follows:

Game 1: Tofield vs. Bardo at 12 p.m. Game 2: Camrose vs. Round Hill at 2 p.m. Game 3: Ryley vs. winner of Game 1 at 4 p.m. Game 4 (Finals: Winner of Game 2 vs. winner of Game 3 at 6:30 p.m.

Jr. Ball starts at 11 a.m. All Tofield minor ball teams will be participating.

OLDTIMERS WELCOME

Oldtimers of the Tofield area will be welcomed and registered by the Tofield Historical Society in the Arena. Here they will receive free coffee and have a chance to chat with former friends and acquaintances. The Historical Society will have a display which everyone will enjoy. In honor of the Centennial of the R.C.M.P., pictures relating to that organization will be featured.

Close by the Historical Society display will be the Garden Club's exhibition. An arts and crafts show is also being arranged.

FOOD BOOTH

The Tofield Curling Club will be operating the food booth on the grounds. Here salads, hot dogs, pie and coffee can be obtained. In order that there may be sufficient pies to fill the needs of all the expected visitors to Tofield on July 2, the Curling Club is again asking the ladies of the Tofield Community to donate in their usual generous fashion.

PARADE

The parade will feature two bands. The 30-piece Ardrossan Band has been secured some time ago and it has recently been learned that the Edmonton Shriners' Band is also to be part of the parade. The Shriners Band was part of the Tofield parade two years ago and was very well received. Their colorful costumes, as well as their musical contribution added much to the day, be the spectators along the parade route will be looking forward to a repeat performance from the Shriners and to hearing the Ardrossan Band for the first time

Mobile clinic sponsored by Elks

Members of the Elks Lodge in Camrose are hoping they will be able to get the traveling speech and hearing clinic shown above to be on display during the Camrose Fair. The clinic is the first travelling unit in Canada, and has been assigned to Glenrose Hospital.

Confirmation of two other such units has already been received. Sponsored nationally by the Elks, and their sister organization, the Order of the Royal Purple, the clinics are under direction of a joint committee of the Elks and the governments of Alberta, British Columbia, and Manitoba.

Strilchuk has dream by tossing no-hitter

The Round Hill North Stars shone on Tuesday night as they blanked the second place Ryley Rebels 1-0.

Randy Strilchuk tossed a no-hitter for the winners while Ralph Berlie, who also pitched a strong game, was tagged with the loss. Round Hill got its only run in the fifth inning which incidentally was unearned, but proved to be enough for the win.

In Tofield, the visiting Camrose Roadrunners were given an unpleasant welcome as they were thumbed 7-0 by the Lions. Floyd Taylor gave up only five hits as he picked up the victory for Tofield. Verlyn Olson was charged with the loss.

The Viking Shamrocks meanwhile defeated the Bardo Athletics 7-3, to extend their undefeated streak to seven games. Dennis Danilak was credited with the win while Robert Foshaug was tagged with the loss. Viking are almost assured of first place, as only the Ryley Rebels have a mathematical chance of catching them.

Round Hill, Tofield and Ryley will compete at the Ryley Sports Day on Saturday, June 23rd.

12:30 Round Hill vs Bardo
2:30 Tofield vs Ryley
5:00 Oldtimers game Round Hill vs Ryley
6:30 Final Game
Standings to June 20th:

	W	L	T	Pts
Shamrocks	7	0	0	14
Rebels	4	3	0	8
Roadrunners	3	4	0	6

Let's look at all sides

Grocery store operators, and butchers, have been put on the defensive in recent weeks, as consumers raised wrathful voices over the sudden and drastic rise in prices in many sectors.

So it was that the president of Institute recently discussed the situathe Canadian Grocery Distributors tion with a number of his members, and pointed out that, like every consumer, they're also vitally concerned about rising food prices, and they welcome any move to help slow down the current rate of inflation.

A point not often made is that most merchants are very reluctant to pass on price increases, or pass on the whole of it, fearing that business will be curtailed, and volume restricted.

The speaker suggested that if Ottawa is really serious about doing something about food prices, it should be prepared to take a good hard look at ALL the costs contributing to higher food prices. The grocery industry, the consumer and the government are not adversaries, he pointed out . . . they're partners. Each views the situation from a different perspective, but each is concerned with roughly the same appropriate response, which is one that will serve the interests of the consumer, one that will afford the producer and the food industry a reasonable profit, and which would thus make government restrictions unnecessary.

One thing which nobody expects to happen, but which might very well turn out to be the case if the Food Prices Review Board does an overall job, would be their discovery that really nobody is making a killing at current price levels . . . that the producer is only now getting reward commensurate with investment and input into the food he produces, that the processor is doing the best job he can at the cheapest price, and the distributors are making only a reasonable mark-up on the goods they handle.

It could be astonishing to hear this sort of thing, but the message that would have to come with it is that if the nation expects wages and salaries to rise at a more or less given rate every year, it's only logical to expect that food prices have to rise along with them. Price controls, market pressures and other factors can keep prices down only so long before they have to burst loose, and find their own level in a free economy.

Certainly prices have never been higher, but when we look at the fact that it took forty to fifty minutes worth of work to earn a pound of beefsteak twenty years ago for average wage earners, while today it probably averages between twenty-five and thirty-five minutes of work for the same pound, we really can't feel that prices have risen too far.

Truce team lessons

By PETER WARD

OTTAWA — Retrospective wisdom is, I suppose, the cheapest kind but perhaps it's not entirely valueless, when lessons can be learned from it.

I refer to the coy little dance of indecision performed by the government over the status of the Canadian contingent of the International Commission for control and Supervision of the Vietnam truce.

By the time External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp finally announced that Canada was through with ICCS games and would bring her truce team home we'd become quite a national laughing stock in many quarters.

Said an editor of one of the American newspaper I write for: "Canadian threats to pull out of Vietnam have become a standing joke around here. Let us know when you're really going to do something about it."

I submit that the cry wolf syndrome the government and Mr. Sharp displayed have seriously weakened Canada's future value in both international peace-keeping, and international peacemaking.

We did the right thing in sending off a contingent to the ICCS immediately the truce was signed on a temporary basis.

First mistake came when Sharp failed to have Canadian preconditions for truce team participation enscribed in the agreement detailing how the truce would work, during February. He and Canada should have been firm, and made it plain we would not serve unless our terms were met.

Next missed opportunity came when that ICCS helicopter was shot down in April, killing all nine on board. At that point, Canada should have immediately withdrawn all her truce team members to Saigon, and announced they would stay there for 15 days. If no satisfactory explanation for the shooting coupled with demonstrated good intentions from North Vietnam, the Viet Cong, the Americans and the South Vietnamese were forthcoming within that time we should have left there and then.

Instead we waffled. We extended our stay in Vietnam once at the end of March - and then when time finally came for the ultimate decision in late May, we couldn't even make a clean pull-out then.

The lesson to be learned? You can only bluff successfully when others don't think you're bluffing. Next time - if there is a next time - let's stick to our guns when we lay down sensible conditions for international boy scout service.

There's no sense trying to help a little old lady across the street if what she really has in mind is a fight with a Mack Truck.

THE NOMADIC GYPSY MOTH

Travellers wanting to help prevent the spread of the gypsy moth, a pest which kills trees by eating their leavs, shouldn't waste much more time.

The moth has been spreading through North America by laying eggs on camping gear and trailers which travel throughout the country.

An Agriculture Canada scientist suggests the undersides of campers, wheel wells and trailer hitches, and the insides of propane gas caps or gas bottle rims should be checked for egg masses before they hatch in the spring.

STRESS WHEEL FOR FORAGE NURSERIES

Foreign forage varieties hoping to make it good in Canada must now pass the stress wheel test developed by an Agriculture Canada scientist.

A planting design for test crops, the stress wheel resembles the spokes of a huge wheel with the rim removed. Plants in the centre of the wheel must compete for soil nutrients and moisture.

The stress wheel requires less land than the old testing method which used square-cornered plots and did not provide row spacing variations for more intense testing.

Taxes without revenue?

When it comes to income tax paying time in the spring of 1975 millions of Canadian men may receive an unpleasant jolt, says an observer of the Parliamentary scene in the East. The decision to increase youth allowances from the present average of $7.21 per child to $20 could produce whole new waves of anti-government feelings, especially among middleclass voters, and it could also strain many family relationships . . . to say nothing of family budgets.

If the plan goes into effect in January, as hoped, it means that during 1974 Canadian mothers will be receiving very substantially larger "baby bonus" cheques, which would make them all very happy. But the following spring, the nominal head of those families will receive T-4 slips showing that all this extra money had been received by them. The extra money goes on the top of the tax return, bearing income tax at the highest rate for the individual concerned.

The question is raised of what will happen when husbands find themselves taxed for money they've never seen. Will husbands insist that the youth allowance cheque go into the overall family budget? Will they, at the very least, insist on deducting the tax share before passing over the cheque made out in their wife's name.

Back in the last Parliament, apparently, when the government took steps to put the allowance on a need basis, they found they'd kicked over a political hornet's nest. Ministers and backbenchers were flooded with angry calls and letters. One senior minister recalled "We learned that for many women, whatever their family income, this was the only money that was their own, the only money for which they didn't have to ask their husbands. When we tried to take it away, they were furious."

Ironically, the government was saved from this wrath by Paul Hellyer, who stood alone in refusing to give unanimous consent to speedy passage of the legislation before the planned summer recess. While professing shock at his tactics, the Liberals on the inside were only too glad to let the bill die.

The question now is, does this new tax implication contain the seeds of renewed middle-class resentment against the federal government. If it explodes again, will there be one more last minute retreat? Or can a retreat be found even? Can Paul Hellyer save the government again, and if so, would he? It's a matter of some concern to many taxpayers, for at $20 per month the tax could easily range up the $80 to $100 bracket. And for a man with, say, five children, this could turn into quite a shocker at the 30th of April.

PRELIMINARY BERTHA ARMYWORM FORECAST 1973.

Preliminary pupal surveys carried out by the Alberta Plant Industry's entomologists indicate a potential bertha armyworm outbreak in rapeseed crops again this year.

According to R D Dixon, head of the Plant Industry Laboratory this preliminary survey could change between now and the third week in June when the moths emerge from the soil. Such factors as weather, parasites and disease could considerably change the picture by the next three weeks, he says. However, if the outbreak does occur, early indications show that it will be at least as heavy as last year and that it will be in the same general areas, but on a larger scale.

Mr. Dixon explains that this preliminary forecast is based on surveys of 51 fields across the province that were carried out last fall and early this spring. Ten square yard, nine inch-deep soil samples were taken from each field, making a total of 1,020 samples between the two surveys. The spring survey showed a winter pupal mortality rate of from 18 to 95 per cent, Mr. Dixon says.

Since the forecast is based on a regional rather than a individual field basis, rapeseed growers in areas marked for potentially heavy infestation will not necessarily be affected. However, their chances of being affected are higher than those of growers in other areas.

Mr. Dixon reports that entomologists will be putting light traps out across the entire potential infestation area of the province in early June to monitor the bertha armyworm moths as they emerge from the soil. Reports will be issued periodically to keep farmers informed of the situation.

About the middle of July a field observation survey, which will involve checking the fields for egg laying, hatching and worm development, will be carried out in the same area. This data will be used to draw up a final infestation map that will be made available to farmers through the press. In the meantime, the Alberta Department of Agriculture and municipalities are making arrangements for insecticides supplies and aircraft in case these should be used anywhere in the province.

WEEDS

A new service will be available to ratepayers this season in their war against weeds. In areas where a conventional farm sprayer cannot be used successfully (e.g. fence lines, slough and field margins, etc.) the County now has available a truck with a high pressure sprayer unit mounted, plus an operator. The "package" may be rented on a 60 - 40 per cent cost-sharing arrangement, with the County paying the lion's share. The total cost will be comprised of labor, truck rental and chemical. For an estimate of total cost for a given area, feel free to contact the Fieldman or Weed Inspector

PESTS

A close examination of shelterbelt trees should be made now, and throughout the summer to detect any insect damage. A portable high pressure sprayer unit is available from the County for insect spraying. The rental fee is $5.00 per day.

As I will be leaving the employ of the County of Beaver on or about June 30th, I would like to take this opportunity to thank the many ratepayers in the County for the cooperation I have received during the past three years in which I have served as Agricultural Fieldman.

TREE APPLICATIONS

Farmers wanting to order trees for 1974 planting should come in to the Extension Office, Ryley and obtain a list of the trees available. The Tree Nursery requires coding and typewritten applications which will be made out by our stenographer. The deadline for tree applications is November 1, 1973.

Trees will be supplied to farmers, free of charge for: (a) Farmstead shelterbelts (b) Field windbreaks, (c) Roadside hedges. All trees propagated at the Nurseries for establishing shelterbelts, will be supplied on a first come, first serve basis. The farmer agrees to the following: (a) To use the trees only for shelterbelt purposes as specified above, (b) Summerfallow the planting site and maintain the plantation at all times in a well cultivated condition, (c) Allow inspection of the planting site.

CHEMICAL SPRAYS

The chemical companies and distributors may have undersestimated requirements for low volatile Esters. Anyone who is planning brush spraying, etc., and are planning on using D. V. esters should attempt to secure supplies right away.

Here are a few good tips to follow in your weed spraying operations:

(a) Clean, repair and calibrate sprayer early in the season to ensure that it is ready when the weeds are.

(b) Treat early. Weeds are easier to kill when young and growing actively and early treatment removes competition to crop.

(c) Use the right herbicide for the particular weed problem. The choice depends on the kinds of weeds in the crop and the crop tolerance to the herbicide. Remember that buckwheat, lady's thumb, fleabane, hemp nettle, corn spurry, chickweed, scentless mayweed, etc. are not controlled by 2d and MCPA at safe crop tolerance levels. Section 3 and 5 are two examples of chemicals which should be used to control some of these unmentioned weeds. Do not mix chemicals unless directions are stated on label.

(d) Use enough herbicide to do the job. Avoid the common mistake of too little - "too late."

(e) Avoid spraying on windy days, particularly near susceptible crops.

(f) Spray equipment should be cleaned thoroughly after use or when changing to another herbicide. One quart of household

COTTAGE CHEESE SCOOPS

With summer upon us, you'll find a wide variety of uses for cottage cheese ... in appetizers, casseroles, cheese cakes, sandwich fillings and all sorts of salads. Cottage cheese has become a popular dairy food and Canadians are consuming 2 times as much as they did in 1956. Not only is it economical and versatile it's also high in protein and low in calories ... all important enough to put cottage cheese high in the food lists of smart homemakers

To make cottage cheese, skim milk is first pasturized, then cooled to "setting temperature" and coagulated by means of a culture. Sometimes rennet is added as well. The resulting curd is then cut into cubes and heated with careful stirring. When the curd is just the right firmness, the whey is drained off and the curd washed ... first with cool water then with ice water. Before packaging, 1 per cent salt is added. The size of the curd varies ... sometimes a very fine curd cheese is sold as Farmers Cottage Cheese.

There are two types of cottage cheese available ... Dry Cottage Cheese is drained curd, and Creamed Cottage Cheese has cream added to give a fat content of 4 per cent.

Diet watchers value creamy curd cottage cheese for its calcium and protein-packed goodness. There are 85 calories in one quarter cup dry cottage cheese, 65 calories in one quarter cup of cream of cottage cheese.

Unlike most cheese, cottage cheese doesn't ripen with age. So get it fresh and plan to use it up within 3 or 4 days of purchase. Always store in a covered container in the refrigerator, not the freezer ... freezing cottage cheese makes it tough and watery.

ammonia in 25 gallons of water is a good cleanser.

(g) Read and follow herbicide label instructions.

"Back-siphonage" is a problem which has come up several times in the past years. Back siphoning is the inadvertant reverse flow of water out of a tank through the hose being used to fill a container such as the sprayer tank. When a tank is being filled from a well, pond dugout, or stream by a hose connected to a pump, if the pump loses pressure, pesticides or herbicides in the tank can be siphoned back into the water source through the pump. This reverse flow can be prevented by installing a check valve in the line between the pump and spray tank or by leaving an air gap between the hose and the liquid level in the tank. For this the hose should be kept above the tip of the tank a distance equal to two times the diameter of the hose. Preventing this back-siphoning, water supplies for spraying operations will not be contaminated, eliminating danger of illness or even death to man and animals.

(signed) L. WILLANS,

OUR MODERN SOCIETY
requires many rules if it is to survive in a lawful and orderly manner. In the 67 years during which Alberta has been a Province, some of its laws have become complex, unwieldy and, possibly, to you, difficult to understand.

REGULATIONS
exist within our laws which require clarification, revision and consolidation. A Select Committee of the Legislative Assembly has recently been established to study the condition of Alberta Regulations and to report its findings to the Assembly.

Alberta regulations review

YOU ARE INVITED to participate in the work of the Committee. If you have particular concerns regarding certain Alberta Regulations, send them or your recommendations, in writing to the address below.

SUBMISSIONS POSTMARKED ON OR BEFORE JULY 9 1973
are assured of the Committee's considerations. If your recommendation is comprehensive and voluminous, and if copy facilities are readily available to you, a set of ten (10) copies would be appreciated.

ESTEMINE
Not a wonder herbicide. Just a super amine. Stays liquid longer for maximum penetration.

The problem with regular amines is crystal clear. They form bead-like droplets which crystalize on leaves before the chemical has time to penetrate satisfactorily.

Estamine is a non-volatile weed killer with all the safety features of regular amine but none of their problems.

It spreads instead of beading. And because it spreads, it covers a greater surface of the leaf, so more of it penetrates the weed where it can do most harm, and your crop the most good.

It will cost you a few pennies more per acre for weed control that's proven better than any 2,4-D or MCPA Amine weed killers you've ever used before.

Government grant for disability students

A Provincial grant to be used for identifying pupils with learning disabilies and for preparing instructional programs for them has been recently announced by the Minister of Education. Under terms of the Learning Disabilities Fund the grant is ten dollars for each elementary pupil in a school system. The pupils must be in grades one to six and must be identified by a qualified psychologist.

At its meeting on June 12th 1973 the School Committee of the County of Beaver approved a program that would see approximately sixty pupils tested on a date yet to be agreed upon in July. The pupils are to be referred by their teachers and are to be tested by a team of psychologists from the Faculty of Education, University of Alberta.

Pupils found to have learning disabilities will be given special instruction at their schools. It is expected that specialists in the field of learning disabilities will assist local teachers in developing the necessary instructional programs.

Children with learning disabilities have average or above average intelligence, but achieve well below the average of the class.

The schools have already identified some children that are suspected of having learning disabilities. Letters have been sent to parents of these children asking permission to have the pupils assesed in July.

Parents of children who believe that their children may suffer from some form of learning disability are asked to contact the principal of their school or Mr Randy Ness, Guidance Counsellor, Ryley. It is hoped that a full complement of sixty pupils will be available for assessment.

CLEAN UP

Clean-up day at Holden cemetery, was held Monday, June 18th with about 28 residents of Holden and district attending, and all doing a very good job of cleaning up the grounds and graves.

During the lunch hour the annual meeting was held with the minutes of the last annual meeting and a regular meeting June 9th read. It was noted that since the last clean-up day, ten residents of the district have been laid to rest. An oldtimer of the Holden district, Mr Bill Logan of Edmonton, was here to take part in the annual event. A very good financial report was given by the treasurer and it was passed that a new mower should be purchased and the old one cleaned and repaired. A new road at the side of the present one is to be made, as it is too small for the present snowplow to get through during winter. The election of officers for the ensuing year was held and a motion was passed unanimously that all officers be returned to office as follows: Pres. Lyle Grosland; vice-pres. Algot Hultholm, sec., Mrs. Beth Campbell; treas., Kathleen Hurum. Mr Hultholm was appointed as vice in place of Mr Ted Appleby who left Holden last year. Three-year directors: Jim Zwierschke, Charles Zwierschke, Adolph Laube and Algot Hultholm.

Two-year directors: Kathleen Hurum, Lloyd Clark, Arthur Olson and Melvin Carlson.

One-year directors: Otto Hurum, Charles Size, Ethel Brekstad and Selma Field.

A delicious lunch was enjoyed by all and coffee helped to warm the workers.

They have been working throughout the year to achieve their best. Crests are awarded on the basis of the level of achievement. The level reached in each of the six tests determines the award won — bronze, silver, gold or award of excellence.

On Monday, June 19th, they had the honor of being presented with their awards by the Lieut.-Governor, Grant MacEwan.

The highest level — the Award of Excellence — was won by three of the students: Barbara Harder in Grade 4, Michelle Erickson and Sandra Lochtie, Grade 5 students. Nine students won the Gold Awards, 13 Silver Awards, and 29 Bronze Awards.

Ryley's "Sports Day" termed huge success

by Lena Reil

The Ryley sports day got off to a great start under sunny skies last Saturday with a pancake breakfast that was enjoyed very much by the people who attended.

The parade which was led by two members of the Tofield RCMP detachment, dressed in scarlet uniforms, was quite short, but, due to postponement from a week ago, was still quite colorful.

The Camrose County Drum and Bugle Band, along with members of their majorettes, were very colorful and performed along the parade route as well as on the grounds and received many compliments from the community.

The Dayland Bag Pipers were also in attendance and were very colorful in entertaining in the parade as well as throughout the day on the grounds and other appearances.

Winners of the parade entries were:

Commercial: 1, Ryley Motors; 2, Ryley Hotel Cafe.

Non-commercial: 1, Ryley United Church Explorers; 2, Tofield hospital.

Bicycle entry: 1, Brenda Stolz; 2, Kevin Baranick.

The Ryley Curling Club and Ryley Lions Club, co-sponsors of this year's sports day would sincerely like to thank everyone that worked so faithfully at the grounds and to the many ladies of the community and surrounding district for their donations to the food booth.

Tofield gets historic chair

(by Grace Phillips)

Harold Ashdale, president of the Tofield Historical Society has announced the plans of the Historical Society for July 2nd. A float is being prepared and on it, still in its crate will be the chair presented to the Society by the Provincial Government. At the disbanding point of the parade, Dr. Walter Buck, MLA, will invest the chair and formally present it to the Society. Harold Schultz will accept the chair on behalf of the Society.

The chair, of solid oak and with a leather seat, was part of the furnishings of the Provincial Legislature Building in 1909. There were many such chairs for the members of the Legislature and these are now being given to historical societies and museums where they will be cherished as memenos of Alberta's past.

The Historical Society is cooperating with the RCMP in a display in the Arena. The RCMP will be demon-

Wheat Pool extends program of bursaries

An expanded program of bursaries and scholarships for rural students is being offered this year by the Alberta Wheat Pool.

In honor of the former well known farm leader and long-time president, the Pool has added to its educational assistance program, the "Ben S. Plumer Bursaries." Last year the number of bursaries for rural students was increased from two to four, and the number of scholarships in household economics was raised from three to four. This year the number of Henry Wise Wood Bursaries has been increased from six to fourteen.

Following is a review of bursaries and scholarships available from the Pool to rural young people.

Alberta Wheat Pool Bursaries For Rural Students

Valued at $500.00 per year, for up to five years of undergraduate study, these are tenable at any university in Alberta or affiliated college. They are open to high school graduates whose parents are actively engaged in farming; preference will be given to students entering the Faculty of Agriculture or School of Household Economics. Applications should be made by July 15th to Administrators of Students Awards at respective universities or colleges.

Four scholarships are offered annually, valued at $200.00 each. One award each for entrance to the first, second, third and fourth years of Household Economics. Applicants must have been members of the 4-H Homemaking Clubs. Applications should be made by July 15th to the Supervisor of 4-H Clubs, C.N Tower Building Edmonton.

Two bursaries each at the Northern and Southern Institutes of Technology valued at $200 each are available for first year students whose parents derive the major portion of their income from farming in Alberta and the B.C. Peace River Block. Applications should be made to the Registrar at NAIT or SAIT.

Announce dates for Agriculture Week

Dr. Hugh Horner, Minister of Agriculture for Alberta has announced that Agriculture Week this year will be held from October 7 to October 13. The purpose of Agriculture Week will be to focus attention upon the contributions to society and to the economy made by the agricultural industry, as a whole, and by farm families in particular.

Many planned activities are yet to be announced, but it is hoped that through both rural and urban involvement, an understanding and appreciation of agriculture and its products can be achieved from the consumer level to the producer level. During Agriculture Week, appointments to the Agriculture Hall of Fame will be officially announced; nominations are at present being received by the Department. One day during Agriculture Week will be specifically designated as Farm Family Day

Sunday dances permitted on July 1

July 1st will be more open for public dancing than it has been in the past. Changes in the regulations under the Provincial Amusements Act, dealing with Sundays that fall on July 1st, were announced last Friday by Alberta's Manpower and Labor department.

Section 4 of the regulations has in the past prohibited public dancing on Sundays falling on July 1st, but the new amendments now permit public dancing between the hours of 9 p.m. on Sunday and 2 a.m. on the following Monday, where July 1st falls on a Sunday. The amendments were approved by the provincial cabinet.

ESTEMINE
Not a wonder herbicide. Just a super amine. Stays liquid longer for maximum penetration.
The problem with regular amines is crystal clear.
They form bead-like droplets which crystalize on leaves before the chemical has time to penetrate satisfactorily.
Estamine is a non-volatile weed killer with all the safety features of regular amine but none of their problems.
It spreads instead of beading. And because it spreads, it covers a greater surface of the leaf, so more of it penetrates the weed where it can do most harm, and your crop the most good.
It will cost you a few pennies more per acre for weed control that's proven better than any 2,4-D or MCPA Amine weed killers you've ever used before.

Mollie Conn retires from Tofield School

by Grace Phillips

On the occasion of her retirement from the teaching profession, Mrs. Mollie Conn was honored recently by the members of the Tofield sub-local of the ATA at a tea held in the library of the Tofield School. Mrs. Conn's daughter, Mrs. Beth Blowers of Edmonton, was present to share the occasion with her mother. In addition to the teachers and their spouses, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Bruce and Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Sears were present.

Beginning the afternoon's program, Mrs. Ingram, president of the Tofield sub-local 1, pinned on Mrs. Conn a corsage of red roses. K. R. Eastlick, principal of the Tofield School, recalled many incidents involving Mrs. Conn during the 12 years she has been a member of the Tofield staff and extolled the many fine qualities, both personal and professional, she has shared with her collegues during the years. He hoped that in her retirement, she would have the time to indulge to the full her love of painting at which she is so accomplished.

Mrs. Ingram, on behalf of the teachers on the Tofield staff, presented Mrs. Conn with a piece of Ikora silver, suitably engraved. For the Beaver local of the ATA, the 1972-1973 president, Ron Taylor, presented the guest of honor with a wrist watch. Charlie Sears, School Committee member for this area, gave Mrs. Conn the County's gift of a clock. Mrs. Ingram, Mr. Taylor and Mr. Sears all spoke warmly of Mrs. Conn's association with the school, the ATA and the County.

Thanking the group of friends and teachers, Mrs. Conn spoke of her pleasure in having been on the Tofield staff for the past 12 years which was a third of her total teaching career. She expressed her appreciation of the many kindnesses she has received while living in Tofield. Her association with the staff had been most pleasant; in particular, she mentioned the help and understanding received from the principal, Mr. Eastlick, over the years.

Mrs. Conn will be moving early in July to Lord Byron Place in Edmonton; she extended a cordial invitation to all her friends to visit here there.

A social hour followed the presentations, with lunch served by the social committee, Mrs. M. Everitt, Miss J. Christensen, Mrs. Y. Allan, Mrs. A. Taylor and Mr. J. C. Lampitt.

TIME FOR A CHANGE

Tofield, June 26th

Dear Sir:

We are about to celebrate another July 1st in Tofield. The citizens are again being asked to enter floats, decorated cars etc., in a 'mammoth' parade, for which the prizes offered will be a mere plaque or ribbon, which has been their custom for many, many years.

The committees responsible must realize that a lot of time, effort and money go into these and more recognition should be given. They wonder why the entries have fallen in recent years—could this be the answer? What incentive do the children have for decorating their trikes and bicycles?

Our smaller neighboring communities see fit to give substantial monetary awards for their winners. How about it, Tofield Community Sports Day Committee?

Inflation is here to stay, its time for a change.

Danilak-Ronnie vows pledged in early summer ceremony

A lovely early summer wedding was held Saturday, June 2nd at the Holden Ukrainian Greek Catholic Church when Audrey Jane Ronnie, daughter of Mr and Mrs Harry Ronnie became the bride of Dennis Carl Danilak son of Mr and Mrs Joe Danilak all of Holden, with Father Zachariasevych officiating at the ceremony.

The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father, looked lovely in a white floor length princess styled gown, highlighted by an Empire waistline, long sleeves and stand-up collar. A long train fell gently from the waistline and to complement her dress, she wore a waist length veil held in place with a head-piece of white daisies. Her bouquet was of red roses.

Her bridesmaids, Melanie Hammer of Viking, friend of the bride and Annette Alseth, a cousin wore identical floor length pink floral gowns with green velvet ribbons around the waist, and having short puffed sleeves and high collars. They carried bouquets of pink and white carnations and wore pink ribbons in their hair.

The groom was attended by Jerome Stefanizyn and Dwayne Tkaczyk, both friends of the groom, all wearing black suits, the groom with a white shirt with front ruffles, the groomsmen with similar shirts in pink all having black bow ties.

The mother of the bride wore a floor length mauve floral gown with a corsage of red roses.

The groom's mother chose a sand fortrel dress and wore a corsage of white roses with pink ribbons.

A reception for 90 guests was held at Polska Hall. The bride's table was centered with a three tiered wedding cake which had been made by the bride's mother and beautifully decorated by Mrs Charles Zwerschke.

Allan Zwerschke was master of ceremonies for the evening.

Bob Nichols of Sundre gave the toast to the bride to which the groom suitably responded.

Following the reception, a dance was held in Polska Hall at which a large crowd of friends, neighbours and relatives attended. The music for dance being supplied by John Bilyk and his Serenaders.

The happy couple are residing in Holden where the groom is employed.

Out-of-town guests were from Edmonton, Sundre, Westlock, Camrose, Viking, Bawlf, Olds, Wainwright and Daysland.

Tofield grade nines receive certificates

Grade Nine Diplomas and Canadian Certificates were presented to the 1973 graduates from the Tofield Junior High School on Monday in the drama room of the Tofield School.

The drama room was decorated for the occasion by the Grade Eight girls in streamers and flowers of pink, blue and white. The themes chosen for graduation, "You're on Your Way" and "Follow Your Dream" were placed on large wall panels in silver letters.

Denise Eastlick, president of the Big 3, called on Greg Reil to propose the toast to Queen Elizabeth II, and on John Blades to say grace. The banquet followed, served by Glenda Boettger, Betty Weins, Darlene Rude, Wendy Watson, Francie Baergen, Alice Villeneuve, Ilene Francis, Debbie Jacobson and Joanne Van Buskirk.

Following the banquet, Barry Jones, Grade Eight student and vice-president of the Big 3, proposed the toast to the graduates to which Michael Warner replied. Debbie Walker proposed the toast to the teaching staff and J. C Lampitt replied. Alice Villineuve read a poem containing good wishes from the Grade Eights to Grade Nines, and Wendy Watson in another poem, expressed the feelings of the staff for the graduates. Mr. M.S. Bruce, Superintendent of Schools for the County of Beaver, wished the graduates success in the future.

K.R. Eastlick, principal, distributed to the forty graduates their Grade Nine Diplomas awarded by the Department of Education.

Members of the drama class taught by S. Hulkovich during the past then year provided some entertainment through an original skit on the subject of school.

His Honor, Judge Orval Allen of the Canadian Court of Citizenship, assisted by his secretary, Miss Elizabeth Thibeault spoke about the importance of good citizenship and administered the pledge of Canadian Citizenship certificates which were presented by him.

The Grade Eight girls were thanked by Mrs Phillips and applauded by the audience for their excellent job of decorating and serving.

Farmers offered guaranteed loan

The Alberta Agricultural Development Corporation has initiated a $50,000 Guaranteed Loan Program to develop rural Alberta and viable family farms and agricultural businesses and to complement programs already offered through regular lenders. Loans with lower interest rates and less restricted security policies will be made available to young farmers for expansion and development of new agricultural businesses and for debt consolidation.

The maximum amount of any loan will be $50,000 for a maximum of ten years, except for machinery and equipment, at one percent over prime. They are available to primary producers of agricultural products who farm or intend to farm and obtain approval from the lender. The borrower may apply directly to the lender of his or her choice.

Two specific programs are the Dairy Development Program which guarantees loans for constructing, altering or repairing buildings, permanent improvements of facilities, purchasing equipment and purchasing a milk quota and the Native Range Assistance Program, which provides money for reseeding, brush control, fence construction, drainage construction, poisonous plant and range weed control and trails to improve animal access. The Guaranteed Certificate Program can be used to consolidate loans, while a Future Farmers Program allows youth between the ages of twelve and eighteen to undertake approved rural projects.

Further information can be obtained from any district agriculturist.

And, last but not least in this series of articles is dairy Sour Cream. Dairy Sour Cream is also labelled Commercial Sour Cream or Soled Cream

However, it is merely a cousin of the old style sour cream our grandmothers made. At that time, unsaturated heavy sweet cream, it allowed to stand in a warm place would become sour. But that method did not give the same consistent product. As the souring process advanced, the cream went lumpy and watery and usually developed off-flavors and odors

Now-a-days, sour cream is prepared in a dairy from fresh pasteurized cream of 14 - 18 per cent milk fat. A lactic acid culture is added to the cream and under controlled conditions the flavor and the consistency are developed. When the cream is ready, it is chilled to stop the action of the bacteria. The resulting cream has a custard-like consistency and tangy flavor that is quite different from home soured cream

Dairy sour cream, stored in a covered container in the refrigerator, will keep about one week as its days. Freezing is not recommended. Dairy sour cream is available in half-pint and pint size containers

Sour cream has been a favorite of Europeans and Asians in meat and vegetable cookery and for taste-tempting desserts. Now that Continental dishes, such as Beef Stroganoff and our old favorite Pytrohi served with sour cream and fried onions, have become popular we now recognize sour cream as a gourmet's delight

Here is an idea for that summer party you're planning! Dips make for fun at any party especially if you give them a new twist. Why not offer an assortment of seasonal fruit and serve chilled fruit on platter. Include melon balls, fresh whole strawberries, cubes of pineapple, grapes, cherries and any other favorites. Have some small bowls filled with dairy sour cream and others filled with brown sugar; close to the fruit platter. Using toothpicks dip fruit in sour cream then roll in brown sugar. Mmmmm . . . delicious!

PUBLISHED WEEKLY AT TOFIELD, ALBERTA

Tofield's Sports Day is successful

Under skies which cleared just in time, Tofield's Canada Day celebration was an outstanding success. Beginning with the dance on Saturday night and ending with the last ball game on Monday, all the planned events went off successfully.

The dance conducted by the Uniform Dance committee was held for the first time in the Tofield Arena and drew a record crowd, approximately 300. Jensen's orchestra supplied the music. A buffet supper was served by the committee.

The parade on Monday was the largest ever on Tofield's annual sport's day. Some sixty entries as well as the Anfrosan Marching Band and the Shriners' Band, were led by two members of the local R.C.M.P. detachment dress uniform. Three other "Mounties" were on two of the floats in the parade. Members of the Tofield branch of the Canadian Legion, and of the Legion Frontiersmen as well as the colorfully clad members of the Beaverhills Light Horse Association lengthened and gave variety to the parade which, directed by parade marshal, Art Francis, took a new and longer route this year, disbanding near the home of Dr. and Mrs. Price. At this point, the judges made their final decisions and the cups and ribbons were presented to the winners by Tofield's mayor, Dr. W.H. Freebury. Parade judges were Mrs. K.R. Eastlick, Mrs. Walter Buck, and George Baker. The winners were:

Commercial Float: (1) Royal Alex Hotel; (2) Robinson's Stores; (3) Verner's Bakery.

Non - Commercial Float: (1) Old Timers; (2) Garden Club; (3) Historical Society.

Out-of-town Entry: (1) Ryley Motors; (2) Shrine Club.

Commercial Car — Alvin Narhigal.

Non - Commercial Car — Marie Worten.

Youth Novelty: (1) Laurie Tran; (2) Trevi Jackson.

Adult Novelty: (1) The Two Asses; (2) Mrs. Campbell.

Group of Horse: (1) Beaverhills Light Horse Ass'n.; (2) Bill and Marilyn Davison.

Special Mention: (1) Tofield Library; (2) Antique Car, Julius and Selma Lerbekmo.

Bicycles: (1) Howard Koop; (2) Barbara Barton; (3) Lorna Voltner

Single Horse and Rider: (1) Brad Telford; (2) Miss McLeod.

The Citizen of the Year award sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce was presented to the winner, Bert Clark, by Dr. Freebury who introduced Mr. and Mrs. Clark to the crowd. The historic chair presented to the Tofield Historical Society by the Provincial Government, was unveiled and put in charge of the society by Dr. Walter Buck, M.L.A.

On the Exhibition Grounds, meanwhile, the baseball tournament was underway. Bardo defeated Tofield 2-0 in the first game and went on to win the tournament by defeating Camrose 1-0 in the final game.

The Little League ball was played on the east diamond. The Tofield Parrots and Peacocks, coached by Ray Pittet and John Saergren respectively played the first game, with the Peacocks winning 14-13. The Orioles coached by Vern Walker defeated the Meadowlarks coached by Alan Warner 18-1. The Tofield Bantams coached by Ed Williams and Pat Donnan defeated the Looma Bantams 14-5. Umpires were Jack Francis, Charlie Sears, Johnny Olsen and John Saergren.

The booth run by the Tofield Curling Club and the Pop Booth run by the 4-H Club did a brisk business all day as did the concession in the Arena.

The Beaverhills Light Horse Association offered a gymkhana and a trail competition for the entertainment of the spectators, the results of which will appear elsewhere in the Mercury.

The Tofield Historical Society was host to Old Timers. 114 Old Timers signed the guest book, received ribbons and had coffee while they reminisced about old times and viewed the display put on by the Society; President of the Society, Harold Schultz, assisted by other members of the Society welcomed the guests.

The handicraft display arranged by Mrs. Mabel Boyles and Mrs Irma Francis, attracted many interested people. The exhibits included original paintings, carvings, several examples of string art, heirloom quilts and blankets, embroidery, knitted articles, petit point pictures, rugs, dolls and needle point.

The Garden Club's exhibit of flowers was judged by Mrs. Durie, Home Economist. It featured African violets, roses, and flower arrangements, a cactus garden and miniature flower arrangements. Mrs. Theone Jones and Mrs. Marie Mitchell were in charge.

The Tofield Detachment of the RCMP had a display in the Arena relevant to their work at the present time as well as figurines of Mounties in uniforms of earlier times.

The gate receipts were the highest ever taken in on a Tofield Sports' Day. The gate prize, drawn by Petra Stauffer, was won by Mrs. Olaf Anderson; the 75 Silver Dollars Raffle conducted by the Tofield Chamber of Commerce was won by Lloyd Ferguson, Mrs. Stauffer again drawing the winning name. Powerline's playoffs are now underway

In the Powerline League Thursday, June 28th, it was Bardo over Camrose 12-6, while Tofield gained fifth place by beating the Round Hill North Stars 18-1.

The win by Tofield was not good enough as the Lions missed the playoffs along with the North Stars.

On Tuesday in Ryley, the regular schedule was completed as Viking took out Ryley 10-3. Lace Mertz was credited with the Viking win, while Gordon Booth was tagged with the loss. Booth was removed early in the game in favor of Vern Likeness who finished the game.

The playoffs will get underway on Thursday with Camrose travelling to Viking, while second place Bardo will host Ryley in Bardo.

The series will resume on Tuesday night in Camrose and Ryley.

Rutherford House opened to public as historic site

Rutherford House Historic Site, located at 11153 Saskatchewan Drive in Edmonton, is now open to the public. It is an unusual kind of historic site for Alberta, being a gracious home refurnished in the style of the early Twentieth century, which visitors can explore.

Rutherford House, built in 1911, was the home of Alexander Cameron Rutherford, the first premier of the Province of Alberta. Mr. Rutherford was among the founders of the University of Alberta and its chancellor from 1927 to 1941, so that Rutherford House was for many years a social center for the campus.

The house has been restored and landscaped by the Alberta Public Works, and its refurnishing is underway by staff of the Human History Division of the Provincial Museum and Archives. The house is in the process of being restored in the style of the period of 1910-20, with as many of the original contents as the PHAA is able to obtain. It is hoped that through the assistance of the public that this museum will acquire sufficient furnishings to restore many of the rooms to completion. A formal opening is planned for September, the anniversary of Mr. Rutherford's inauguration as premier in 1905.

Rutherford House Historic Site will be open to the public daily between the hours of 10:00 am and 6:00 p.m., with guides in attendance to conduct people through the rooms.

Pleads not guilty on locomotive theft

Bruce Bantly of Banff, Alberta, a former steam locomotive repairman with the Canadian Pacific Railway was fired from his job for going for a can of beer. According to the Toronto Star's Lotta Dempsey, about 20 years ago, Bruce who had a keen thirst for a beer, "borrowed" a large steam locomotive and drove it to Canmore, about 50 miles down the line. When the engine arrived back at Banff station, pushed by a scheduled passenger train, Bruce was arrested and charged with theft. In court he pleaded not guilty. "How come?" asked the judge. "Well your honor," he explained, "theft means removal and that locomotive never left CPR property. The case was dismissed, but I was fired the next day," Bruce said.

Importing gets easier

After a three-year review, Department of National Revenue has unveiled changes in import entry procedures to be tested this September in Montreal. The Financial Post reports. The most striking change is that the collection of duties will no longer be handled at the port of entry. When an import arrives in Canada, it will be checked by customs officers - called appraisal examiners - to ensure that no importer sneaks something into the country which transgresses the governments rules. Ray Bannon, National Revenue official, told the recent annual conference of the Canadian Importers Associa tion in Toronto. If all the regulations are met, the goods will be released immediately to the importer (providing he has a bond or deposit with the national revenue department) or his customs broker. No payment of taxes or duties will be necessary at that time The changes - - which apply only to commercial goods valued at $300 or more - - are the result of efforts by the revenue department to streamline its operations.

WEED TESTED AGAINST BERTHA ARMYWORM

Experiments by Agriculture Canada scientists in Saskatoon, Sask., show bertha armyworm would rather lay its eggs on a weed called lamb's quarters than on rapeseed or flax.

Farmers in the area are planting lamb's quarters around small rapeseed plots to see if the moths can be distracted to lay their eggs in the weed they seem to prefer, rather than fly over the border and lay their eggs in the rapeseed.

STACK SILOS

A one-ton type of horizontal, plastic-covered silo is getting attention in Quebec. Developed by Eric Comeau, superintendent of Agriculture Canada's Experimental Farm at Ste-Anne-de-la-Pocatiere, the silo is designed so silage fermentation begins as soon as possible

Water in the sun

The waves rippling in the sun make a pretty picture, but many farmers in the Round Hill area weren't taking time to marvel at the beauty on Monday, as hundreds of thousands of gallons of rainwater tried to pour through checked culverts. The culvert above, near the Karol Ilnicki farm about 12 miles northeast of Camrose is trying to drain about 15 acres of land owned by Mr. Ilnicki and W. Kalowsky which is about twelve to eighteen inches under water.

(Mrs. Jim Roddick)

Friends and neighbors of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alex McSparran were pleased to hear of the purchase recently of their farm and homestead, by Mr. and Mrs. Albert Horricks. The McSparrans lived there for many years in pioneer days, then moved to Edmonton for sometime. They returned to the farm where they stayed until they passed on. Their son, Alex owned the farm for a few years, selling it to the Horricks. Albert is a grand son of the McSporrans. Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Horricks and Stephen moved out to the farm on June 2nd, this making a fourth and fifth generation of family possession as Clifford is the eldest son of the Albert Horricks.

LADIES CLUB MEETING

Fourteen club members and one visitor, Mrs. Edith Piper of Edson gathered at the hall for the June meeting on Wednesday June 13th. Roll call was answered by our impressions of the recent Strawberry Tea. Mrs. A. Ferguson gave her report on the tea and believes it was the most successful one to date. Mrs. Ralph Leach told of the progress of the picnic. The meeting for July will be held at the local camp site and roll call will be "My Holiday Plans." Mrs. Alice Witford enjoyed a June birthday, a box of chocolates and birthday card being sent to her. Hostesses for lunch were Mrs. Liz. Clement, Mrs. Baden Bowerman and Mrs. Joe Davenport.

ESTEMINE
Not a wonder herbicide. Just a super amine. Stays liquid longer for maximum penetration.

The problem with regular amines is crystal clear.

They form bead-like droplets which crystalize on leaves befor the chemical has time to penetrate satisfactorily.

Estamine is a non-volatile weed killer with all the safety features of regular amine but none of their problems.

It spreads instead of beading. And because it spreads, it covers a greater surface of the leaf, so more of it penetrates the weed where it can do most harm, and your crop the most good.

It will cost you a few pennies more per acre for weed control that's proven better than any 2,4-D or MCPA Amine weed killers you've ever used before.

Ryley ousts Athletics in league semi-finals

The Ryley Rebels gained a bit of revenge as they downed Barde two games straight.

Just a year ago, the same Ryley Rebels lost 2 straight to Barde as the Athletics won the championship.

Thursday night in Barde, the visiting Rebels clobbered the hometown Athletics 16-1. It was Ryley's first win over Barde in six attempts. Ralph Berke picked up the win, his sixth this year. Carl Nelson was tagged with the loss. Vern Likowa hit a two-run homer in the fourth.

At Ryley Recreation Park on Tuesday, the Rebels continued their winning ways as they bombed the Athletics 13-3. Ralph Berke was again credited with the win while Derrill Reil was tagged with the loss. Roger Oelund hit a three-run homer in the first inning. Berke has to be rated a star of the series as he pitched both games and held the hard-hitting Athletics to only seven runs.

In Viking, the hometown Shamrocks found out they can be beaten as they suffered their first loss as they romped 12 to the Camrose Rondrunners. Viking went the entire season without a loss. Southpaw Verlyn Olson picked up the win while John Andrukow took the loss.

Viking travels to Camrose on Thursday night for game number two, and should a third game be necessary, it will be played in Viking next Tuesday. The winners will play Ryley for the championship.

A guessing contest on "yearling bulls' weight was and Fred Rutzicki. The bull won by Mrs. Jim Holroyes and Fred Rutzicka. The bull weighed 1135 lbs.

The inter-club banquet was held in the Community Hall at 6:30 p.m. A delicious roast beef and turkey supper was served by the Roman Catholic Ladies' Aid. Guest speaker for the evening was Mr. Mervyn Jaque, Director of 4-H and Junior Forest Wardens, who showed slides and talked about 4-H and living conditions in Kenya, where he had recently visited.

Miss Lorna Grinde entertained with a piano solo which was enjoyed by all.

Games were played, a few songs taught and general organizing took place. On Tuesday morning, Show and Tell was held with each child showing or telling something of interest.

With the theme being Safety Week the art session turned into a class of making and displaying traffic signs. A couple of very short nature and traffic hikes were taken.

Future N-ws

A penny carnival is being planned for Tuesday, July 17, weather permitting. This will be on the school grounds.

Volunteers are still needed as, if you donated a bit of your time and talent, it would be deeply appreciated.

Analyze first

Too often the headlines in the daily papers refer to an investigation of a government financed manufacturing, mining or development project. Sometimes a province has money invested; sometimes it is in financial difficulties because of misjudgment or mismanagement.

The headlines draw attention to a tendancy for businesses to be started or encouraged without sufficient study or demonstrated need. At this time the Government of Alberta is advocating substantial increases in numbers of processing and manufacturing plants, which reflects the need for dependable feasibility studies and attractive long-[illegible]

It would be unfortunate if malting facilities, rapeseed, processors, alfalfa blending plants or meat packing plants which were established in Alberta in the 1970's were to find themselves in an uneconomic position by 1980, strapped with debt and unable to compete because of a high cost structure. The way to avoid headlines such as those mentioned at the beginning of this article is to do the homework first, obtain the development funds at an attractive rate of interest and project the price of the product sale accurately. The time for these studies is before the deal is sealed.

We emphasize that Alberta needs developmental projects. Processing plants will need to be built, manufacturing facilities should be established, but they should be soundly based and proven. They should be provided with efficient management before the infusion of provincial or federal capital. In an industry which exemplifies the need for good management, we must not let ourselves be carried away in the flush of high intentions and enthusiasm.

WRONG INFORMATION IN EDITORIAL

Tofield, Alberta

The Editor,
Tofield Mercury
Sir:

Your editorial in the June 28th issue regarding railway closures requires additional comments. The railways wouldn't forgive you for one error. The line that runs from Stettler through Ferlow Junction to Dinosaur is a C.N.R. line not a C.P.R. line as you stated. And, of course, it follows that it was the C.N.R. rather that the C.P.R. which received the payment of $258,100.

The fact is also mentioned that the CNR didn't receive payments on some lines — although a loss had been claimed. A little further research would have revealed the reason. It really isn't a complicated explanation either.

It was stated in the editorial that certain lines should remain open. The lines that are mentioned fall into two different categories or far as the Canadian Transport Commission is concerned. All branch lines, at this point in time are either protected or unprotected. Those that are protected receive this status via an order-in-council (in other words a cabinet decision). These lines are protected until January 1, 1975 or perhaps to state it different December 31, 1974 which isn't that far off.

In Alberta there are 319 miles of unprotected branch lines. Applications have been filed by the railroads involved to abandon this trackage. The applications have been filed to the Canadian Transport Commission. Included in the unprotected branch lines are three branch lines in this area; namely Camrose Jct. to Ryley; Haight Jct. to the Vegreville Jct.; and from Tofield to Barlee Jct. All three lines are CPR. These lines could be closed down at any time. The applications are now in the hands of the C.T.C.

By the tone of the editorial I have to assume that the writer thinks these lines should be left open. I don't think it's that simple. You seem to state in your editorial that the figures and statistics that the railroads use are ones picked by them for their own advantage. All costing on branch lines must follow very exact rules set down by the Canadian Transport Commission more specifically costing order RC6313. In other words the railroads are told how to cost every item. All data concerning losses on branch lines is public information. It can be obtained from the C.T.C.

On the three lines mentioned above, the CNR claimed a loss of $115,520. Who pays it? The Government of Canada pays it. But believe it or not, somebody has got to pay the government. Payments to the railroads to December 31st, 1972 amounted to over 30 million dollars. Don't forget that the government had to get this money from some place.

But perhaps the root of the whole problem is this. Are the railroads losing money on these lines because of an inefficient branch line network or because of the statutory rate on grain movement for export in Canada. Perhaps both are the reasons.

But the fact remains that these pending railroad closures are only a small part of a very large problem that is grain handling and transportation in Canada. A number of persons would have all think that everything is very fine. I don't agree. Sure the system moved close to a billion bushels of grain last year. Certainly it's an achievement but when this has been argued why don't these persons look at the costs. I mean total costs. It's staggering. Those who pat themselves on the back for such a fine country elevator system should look ahead just five years. Look at the cost projections for the country elevator system and see if you don't become concerned.

I can't agree with the editor when he says that these lines should remain open. Why should they remain open? I've yet to hear any logical arguments from any one why they should remain open. Perhaps the only convincing argument comes from the railroads themselves as to why they should remain open - even though they've applied to abandon them.

This whole question is being studied at the present moment by all those involved in grain handling and transportation in Canada. Something has to be done. The problems must be solved - and they will be, but I'm sure not to the satisfaction of all concerned.

Kenneth A. Appleby,
Producer Representative for Alberta Grain Handling and Transportation Committee, Canada Grains Council.

"LOOK CLOSER"

Tofield, Alberta

Editor, Tofield Mercury
Dear Sir

Although I'm sure your editorial of June 28 concerning the abandonment was written with best of intentions, I'm afraid your conclusions were based on somewhat faulty information. I think you are a victim of a very successful propaganda campaign by the grain companies (including our farmer owned ones), in which all the blame for the faults of our grain handling system are placed squarely on the railroads.

I'm not sure if your figures are completely correct but, you were right in saying the railroads have applied for subsidies on many branch lines - subsidies which are paid in some cases and not paid in others. However, Mr. Editor, you were wrong in assuming that these same branch lines and the elevators situated on them are responsible for record grain sales. For I say, record grain movements last year (and possibly this) were made more in spite of our present handling system than because of it.

The railways will admit many of their low freight lines are uneconomical and so would like to abandon them - and no one can convince me that a railroad is making money by tying up men and machinery to haul 10 rickety old grain cars out of Kingman once a month or even once a week. But what the grain companies won't admit is that many of the elevators on the branch lines the railroads want to close are not making any money either. It seems to be a case of keeping uneconomic rail lines open to serve uneconomic elevators, while forcing me, the producer, to pay for the inefficiency of an outdated grain handling system.

So, before we all get on the handwagon and condemn the railroads for trying to make a profit maybe we should take a good hard look at the rest of the system. I think the producers and the elevator companies had better make some improvements in their respective pats of the system before they point their fingers too strongly at the railroads. Who knows maybe a few changes will make us all more money.

Yours truly,
J. William Sears

Themes from tapestry era are revived today

Today's great revival of tapestry work and other needle crafts shows a lively interest in sacred subjects, just as many of the famous tapestries of the past were devout treatments of Biblical themes, including the Nativity and the Adoration of the Magi.

Tapestry work itself has a long and fascinating history, as modern weavers and embroiderers are discovering. It is defined as a hand-woven, patterned fabric in which the weaver shapes one area of color at a time. Basically a simple technique, which can be accomplished even on primitive looms, such weaving has been done ever since early antiquity.

The oldest tapesty work known to us is Egyptian, where some of the cloth found in timbs was patterned with lotus flowers and hieroglyphics. A comprehensive history would trace it through pre-Christian times to the fine silk hangings made in Byzantium and adapted from there by Islamic artists—plus the parallel development in the Far East, where tapestries were made by the Chinese and Japanese. But our own tradition is derived from the European, which has produced such exquisite work.

Although the most dramatic examples are large pictorial wall hangings, tapestry has been used for many other purposes, such as covers, cushions, and upholstery . . . just as today's craftsmen make chair covers in needlepoint.

Wool is the most frequently used fiber, though details are often done with silk or even gold or silver—and some tapestries have been produced entirely in silk.

Large pictorial tapestries were generally made by a team of weavers, the most skillfull of whom specialized in faces. They worked from a full size design or cartoon, made by a professional designer, which was traced in outline on the warp or vertical threads.

Tapestries used as wall hangings found a wide acceptance in mediaeval Europe - they gave warmth and color to the stark stone walls of castles and other interiors, and they were a type of furnishing easily movable from one location to another.

CRUSADES INSPIRED EUROPEANS

The earliest wool tapestries in Western Europe date from the 12th and 13th centuries - - when the Crusades had made Europeans familiar with the tapestries of the East. The first professional tapestry workshop in Paris was established about 1283. The earliest surviving product of that workshop is a group of tapestries showing scenes from the Apocalypse, now in the Museum of Tapestries in Angers, France. Others from the same perios include one called "Nine Heroes," now in The Cloisters in New York, and the "Presentation of Christ in the Temple," which is in Brussels. All of these reflect the style of the Franco-Flemish painting and book illumination of the late 14th Century – a composition in tiers and backgrounds covered with initials or flowers

Revolutionary Machine Manufactured in Edmonton

A machine that could revolutionize the lives of millions of people in the sugar cane areas of the world is now being manufactured in Edmonton, Alberta.

It all started about 10 years ago when Ted Tilby and Bob Miller, both Edmontonians, were invited to accompany a friend to Antigua in the West Indies. At that time they were partners in a prefabricating building company that was also experimenting with wood fibre building materials. Ted Tilby had already invented a machine that would make structural insulating boards from wood fibres or cane bagasse. However, the process was expensive because of the high cost of fibre, and the fact that the many adhesives available today were only just coming on the market at that time.

On the chance of picking up some good business prospects, it was decided that Bob Miller should accompany his friend to Antigua. A tour of the Antigua sugar factory was arranged during the visit, and being very "fibre conscious" at that time, it was only natural that Mr. Miller should bring back some pieces of sugar cane with the idea of removing and shredding the cane rind for use in the wood fibre processing machine. Neither he nor Mr. Tilby knew anything about sugar processing, but both were very interested in the rind for building materials.

The problem was how to separate the rind from the pithy centre of the cane. It is this pithy centre that contains the sugar. The conventional method of processing sugar cane is to remove the sugar bearing juice by crushing the cane. The dead, known as bagasse, is normally burned as fuel. This process, however, renders the rind useless for the production of structural materials and recovery from the bagasse for other uses is expensive. The separation process, on the other hand, removes the valuable rind intact from the cane.

Primitive equipment was set up in Antigua to demonstrate the principles of the process and a very extensive patent search was instituted. The partners were also able to hire the services of the Research Council of Alberta in the early stages of the project to help with feasibility studies regarding the use of by-products.

The overwhelming task of inventing and developing a system of machinery to handle, clean and separate the masses of cane on an economically feasible basis fell to Ted Tilby and his team of experts. Bob Miller and his group took on the monumental job of organizing the business and financing the project which was destined to become a world-wide venture

Canadian Cane Equipment Ltd., incorporated about 1965 and located in Edmonton, was initially financed by a small group of far-sighted Alberta business and professional people. The company set up a full-scale pilot plant in Saint Kitts in the Caribbean to field test equipment for use in large-scale sugar cane separation plants. This plant is still under the direction of the Edmonton office.

As well as making sugar cane processing more efficient and cheaper than is possible by the conventional method, the separation process preserves the rind which can then be manufactured into pulp and paper and a full range of high quality building materials, normally, made from wood. Generally speaking, building materials are in extremely short supply in the canegrowing areas of the world and very expensive.

It was during the operation of the pilot plant project at St. Kitts, that it was decided to try feeding sugar cane pith to livestock. Sugar has a high energy content and animals like it. This idea resulted in a very small-scale feeding trial being conducted in conjunction with the St. Kitts pilot project. The cattle were fed a ration of sugar cane pith, urea and other supplements.

The success of Saint Kitts feeding trial prompted the Barbados government to set up a full-scale feeding trial, with assistance from the Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA), which was watched with great interest by representatives from the other Caribbean countries. The Barbados government also hired Canadian Cane Consulants, a subsidiary of Canadian Cane Equipment Ltd., to run these trials. Headed by Bob Miller, this firm has its headquarters in Montreal, and was formed to provide the consulting services for the animal feeding part of the business.

The conclusion of this trial was marked early this year by a seminar in Barbados that was attended by approximately 100 high-ranking officials from 13 Commonwealth Caribbean countries. All were loud in their praise of this revolutionary way of feeding cattle, and many felt that it could greatly expand the beef and dairy industries in the Caribbean. At the present time a sizable proportion of these countries' foreign exchange goes to pay for meat imports. A world-wide animal feeds consultant at the seminar went so far as to say that this approach to livestock feeding could completely revolutionize the beef industry in the sugar cane areas of the world.

According to reports, one acre of average grassland in these areas will support one steer, whereas one acre of an average sugarcane crop will provide enough feed for about four steers. A crop of sugar cane on good land is said to produce up to 3,000 pounds of beef per acre per year.

At the present time Canadian Cane Equipment has a staff of five in Edmonton working solely on research and development of all kinds with the separation system and the processing of by-products. The animal feed machine can be fed by hand or it can be completely automated to process 10 tons of cane per day. When automated, one machine can easily feed 2,000 head of cattle.

The company has also developed a separation machine for the use in animal feed research stations. It is based upon the same principle as the production type animal feed machine but is very much smaller. CIDA has offered to supply two of these machines to each of the 13 Caribbean countries that attended the seminar. The Edmonton plant has these plus several of the larger machines in production at the present time.

Canadian Cane Equipment Ltd. now has iron-clad patent protection around the world.

The Kingman Baptist ladies are sponsoring two National Film Board productions at the Kingman School, teachers lounge, on Tuesday, July 17 at 8 p.m. The following films will be shown "Charley Squash goes to Town" "This film is a musical animation which, in a gentle and restrained way, retells the idea that it is the manifest destiny of Indian boys and girls to follow the advice of well-meaning Indians and Whites, to work hard at school and to be like everybody else in society. The film, from idea to screen, is largely the work of Duke Redbird, a young Cree Indian."

The Indian Speaks - "A film about Indians in many parts of Canada who are concerned about preserving what is left of their own culture and restoring what is gone. It is the consciousness of the Indian tradition slipping away, with nothing equally satisfying or significant to take its place, that this film discovers wherever it goes."

Ryley meets Viking in Powerline finals

Viking and Ryley will meet in the finals of the Powerline Baseball League with the opening game tonight (Thursday) in Viking.

The second game in the best of three series will be played in Ryley on Tuesday and, if a third game is necessary, it will be played in Viking one week from today.

After losing the first game of the semi-finals to the Camrose Roadrunners, the Viking Shamrocks bounced back with two straight shutout victories to gain their berth in the finals.

The Shamrocks deadlocked the series in Camrose when they posted an 8-0 victory as Dennis Danilak picked up the win while Al Schoenknecht was charged with the loss.

In Viking on Tuesday evening, the Shamrocks gained their berth in the finals as they bounced the Roadrunners 4-0. Danilak picked up his second consecutive playoff victory while Verlyn Olsen was tagged with the loss.

Prior to the playoffs, Viking had not lost a game to a league team.

Earlier, the Ryley Rebels had earned a berth in the finals when they ousted the Bardo Athletics in two straight games by scores of 16-4 and 13-3.

More jobs are needed for youth employment

(by Lena Reil)

During the first two weeks of operation, the student registration at Y.E.S. has risen to seventeen.

Of the total number registered, nine were male while eight were female. Ages for the male section ranged from 14 years to 19 years, while the female ages ranged from 13 to 16 years.

We received five job orders during the first two weeks of operation. Of the total number of job orders, two required two students each to fill. Their was one job order for babysitting, another for painting window casings, another for scrubbing floors and two for lawn care.

The total money earned by the students was fifty-nine dollars. The total number of hours that the students put in was approximately 36 hours.

Job orders requiring female help are slightly fewer in number than those requiring male help. More job orders requiring female help would be appreciated.

We take student applications from Tofield and Holden as well as Ryley. So, if you are intersted in registering call us at 663-3911 week days or 663-3591 evenings. Peter Ward's Ottawa Viewpoint—

Oil flow is slow

By Peter Ward

OTTAWA — Like any one of fifty or so parliamentary correspondents in Ottawa, I can now be rated as an expert on the nation's energy problems.

You'd like to know the probable reserves of crude oil in the Canadian Arctic? Right. I'll flip through this handy-dandy set of documents here - 800 pages no less — and presto — 39.3 billion barrels is the answer - if you're just counting the Arctic islands.

Perhaps this sense of creating instant experts is one of the major accomplishments of the weighty documents on Canada's energy problems, presented to parliament and the public in late June by Energy Minister Donald MacDonald.

Of course, instant experts are exactly what Don MacDonald wants, so the country will be immersed in a collossal coast-to-coast debate on what the energy policies of the future should be.

There's no denying the presentation made on that hot evening in June was complete - but one is entitled to ask if it really went far enough. Do we really have time for a year or more of national debate? Will the provinces and industry move under the rest of us poor mortals with their high-priced expert opinion?

It's a distinct possibility. Instead of presenting proposed policy and being prepared to bend a little if justifiable reasons for change were raised, the government opted for the safer political route of postponing action for the sake of consensus politics.

For example, the energy papers talk about formation of a national Canadian Oil company, offering that possibility up for debate.

We came as close as a whisker to having just that - a national energy company three years ago. The scheme foundered because the government refused to meet the price of the late Bobby Brown for his Home Oil Co.

The idea then was to merge Home Oil with Panarctic Oils, Polymer of Canada, Eldorado Nuclear, Uranium of Canada, and several others to form a company which could respectably compete with the international oil giants in the interests of Canada.

Well, Polymer has now gone to the Canada Development Corporation, at a bargain basement price. Eldorado is likely to follow, and perhaps, too, the 45 per cent government interest in Panarctic Oils.

The minority Trudeau government has by its own admission learned many lessons from the near defeat of Oct. 30, 1972, but it still hasn't learned - apparently — that people will respect a minority government with the courage to take action swiftly in the national interests of the country.

Revelation

Prime Minister Trudeau is to be congratulated firstly on having the intellect to recognize how little he understood the disaffection of the West, and secondly on having the courage to admit it . . . whatever its political ramifications.

The wonder is that Mr. Trudeau, who has lived more than half a century in this country, and so many of his confreres from Central Canada, have not fully appreciated the problem until this very moment, in spite of the number of times he has run into trouble in his western tours. After all, the problem isn't new, (as he readily realizes now). The fact it has been around for generations was amply evinced on this page last week, when the Days of Yore column recalled that fifty years ago the UFA, at a local convention, defeated a motion to secede from the eastern provinces.

Mr. Trudeau now realizes that because it has been years in the making, it will obviously take years to overcome . . . it's not something that can just be turned on or off with a switch. And to his credit, he's proposing to do something about it right from the start.

Convinced that the biggest problem is that Western Canadians feel they're removed from the scene of operations, from the decision-making centres, he has proposed that a start should be made on more decentralization. The Dominion Regional Economic Expansion offices, for instance, operating the program popularly known as DREE, have been set up on the basis that seventy percent of the staff is located in Ottawa, with about thirty percent in all the rest of the country. Mr. Trudeau has proposed, and the Honorable Mr. Don Jamieson, minister in charge, is already working at implementing a complete reversal . . . whereby less than one third of the staff will be centrally located, and two thirds will be dispersed nationally.

In terms of impact, just compare the effect when the government of Alberta was decentralizing a few small offices into rural points, such as the Agricultural Development Corporation coming to Camrose, and the Alberta Opportunity Corporation located in Ponoka.

The real problem, though, contributing to the alienation, was not the location of the jobs in the East, but the fact that decisions were made by people who seemed to know so little about the real economy of the area. How could any Albertan, for instance, really feel that the entire southern triangle of the province, from Drumheller through Taber and Lethbridge and out the Crows Nest Pass, was really hard pressed as compared to the rest of the province. How could anyone by any stretch of the imagination zone Grande Prairie a disadvantaged area, except for political purposes?

This sort of thing, repeated time and time again, is the basis for Western Canada's disaffection, and it has nothing to do with political parties, whatever. For example, fifty years and more ago there was hardly a Conservative seat anywhere in the West, except for the Calgary area, and that wasn't all too certain, either.

The whole point is, now that Mr. Trudeau sees the whole picture so clearly, at last the message may get through in other centres. At last, something is going to be done about helping to decentralize government departments, which will help to provide some of the customers so vitally needed in other parts of the country, on which to build a more solid locally based industry. Something is about to be done about the disparity and the inequity in freight rates, and this, too, could prove vital in giving some underpinning to regional industry. Given this sort of encouragement, plus a little support from provincial governments which has often been sadly lacking in the past, it's entirely possible that all parts of the country could develop more or less at their own pace, and without regional incentives being necessary.

There could be a bright new day dawning for the West.

"TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN"

Tofield, Alberta

Dear Sir,

This is to the teenagers and young adults who did all the vandalism at our farm on July 2nd. We hope you found satisfaction in your sadistic entertainment. It is too bad that in what we call a "free country," one cannot leave home anymore for a much needed holiday and find things intact when they return. What a sick society you are trying to shape.

No matter to you whether you destroy property, other people or yourselves as long as you have your so-called good time.

Most of you who were involved, girls and boys alike, have been at our home at some time and have always been treated with respect. We have expected the same in return. Don't bother to come again, we know now you cannot be trusted. Some day you will have your own children, I wonder how you will mold their lives?

Will you tell them of your destructive episodes? We hope your conscience bothers you enough to some day be men and women enough to apologize.. If this is the way you have been taught to celebrate Dominion Day ,then your education has been all for nothing, its time to get off the booze and start doing something constructive for a change.

You have destroyed a landmark in the Ketchamoot district "such" a tribute to our oldest pioneer family. I hope someday you will reap what you sow.

Signed,
Very disgusted,
Dorothy Whillans.

Don battle dress to clean ovens

Until self-cleaning and continuous-clean ovens became common in Canadian homes, strong muscle or strong medicine is what it takes to get a messy job done.

Heavy labour appeals to few homemakers: most turn to one of the specialty products on the market for cleaning ovens. However, this strong medicine route is risky. The caustic strength of today's oven cleaners makes it essential to follow manufacturers' instructions and warnings precisely. To ensure complete safety, Consumers Association of Canada recommends supplementary protective measures.

All oven cleaners bear "corrosive" warnings in accordance with the Hazardous Products Act. They are all dangerous if they come in contact with skin or eyes.

CAC recommends that rubber gloves, safety goggles and a face mask or damp cloth covering nose and mouth be worn when using these products. Protective equipment is readily available and inexpensive. You may look as if you are dressed for chemical warfare but safety counts.

Battle Dress

Rubber gloves [illegible] to $1.40 in supermarkets, drug and department stores.

Safety goggles [illegible] to $3.10 [illegible] hardware store and safety supply equipment stores.

Filter mask .30 to 7.95 in general hardware, paint and safety supply equipment stores. Replacement filters .88 for a package of 25 to $2.00 for a box of 5 (depending on model of the mask purchased), in same stores.

Caustic oven cleaners can damage clothing, floors and other surfaces. Most oven cleaners are safe to use on stainless steel and porcelain enamel on steel, the types of surfaces most commonly used for ovens. However, drippings are practically inevitable. And CAC advises placing newspaper on the floor under the oven door to protect linoleum, asphalt, tile, plastic surfaces, varnish or paint. Aluminum corrodes quickly if it comes in contact with caustic oven cleaners. Avoid drippings on electrical connections and temperature sensing devices. Consult individual product labels for complete information on types of surfaces to be protected.

Oven cleaners containing caustic substances give first aid measures for accidental contact with eyes and skin as required by the regulations under the Hazardous Products Act. If the product is splashed on the skin, the quickest remedy is a dousing under a tap of cool running water. The most readily available antidotes for swallowing are three or four glasses of water. Ottawa Poison Control Centre, diluted vinegar while acceptable as an antidote, may present problems. When caustic substance is swallowed, it damages the oesophagus on its way to the stomach. If the victim is administered diluted vinegar, he may gag and vomit, thereby damaging the oesophagus a second time. Never induce vomiting when a caustic material has been swallowed.

CAC recommends that there be an amendment to the regulations under the Hazardous Products act to include oven protectors containing methylene chloride, a chemical very dangerous to eyes. CAC further urges that as a general principle all hazardous products bear information on first aid measures and antidotes to prevent injury.

The changing face of Confederation

These four maps from a booklet on Confederation by the Rolland Paper Company illustrate the dramatic growth of Canada. Top left shows the extent of the four founding provinces at Confederation in 1867 — Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec and Ontario. Top right depicts how the boundaries of Canada had been extended by 1873 by the acquisition of the Northwest Territories from the Hudson's Bay Company, the creation of the infant Province of Manitoba, and the joining of British Columbia and Prince Edward Island. The map at bottom left shows Canada in 1905 when the boundaries of Quebec, Ontario and Manitoba had been extended, the Provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan formed, and the Yukon made a Territory. By 1949 the map of Canada had assumed its present outline with the joining of Newfoundland, following the final extensions of the boundaries of Quebec, Ontario and Manitoba.

DURABLE PRESS

Durable press or permanent press has become a common term in our clothing vocabulary. But how many shoppers know what it means? asks the Consumers' Association of Canada. Viewpoint of a hog producer

by Elmer Schultz

At last week's delegates meeting of the Alberta Hog Producers Marketing Board there was considerable discussion and interest in the Alberta Hog Producers [illegible] packing plant. [illegible] a committee to look into the feasibility of such an undertaking. The costs [illegible] not be as great as some have anticipated because with the machinery that is available today a [illegible] can handle thousands of hogs a year. This plant would specialize in the slaughter of hogs and processing of pork products. The plant would also be the first step towards the producer [illegible] his product until it is sold to the retailer.

There has been considerable concern by many in the hog industry in Alberta because of some deficiencies in the tape selling system presently in operation. It was felt by some that a system whereby the board would negotiate for a daily price would eliminate many present problems.

The Hog Producers will soon become involved in the Producers Indemnity Fund which will become effective July 28th. This fund will be a compensation for dead and injured hogs during transit. The rate will be based on a standard rate of .17 cents per $100.00 of value and this rate will apply to all hogs sold in Alberta unless exempted by writing.

Close call, but nobody injured

Other than two children who suffered minor injuries, no-one was hurt last Friday afternoon when the cattle truck above, with 21 animals aboard, collided with the County of Camrose bus and swerved into the ditch.

Returning from a county swimming trip to Miquelon Lake, the bus, driven by Keith Paton, stopped to unload children at the intersection. The passenger car in the middle seems to have indicated it was going to pull out and pass, but decided to stop just about level with the bus, leaving little room or time for the truck to change its plan to pass also. Unable to hit the ditch, A. S. Anderson of Forintosh chose to hit the bus rather than the sedan, the mud on the road showing the distance the bus was driven forward. As it did so, the truck swerved to the left, just nicking the rubber trim on the sedan's front bumper, and plunged into the ditch, completely wrecking the truck's front end. Damage amounted to $5,000.

Plea for big game hides

Big game hunters in Alberta are being asked by the department of Indian affairs and northern development to save their hides this fall.

This department has started a hide collection program in an effort to help Indian craftsmen to achieve financial independence through a continuous craft production program. Lack of hides is often responsible for groups of craftsmen and individual craftsmen having to resign themselves to producing their products as they are able to afford suitable hide pieces (usually at a high price), rather than geing able to devepol a year-round program. The irony of the situation is that every year thousands of good hides are either left in the bush to rot or end up on garbage dumps. The department of Indian affairs is prepared to pay handling charges of $3.00 for a moose or elk hide and $1.50 for a deer hide, plus transportation costs. To be acknowledged, the hides must be tagged.

Lack of hides is one of the main reasons that Indian craft products fall far below the demand in Alberta and in other provinces during the tourist season. It is also the reason that the central marketing service in Ottawa is continually being frustrated in its attempts to meet the demand for these craft products.

The present hide collection program was actually started last year, but becausse of the lateness of the season, it never reached its full potential. However, the national and historic parks branch donated all the buffalo and moose hides they obtained when they reduced these herds at Elk Island Park. Another 200 hides were sent from the Prince Albert district in Saskatchewan.

Some of the buffalo hides were distributed to Indian bands who wanted them for ceremonial dress, and the others were sent to Hobbema where they were mde into buffalo robes at the Muskwatchee tannery. This semi-automatic tannery was started about a year ago to serve the needs of native craftsmen throughout the province and to facilitate the production of clothing and footwear to fullfill the market demand for these articles. Custom-made these articles. Custom-made clothing can be ordered through the Hobbema 4 Band, Homemakers Craft Group, which is affiliated with the tannery.

The labour saving devices incorporated in the tannery complex eliminate much of the manual labour involved in the native smoke tanning process. They include a wringer, a dehairing and defleshing mahairing and defleshing machine, a fiber breaking machine and a vat for tumbling and washing the hides. These machines do not affect the quality of the hide, but they save a considerable amount of time, which cuts the cost of the finished product and increases production. Moose hides, for example, sell for between $20.00 and $25.00 each.

Anyone who would like to donate a hide to the cause of Indian craftsmen in Alberta should contact the fish and wildlife officer in the area in which the animal is shot, or ship the hide COD (cash on delivery) to the Indian Affairs Craft Training Center, 10007-105A Avenue, Edmonton.

Moderate weed infestations can cause large crop losses

Even moderate weed infestations can cause drastic crop losses. Wild oats, buckwheats, smartweeds, green foxtail and thistle are all on the increase, mainly because farmers are continuing to use those herbicides which controlled weeds that were causing serious problems 10 years ago. Today many of those weeds have been brought under control and it is now other weed species that are causing serious crop losses. Mr. Lobay says it is extremely important to check to see which weeds are most prevalent in your fields, and then to choose that herbicide that has been specifically developed to control that particular species.

ALBERTA COMPUTER WILL CORRAL RUSTLERS

The Alberta Department of Agriculture now has one of the most up-to-date and efficient brand retrieval systems on the North American continent for curtailing cattle and horse rustling. It has just successfully completed an 18-month trial period.

In 1970, Richard Due, head of the Alberta Department of Agriculture's Systems Design Branch, and Hank Pallister, co-ordinator of regulatory services, carried out a number of experiments with a variety of computer programs. They finally came up with a retrieval system that would provide a fast feedback on all data pertaining to cattle and horse marketing patterns in the province. Prior to 1970, the Department of Agriculture had approached I.B.M. to see if they could design a system for retrieving brand inspection data. However, they were not able to devise a satisfactory way of coding brands.

When Alberta's new Brand Inspection Act came into force in 1971, the brand certificates were specially designed to fit into the computer retrieval system. Mr. Pallister says the system is one of the most efficient and comprehensive on this continent because Alberta's brand registration policy does not allow any duplication of registered brands.

To date the system has revealed that a total of 2,545,888 head of cattle and horses were inspected last year at Alberta livestock markets and packing plants. Just over 10 percent, or 260,108 of the cattle, had horns.

It has also shown that 759,330 Alberta cattle were marketed last year without a brand. In other words, almost 30 percent of the cattle in the province are not being branded.

Another thing that came to light is that approximately 45,000 brands are being used to identify livestock in Alberta while only 42,000 brands are registered. This means that some people are using unregistered brands and that a large number of feeder cattle from other provinces are being marketed in Alberta.

The system has also shown the number of people who are raising cattle and horses for their livelihood, and revealed those who are selling cattle and horses under fictitious [illegible]

The brand retrieval date will give the exact number of cattle or horses sold with the same brand within a specific period; the date on which the animals were sold; the sex and type of animal; the location of sale; the number sold by the same party; and the name of the person who sold them. As the system becomes more perfected, it is very possible that it will also be able to give the name of the buyer, Mr. Pallister says.

At the present time it provides reliable data on the number of cattle and horses sold at a specific market and tells the number of animals shipped out of the province as well as their destination. It even specifies the number of cows, steers, heifers and bulls marketed during a calendar year, both within the province and outside the province. Those working with the system hope to eventually come up with a method of breaking down the total number of cattle marketed with a specific period into the following categories: calves, feeder cattle, fat cattle, slaughter cows and replacement cows.

A certain number of problems were encountered with Alberta's brand retrieval system during the early stages. However, according to Mr. Pallister, these problems have now been ironed out and the information in the system is completely up-to-date. It can be retrieved in a matter of seconds, whereas it used to take months of paper work to get even the most general information.

Mr. Pallister says the Alberta brand retrieval system will be of tremendous value to the R.C.M.P. in tracing people who have stolen and illegally sold cattle and horses as well as to the Department of Agriculture in detecting people who set themselves up as livestock dealers without a license.

Substitute claimed for soy bean feeds

Researchers at the Ontario Agricultural College, University of Guelph, said Sunday they have worked out livestock and poultry feed compounds to replace increasingly expensive soybean meal.

In a statement Sunday, the researchers said the compounds, which have lower protein counts, would slow the growth rate of animals but farmers could expect greater profits because of the lower costs.

The researchers recommended non-protein nitrogen sources as replacements for soybean. They include amino acids, urea, meat meal, rapeseed meal and high-protein grains such as barley.

The cost of soybean meal has increased to $160 a ton from $125 one year ago.

The rising cost of soybean meal was blamed on increasing world demand for soybean derivatives and a global shortage. Costs for the compounds have not been worked out, the statement said but farmers could "make a good buck with lower cost to the consumer.

The statement said university and ministry of agriculture and food officials met Friday to discuss the [illegible]

It said they did not know how long the [illegible] crisis would last but [illegible] [illegible] it would be temporary because of increased yields.

'Fertile field' for growth of canadian novelists

Jan Truss of Water Valley, was announced as the winner of Alberta's first provincial novelist competition by Horst A. Schmid, Minister of Culture, Youth and Recreation, at a gala banquet and reception at the Mayfair golf and Country Club in Edmonton, June 8, 1973.

Guests included Dr. J.W. Grant MacEwan, Lieutenant Governor of Alberta, and many of Alberta's distinguished writers, broadcasters producers, and literary figures.

Mrs. Truss, a former school-teacher, was presented with a $1,000 cash award and offered a publishing contract guaranteeing a $1,500.00 advance against Royalties by Hugh Kane, Vice-chairman of the board of the MacMillan Company of Canada Limited. Mr. Kane an enthusiastic supporter of the first novelist competition of its kind conducted by any Canadian Province came from Toronto to speak at the banquet and meet the winners and guests.

The follow-up winners were Cecilia Frey of Calgary who, in the opinion of the Adjudicators, wrote "A work with the dimensions of a classic"; and 21-year-old Fred Stenson of Twin Butte, Alberta, who was termed "A real discovery - - surely the kind of author that this competition was meant to encourage." Mrs. Frey attended the banquet but Mr. Stenson was travelling in Europe and unable to attend. He was represented at the banquet by his parents Mr. and Mrs. T. Stenson of Twin Butte, Alberta.

Distinguished mention went to Pauline Harrison of Edgerton, Alberta. Other manuscripts "Almost certainly of Publishable quality" were submitted by Eva Corbett, Calgary; Susan J Crawford, Calgary. Margaret Doerkson, Grande Prairie. Agnes Jelhof Jenson, Edmonton: David Kellum, Edmonton: E.A. Seitz, St. Albert; and Patricia Stevenson, Edmonton.

"The results of this competition are staggering," said John Patrick Gillese, supervisor of creative writing for Alberta, who launched this unique competition with the unabashed objective of pushing Alberta writers into National prominence. "At most I expected 15 entries. Imagine my reaction when the February 28 deadline arrived and I had 98 manuscripts."

Judging the entries were Dr. W. G. Hardy, president of the Alberta Division of the Canadian Authors Association, whose published books have sold far in excess of a million copies; Dr. Walter H. Johns, distinguished educator, former president of the University of Alberta, and standing member of the Steven Leacock Gold Medal memorial Award Selection Committee; and Dr. H. Lovat Dickson, presently of Toronto, and long-time chief editor with MacMillans, England.

The judges were unanimous in their praise of the quality of the entries, which came from all over the province. Two for example, came from the tiny town of Cayley - - with three from Lethbridge, 17 from Edmonton, and a whopping 22 from Calgary. "Alberta," says Dr. Dickson, "May well prove the fertile field where Canadian Novelists will grow."

More than 1,000 enquiries poured in from across Alberta in response to the announcement of the Provicial Government's search-for-a-new-Alberta-Novelist Competition. By the deadline, 98 completed novels were submitted representing some 7 and one half million words of copy, totalling approximately 300 pounds of manuscripts. Three new Alberta novelists have been assured publication of their efforts.

Note to news media - biographical material on each of the three winners is attached.

Jan Truss, Water Valley, Alberta (Author of 'Bird At The Window') 48 years old with a grown son and daughter, has sold short stories to Chatelaine and won a provincial playwriting competition (The CBC is considering this script as a radio play). Has been writing for only four years and sold the first story she wrote. Is a sculptor and painter as well as a writer and looks after the small Water Valley Library. Lives admist rustic surroundings and thrives on it. Water Valley is ranching country, about 70 miles NW of Calgary. The town consists of an old school now closed, a service station, store and lumber yard.

Cecilia Frey, Calgary, Alberta (Author Of "Breakaway") has been writing short stories for six years, landing some with the CBC. This is the first novel, and she has already started another.

Born in Alberta and has lived in Montreal for one year and Chicago for one year.

"My story is about the birth and growth of the creative consciousness. I know it sounds pompous, but that's what it's about. When you write a story about a woman, nobody takes it seriously. But all this is changing. My story isn't a 'Woman Novel' I want men to read it too."

Fred Stenson, Twin Butte, Alberta (Author of "The Lonesome Hero") 21 years old. B.A. in Econimics, has been writing since he was a young boy, mostly poetry and short stories. Unpublished except for some poetry.

It's the same old refrain

Yet another Canadian-conceived idea may have to depend on foreign risk money for development. "It's amazing how finacial people's interest declines when you tell them you only have drawings to your idea and no hardware - and that you need the money to produce the hardware," laments Dr. O. M. Solandt, scientific and technical consultant, Mitchell Plummer and Co., Toronto. This firm established in 1969, originally named Pentatech Ltd., buys and sells companies and is involved in management consulting. Dr. Solandt, former chairman of Science Council of Canada, is also chairman of Cosmotom Lts.

whose president, W. M. B. Fitzgerald, has invented a new type of free piston engine which, in Dr. Solandt's words, "could drive a wedge through the crack that has appeared in the North American auto engine market." So far the free piston engine and its associated system exists in the form of blueprints and engineering data. World patent applications are pending. The company needs $1 million to produce two prototype engines—a single cylinder bench - test model and a two-cylinder model to install in a vehicle for road testing. Actually, a minimum of $600,000 was quoted for this purpose by Dilworth, Secord, Meagher and Associated Ltd., Toronto engineering consultants, who were consulted by Cosmotom on the project. "The extra money would allow for the costs of patent applications and test equipment and provide a buffer," Dr. Solandt says. The approaches to Canadian financing sources — including the Industrial Development Bank. Like other lending institutions, the IDB turned them down on the basis that here was no actual engine, production or plant in being. As a result Cosmotom has approached U. S. finance sources and also has made overtures to Japan, West Germany, Britain and other European sources.

Former Round Hill couple marks 60th anniversary

Celebrating their 60th wedding anniversary recently were Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Perka of Edmonton, a pioneer couple from the Round Hill district.

Mr. Perka, 88, was born in Galicia, Poland, and apprenticed as a blacksmith for seven years before coming to Canada in 1907. Mrs. Perka formerly Agnes Marek, came to Canada in 1902, also from Galicia, with her parents and family who settled near Round Hill. They were married June 22, 1913, at St. Stanislaus Church in Round Hill.

Mrs. Perka has been active in many church and community groups in the district. Mr. Perka was a member of the parish council for about eight years, and served as school trustee for about 22 years. They moved to Edmonton upon retirement in 1956.

The couple marked their diamond anniversary with a family dinner, shared with many old friends from Round Hill and other areas. Greetings were received from Queen Elizabeth II (from Regina), a scroll and blessing from Pope Paul VI, and congratulations from Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau, Robert Stanfield, Lieut. Governor Grant MacEwan, Premier Peter Lougheed, Archbishop Jordan, Edmonton mayor Ivor Dent, and Edmonton West M.P. Marcel Lambert.

Mr. and Mrs. Perka have a son, Stanley of Round Hill; a daughter, Mrs. A.J. Kucy of Edmonton; 15 grandchildren, and 12 greatgrandchildren.

Cotoneaster hedges may turn brown

Foliage on many cotoneaster hedges in the residential areas of the province will start turning a brown, scorched color in the next few weeks. Close examinatic will reveal that the upper portion of the leaves has been eaten away, or "skeletonized". This damage is caused by sawfly larvae, commonly known s pear slugs, feeding on the leaf tissue.

The adults which are dark bluish-black, wasp-like insects are now emerging from cocoons in the soil and are busy laying eggs. The eggs are deposited singly in small semicircular incisions cut in the leaf tissue.

Hatching takes place about two weeks after the eggs are laid and the larve complete their growth in four or five weeks. It is during the larval stages that the leaves are skeletonized.

The larvae are nearly half an inch in length when full grown. the body is so enlarged in the front that the head is concealed and the body tapers towards the green color and causing it to slimy substance which covers the body, giving it a dark olive-green color and causing I tto appear like a small slug. When the larvae are full grown they drop to the ground, where they over-winter as prepupal larvae in earthen cocoons. Since there is a considerable overlap in generation, larvae may be found from early July through August.

According to N. W. Wilkinson, Tree Pest Extension Officer with the Canadian Forestry Service, pear slugs are easily controlled. The host plants which are cotoneaster, hawthorn, plum, cherry, pear, mountain ash, and quince, should be closely examined about mid-July through mid-August for sign of larvae or early feeding. As soon as larvae or feeding is noticed a malathion spray thoroughly applied to the leaves and stems as directed on the label for sawflies will give acceptable control, Mr. Wilkinson says.

"Arras" means tapestry

Flourishing tapestry workshops again often ceased abruptly - as did tapestry weaving in Paris, in 1415, after the defeat of the French by the English at Agincourt. But the art would then be re-established elsewhere, in another town - as it was after 1415, in Arras, under the patronage of the dukes of Burgundy. At Arras, the weavers won such a reputation that the name of the town became a synonym for tapestry itself.

The mid-15th Century was a great period in tapestry weaving with important workshops like that at Tournai, France, which produced famous tapestries such as the "Story of Troy," a series of 11 large hangings, which were reproduced by order for several houses of royalty. The very composition of these tapestries shows they were meant primarily for wall hangings — the artists deliberately avoided perspective, keeping the overall proportions to a single scale.

RAPHAEL CHANGED TECHNIQUE

With the Renaissance, however the technique changed completely, when the great painter Raphael designed tapestries in the manner of Renaissance fresco painting, imposing the painter's laws on the woven designs Raphael's designs were much admired and repeatedly rewove during the 16th and 17th centuries, most often at the great workshops in Brussels and other Flemish cities. Other workshops were in Italy and France, later in Germany, Denmark, and in Sweden, and finally in England.

The weaving of tapestries continued to be a flourishing industry throughout the 17th Century with new designs by the great painter Rubens, for the Flemish workshops. A new industry was established in France, under Henry IV, and in 1662 the royal factory of the Gobelins was formed - one of the most famous names in tapestry.

During the 18th Century, European taste moved towards a lighter and more delicate style of decoration. Tapestries began to lose favor, and the art reached a low point in the 19th Century. An exception was a revival in the 1880's by William Morris in England, who returned to medieval inspiration in tapestry design, just as the "pre-Raphaelite" painters and poets did in art and poetry.

TAPESTRY IN TODAY'S WORLD

The revival of interest in our own time is partially attributable to a reaction against poor quality in mass-produced merchandise and synthetic fabric. Another factor is that modern painting of the abstract school translates well into tapestry. And stark and sewer, and in need of color, just as were medieval castles. Hence decorative wall hangings are again serving a true function even if they are no longer needed to keep out the cold.

Today we have not only the professional weavers in traditional workshops, but also the small-scale production of the artist-weaver. Even more notable, perhaps, is the prominence of the individual craftsman, most often a craftswoman, who expresses herself in the related techniques of needlepoint and crewel embroidery.

Many of today's experts in needlecrafts are members of the Embroiderers' Guild of America, an educational non-profit organization whose purpose is to maintain high standards of design, color, and workmanship in all kinds of embroidery and canvas work. Through its New York office, the Guild carries on a variety of activities, including a quarterly publication, a reference library, and occasional contests.

UNICORN TAPESTRY

Many tapestries of the 15th and 16th centuries portrayed secular themes as well as religious ones. Court and hunting scenes were popular, as is the famous "Hunt of the Unicorn," now in The Cloisters, New York.

KING HENRY'S TAPESTRIES

King Henry VIII of England owned 2000 wall hangings, 60 tapestries made by Flemish weavers, whose work was considered foremost in Europe.

CARDS OF THANKS

Our silver anniversary will be remembered as a very special day because our families, friends and neighbors made it so. Special thanks to those of our family and friends who planned the evening so well with a program, lunch and dance complete with a lovely decorated wedding cake and head table.

Your presence, friendship, gifts, cards and thoughts mean so much to us both.

John & Cecelia Mahowich

It is with our deepest appreciation that we write this letter to all people of the community of Holden and district. It has been very difficult to accept the untimely death of my dear husband, and father, but your concern and respect has made this burden much easier to bear. You have shown us that you had a very real and deep respect for him. Words cannot express how we feel, except perhaps to say we are very proud to be part of Holden community. We wish to thank our friends for the flowers, mass cards, money to the family, and cards and different memorial donations. Your kindness has been very helpful one doesn't realize how many friends one has until a time like this. We would like to acknowledge them all, but because of the great number this is impossible.

Sincere thanks to the many people who brought lunch and to all those who served lunch.

Special thanks to the pallbearers, to Father Zacariasevich, Father Lozinski, Father Ratiy and Father Joe.

Mrs. Helen Bilyk, Dianne, Larry, Richard & Shelley.

Super-fast breeding almost here says farm magazine

Super-fast breeding of superior test-tube cattle is a practical possibility, according to Good Farming magazine which describes, in, the potential and pitfalls of the new science of "embryo transfers"

In simple terms the idea of embryo transfers is to obtain as many calves as possible off a genetically superior cow by surgical means. The fertilized embryos are transferred from the good cow to less superior recipient cows for the duration of the term.

To make the technique feasible, the donor cow is treated with a fertility drug to simulate multiple egg development. Five days after successful artificial insemination, the embryos are taken from the donor cow in quantities of 10 or 12 and transferred to other cows. The calf is blood typed and registered as the offspring of the original sire and dam. If all goes well, with this new technique, up to 30 genetically superior calves from one excellent cow can create a fine dairy herd in a very short period of time.

But, this is only the first step in a scientific process which Good Farming says "can advance veterinary medicine into new frontiers".

Twins can be produced if two embryos are placed in the uterus of the recipient cow. Further, the calves can be identical twins. If research can culture a new embryo from cells removed, under a microscope, from an original embryo. Then, the recipient cow would produce twin calves with exactly the same genetic components.

Predetermination of sex is close at hand, made possible by study of the chromosome spread of a few cells removed from the embryo, and scientists are now at work on finding a method to long term storage of the embryos. Once it is possible to store the embryos, these can be shipped instead of cattle to improve blood lines in other countries. At the moment, International laws governing the possible transfer of disease forbid this practice, but it is coming up for study.

Scientists are looking at the possibility of producing eggs outside the body of the cow. This will remove the danger and limitations of surgery which can only be done three times - and sometimes leaves the gentically suprior cow barren after the first operation.

The development of growing and maturing eggs outside the cow, will eventually lead to fertilization in a "test-tube" where the embryo will continue to grow until it is ready for transfer or long - term storage.

If these developments seem far - fetched, just remember that the twinning step has already been reached with 70 per cent success in England and non - surgical removal of bovine embryos is under substantial research in England, Canada, France and Japan.

Dr. Hamish Robertson, reproductive physiologist with the Animal Research Institute in Ottawa, one of a number of experts commenting in the farm magazine says "cloning", the technique of producing an infinite number of identical eggs from one embryo, is an area of study vital to Canada because of the export market.

"Provided sufficient funds are made available, I can see this becoming a practical reality in about five years," he said.

Most of the experts, even those who admit caution in their assessment of the technique admit the rate of progress is completely unpredictable. "What we thought was a long way off three years ago now looks like its being solved," said one.

New frozen egg process wins international award

Cryogran Eggs are a new form of frozen egg melange developed by Agriculture Canada's Food Research Institute and Engineering Research Services.

Egg melange droplets are quick-frozen in liquid nitrogen to obtain the free-flowing granular product which rivals fresh eggs in industrial food preparations ranging from mayonnaise to baked products. The Cryogran process offers several advantages over conventional bulk frozen egg melange.

The process won a major award at the recent Fifth International Food Products Exhibition in Paris, France. Industry is interested in commercial application of the new technique.

On the boards again

Domtar Chemicals Ltd.'s long-pondered $25 million-$30 million salt-extraction scheme on the Canso Strait is now being worked up for a final decision at a board meeting late next month. Described as the largest of its type in North America, the development would involve brine-solution extraction of the salt from Domtar's massive deposits at Kingsville, Inverness Country, N.S. A pipeline would pump the brine 22 miles to an evaporation plant at Point Tupper. The salt would be conveyored to a dock on the Strait for dispatch to markets abroad vessels of up to 40,000 gross tons. There was a flurry of excitement over the scheme this time last year. But Domtar put off a 1972 start, saying it was worried about "astronomical" construction cost indications. Since then, the Nova Scotia government, spurred by promise of cash aid from the federal Cape Breton Development Corp., has offered to build a dock for Domtar's use. The move apparently follows Domtar's conclusion that its own shipments starting at around 500,000 tons annually and building eventually to one million tons - - would not justify sole use of a new dock. No indication of the cost of the dock has been released by Nova Scotia. But insiders report about half its amortization and operating costs would be recovered from Domtar.

Hotter than what?

The fact has been irrevocably established in the British Journal of Applied Optics that Heaven is really hotter than Hell. Why go the tropics? Just stick around and live a good life. Basing its thesis on the Bible (specifically Is. 30 25) the magazine claims that in heaven "the light of the sun will be sevenfold, as the light of seven days." Then using the commonly known Stephan-Bolzmann radiation law, it comes up with a celestial temperature of 977 degrees F. On further analysis, Hell is described in the same source as "a lake that burns with fire and brimstone" (Rev. 21:8). To allow liquid sulphur (brimstone) to exist, the temperature can't be higher than 833 degrees F., says the article. So, the conclusion is obvious. Heaven is a full 144 degrees hotter than Hell on an average working day. This may cause a lot of people to rearrange their priorities. Because if they don't like hot weather, they had better start collecting some black marks on their record

Rebels, Shamrocks tied in Powerline's finals

The Powerline Baseball League has gone to a third and deciding game which will be played in Viking on Tuesday.

Ordinarily, the deciding game should have been played tonight (Thursday) but, was postponed to Tuesday because of a fastball tournament which was being held in Viking.

Ryley and Viking are deadlocked in the finals after splitting the first two games in the finals. Earlier, Ryley had eliminated Bardo in two straight games while Viking had ousted Camrose two games to one.

The first game in the finals was played in Viking on Thursday night and, after 10 innings of play, the hometown Shamrocks edged the Rebels by a score of 8-7.

The victory was quite a comeback for Viking who trailed 4-0 in the early going which saw starting pitcher John Andrukow knocked out of the box in the first inning. Former Rebel, Dennis Danilak came on in relief to pick up the victory. Ralph Berke was tagged with the loss.

The second game in the series was played in Ryley on Tuesday night with the Rebels blanking Viking 6-0.

Berke got revenge for his loss in the first game as he shutout the visitors to pick up the win while Lane Merta was charged with the loss. He received relief help from Danilak.

Holden Bible School ends with wiener roast

(Mrs. G. H. Taylor)

To conclude the recent two-week Bible vacation school held in Holden Lutheran Church, a wiener roast was held last Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Berreth. On the Friday evening, a program was held in the church with all the children who had attended the vacation school. Mrs. Bereth opened the program by giving a welcome to all attending followed by a prayer. Mrs Wiens was the pianist for the occasion. Valerie Clement and Gale Kiember has charge of the kindergarten class which presented an action chorus. The primary class taken by Mrs. Helena Wiens and Mrs Berreth had a questionaire on their Bible study lessons and also sang. The junior class under the leadership of Lillian Pepnick, presented a short play or skit. "Growing with Jesus." Mr. Goulring of Tofield gave the concluding address on the theme of the skit, then gave the Benediction to conclude the evening's program.

Lillian Pepnick and Gale Kiember are from Vauxhall and Mrs. Helena Wiens from Ryley. While here, they lived in a house trailer parked at Mrs. Rosie Raeder's. The Mennonite Bethcran sponsored the vacation Bible vacation Sunday school, paying all expenses for the wiener roast and for the supplies used.

Playground news

Last week the theme being "Indian Week". Indians were made in Arts & Crafts. A lot of very good puppet shows were staged, the children making them up.

Then on Friday, approximately 30 little nature hikers along with the leaders and two volunteers hiked to the Tofield Golf Course. A picnic lunch was ate and a few races and games were played. Everyone returned slightly exhausted and sunburned but had a fun day.

The attendance has dropped due to Vacation Bible School and Klondike Days but we hope to see everyone coming again soon.

All the crafts turned to making insects, flowers, and other things in nature, with this week being "Nature Week".

Mrs. Ellen Eaton

Sherry and Susan Nelson, the daughters of Arnold and Deanna Nelson spent from Sunday until Friday of last week in Edmonton at the home of their aunt, Gail and Ron MacAdam. Ron, who had been to Lloydminster to bring Gail and Deanna's mother, Mrs. Blanche Goodair back to Edmonton to spend the week with them, picked up the girls on the way home. While in Edmonton, Sherry and Susan enjoyed Klondike Days and the Exhibition. Ron brought them home again on Friday evening. Mrs. Goodair had a short visit with her daughter, Deanna enroute to Edmonton on Sunday.

Mrs. Carl Wilkie of Rosthern, Sask. arrived Wednesday of last week to spend a week visiting her daughter, Edna and Arnold Jones and family. She left for home again Tuesday.

Russel and Mabel Ferguson were Friday evening visitors at the home of Russel's brother, Howard and Mae Ferguson.

Kay Wood returned to the home of her parents, John and Mary Wood on Thursday of last week from a visit to Calgary.

A thunder and rain storm hit the district on Monday night bringing a little over a half inch of rain, which was badly needed to help the grain crops and the gardens. It had rained on Sunday night but the ground where the soil is loose was quite dry and dusty by Monday noon, so most farmers were glad to receive the added moisture.

John and Mary Wood accompanied their daughter, Kay Wood and their daughter-in-law Gloria Wood, and two children, Cathy and Ted on a motor trip to Moose Lake on Saturday, where they visited Mary's sister, Myrtle and Jim MacDonald at Sunset Beach on Moose Lake and also Myrtle and Jim's son, Jimmy and Donna MacDonald and family at Franchere. While there they visited Johnny Damburger, an old time former resident of Ross Creek. Then on their way home Monday, they stopped at Viking to visit their daughter Lorene and Jim Francis and family.

Kay Wood left on Tuesday morning for Edmonton enroute to Calgary where she will spend August attending a school for teachers before returning to her profession after the summer holidays.

An enjoyable afternoon was spent when the Lakeshore UCW met at the home of Mrs. Theone Jones on Wednesday of last week for a pot luck dinner which was held at tables set under the trees. After a very delicious dinner, the ladies enjoyed a tour around Theone's flower beds and her garden as well as her roses and other flowers and shrubs around the house and lawn. Later, all sat down for more coffee and cake and squares before leaving for their homes.

Ryley Lions campaign for agriculture club

The Ryley Lions Club have started a campaign to secure a charter for an agricultural club which will be organized in conjunction with the rural district.

The new society will be known as the Beaver Heritage and Agricultural Society and its main goal will be to promote cultural and recreational programs in the Ryley district in conjunction with other societies in the County of Beaver.

The first project of the new group will be to secure a county integrated agricultural building which would contain a swimming pool and craft rooms suitable for meetings of rural groups.

The project has been planned, according to Lion President Otis Phillips, to fulfill the needs of all the residents in the County of Beaver and, the club has high hopes that all groups and citizens will co-operate in this venture.

Holden plans carnival

The Holden and district Agricultural Society will sponsor a Fall Sportex Carnival in the Holden Community Hall late this coming fall.

Objective of the society is to raise funds for the construction of a sports complex building in Holden.

One of the highlights of the carnival will be the crowning of a carnival queen.

Seven contestants are seeking the title. They are Susan Cooper, Anita Erickson, Darlene Helfrich, Cheryl Grosland, Debbie Koetke, Bernice Tymchak and Debbie Semotiuk.

All contestants are already busy selling tickets for the carnival.

The coronation of the queen will take place at midnight on November 17th and will be the climax of the two-day carnival.

More details of the carnival's events will be released at a later date.

15 year drought ends for the Ryley Rebels

For the first time in 15 years, a baseball team from Ryley has won the championship of the Powerline Baseball League.

The long drought ended on Tuesday evening in Viking when the Ryley Rebels trounced the hometown Shamrocks by a score of 10-3.

Ralph Berke was the winning pitcher while Dennis Danilak was charged with the loss.

Roger Oslund aided the Rebel's cause when he blasted a home run with two mates on the bases.

Viking had won the first game of the finals 8-7 in Viking in 10 innings while Ryley took the second game at home by a score of 6-0.

Ryley's victory in the finals has to be regarded as a major upset as Viking had not lost a game during the regular schedule. They disposed of Camrose two games to one in the semi-finals.

Ryley played steady ball all season and managed to finish the regular schedule in second place.

In the semi-finals, Ryley eliminated Bardo in two straight games and climaxed a successful season with Tuesday's victory.

Playground

Tie-dyed T-shirts were made in arts & crafts a couple of days last week. Due to rain on Friday everyone played inside games.

On Monday, a Scavenger hunt was held which was very successful. The kids collected everything from pantyhose to baby food cans. We hope to use all these things in arts & crafts. At this time we would like to thank all who answered their door and supplied the needed material.

Thanks to Donna Friessen, Debbie Walker, Tannis Shaw and Mike Warner for volunteering.

The sore point

Premier Lougheed made an interesting statement in an interview over the week-end, while discussing the achievements and the importance of the recently concluded conference of Ottawa ministers with the provincial governments of the four western provinces.

The same sort of things as were said by the provincial ministers had already been said often in the national capital, thought Mr. Lougheed, and said just as well. The difference was that all too frequently in the operation of the House of Commons, the ministers who should have heard the statements were not present to hear them.

But a far more disturning observation was his comment that even when the federal ministers had heard, and were aware of the problem, the message was not getting through to the senior civil servants . . . those was the deputy minister level. In Calgary last week, he pointed out, they were right at the elbow of their minister, unlike the operation of the House of Commons, and heard the outspoken comment and the outspoken criticism for the first time. And for the first time, thought Mr. Lougheed, the so-called mandarins of the civil service were out of their ivory tower, removed from the comfortable protection of the years of theory which only partially meet the situation, and face to face with reality.

If Mr. Lougheed was accurate in his observation, perhaps this is the most important achievement that could be chalked up for the conference, far surpassing the difficulty of getting the message through to the federal ministers. The ministers, after all, are politicians, interested in the fortunes of their party because its fortune is vital to their own. The civil service chiefs, however, are far too often isolated and insulated from the type of thinking that affects the life, and the living, and the development of Canadians in other parts of Canada.

Derelict cars

Alberta Environment Minister W. J. Yurko a couple of months ago announced cabinet approval of a program to reclaim car bodies collected by municipalities outside of Calgary and Edmonton. Such cars have not in the past been recycled, pointed out Mr. Yurko, because the cost of collecting them and transporting them to a recycling plant

Early in May, during Litterbug Week, his department and the department of highways co-operated to gather 11,000 vehicles into storage groups through out the province, with some 9,000 of them in larger groups which might enable reclamation at to a recycling plant as high.

The minister points out this will not only provide an immediate supply of old cars for recycling, but help to clean up the landscape. He hopes arrangements can be made in order to enable municipalities to realize [illegible] legal dumps for old cars rather than having them abandoned, and is working on future action of a more permanent nature to remove the vast number of abandoned and derelict hulks from all over the province.

We have no idea of what costs are involved, but surely the problem could be vastly reduced with the legal car dumps Mr. Yurko mentions. It's just as much an offense to litter with old cars as with other forms of rubbish, and in this case, it shouldn't be hard to trace the registered owner through the serial number on the vehicle. Probably most of them are still motels when they're abandoned, at [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Celebrating their 60th wedding anniversary recently were Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Perka of Edmonton, a pioneer couple from the Round Hill district.

Mr. Perka, 88, was born in Galicia, Poland, and apprenticed as a blacksmith for seven years before coming to Canada in 1907. Mrs. Perka formerly Agnes Marek, came to Canada in 1902, also from Galicia, with her parents and family who settled near Round Hill. They wer married June 22, 1913, at St. Stanislaus Church in Round Hill.

Mrs. Perka has been active in many church and community groups in the district. Mr. Perka was a member of the parish council for about eight years, and served as school trustee for about 22 years. They moved to Edmonton upon retirement in 1956.

The couple marked their diamond anniversary with a family dinner, shared with many old friends from Round Hill and other areas. Greetings were received from Queen Elizabeth II (from Regina), a scroll and blessing from Pope Paul VI, and congratulations from Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau Robert Stanfield, Lieut. Governor Grant MacEwan, Premier Peter Lougheed, Archbishop Jordan, Edmonton mayor Ivor Dent, and Edmonton West M.P. Marcel Lambert.

Mr. and Mrs. Perka have a son, Stanley of Round Hill; a daughter, Mrs. A.J. Kucy of Edmonton; 15 grandchildren, and 12 greatgrandchildren.

RYLEY, August 1—Weekend visitors with Mrs. Nancy James were her sister and brother-in-law of Saskatoon, Sask., sister of Bon Accord, nephew, wife and children of Edmonton, nephew, niece and family of Edmonton.

Those who attended the Bruce Stampede Sunday thoroughly enjoyed the performance put on by all who had part in it.

Visiting with Mrs. Martha Hillerud for ten days was her daughter, Merle Hately, her grand-daughter, Mrs. Wendy Lee and her two children from Madeira Park, B.C. While they were here a family picnic was arranged at the Hillerud farm for the relatives that were able to come.

They came from Edmonton, Red Deer, Penhold, LaRonge, Sask Vegreville, Tofield and Ryley. It has been eight years since Merle was last here. Over 30 people were present at the picnic which made the day quite an occasion.

Eric Jensen is home helping on the farm after having a two-week job as security guard at the exhibition grounds during Klondike Days.

Funeral services were held for the late Ernest Anderson at Mennonite Church west of Dodds with Bishop John Stauffer and Harold Boettger in charge, on Thursday afternoon.

Honarary pallbearers were George McLaughlin, Henry Eastman, T. Grattaas, Maynard Stauffer and Ezra Reil. Active pallbearers: grandsons, Graham and Larry Johnston, Jim and Kenny Anderson, Wm. Kelly George Knudslien.

Senior citizens plan a tour of Peace River

A tour for senior citizens is being set up by the County of Beaver Regional Recreation Department.

This tour is tentatively set for thee days, August 27th to 29th.

It is not certain at this time, what the tour will include, but by the next issue of The Mercury, more information will be received.

Senior citizens in the County of Beaver who wish to go on this trip to the Peace River country, may get in contact with the Regional Recreation Office, Ryley, 663-3720.

This promises to be an exciting trip for those who have never been to the Peace River area, as well as for those who have been there.

Tofield kids enjoy outing

On Thursday and Friday, last, 15 boys and girls of the Tofield Playground, the leaders and one volunteer traveled to Camp Lake, eight miles north of Kinsella.

Everyone enjoyed the sport of canoeing, and spent a lot of time swimming. Night time saw everyone bunked down in sleeping bags on hardwood floors. After hot dogs on Friday, they travelled back home again, a little tired but ready to go again. The campout was enjoyed by all.

We would like to thank Mr. Lauksys and Lyle Heberg for driving; the Tofield Lions Club for supplying the bus; the leaders at Camp Lake for letting us have a terrific time and also Sharon Rudzeki for coming with us.

Joy comes to symphony

By CLAUDE ADAMS

For a few moments Saturday Joy Hendrickson left the world of Bugs Bunny and Funky Phantom and made beautiful music.

Waving a conductor's baton in her nine-year-old hand, Joy led the violins and the trumpets and the harp and the cellos and the kettledrums of the Victoria Symphony Orchestra through a short piece of classical music.

If Joy looks familiar to many long-term residents of this area, it might be because she looks very like her mother, the former Senja Goitas. Joy is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James Hendrickson of Victoria, and a granddaughter of Mrs. Jane Goitas and Mrs. Magda Hendrickson, both of Camrose. Senja had been taking Joy and her friends to these excellent Saturday rehearsal concerts for some time, but they were taken completely by surprise at the unexpected results.

No matter that she was scared stiff, and that she forgot to signal the bass violins, and that her centre-stage dress included purple jeans and running shoes. The music was fine and she got warm applause from the 150 youngsters and mothers in the Royal Theatre attending a rehearsal of the orchestra.

Joy, 2511 Sinclair, was picked from the audience by conductor Laszlo Gati, who obviously believes that classical music can be kid's stuff.

While she conducted, dozens of other youngsters in the theatre waved their arms up and down and momentarily forgot all about their usual Saturday morning TV cartoon shows.

Like David Kayal, 3 and a half only knee-high to a piano stool but already an ardent listener. Even though he couldn't begin to pronounce Khalevsky, David was entranced by the tambourines and drums.

During a Khalevsky overture, he sat rooted in his chair beside his mom and never once took his eyes off the stage.

"He'll go home and talk about nothing else for the whole day," said his mother, Doris Kayal. "It's something new and unknown.

"I think it's terrific that kids can be exposed to this kind of thing of an early age.

"It's the second time we've taken him. Once his father came and I stayed at home with the baby, and this time I came and he stayed with the baby."

When the tambourines and drums were idle, David would

Census shows agriculture in transition is dynamic, flourishing, growth industry

Agriculture in Alberta is a dynamic industry exhibiting considerable growth in recent years. The 1971 Census of Agriculture describes the growth trends in Alberta agriculture and permits comparisons between regions of the province.

While farm numbers and farm population decreased between 1966 and 1971 both the total area utilized for agriculture and the average farm size increased.

At the same time land use has intensified — about 1.2 million more acres were classed as improved in 1971 than in 1966.

Livestock numbers, the amount of capital employed and the value of agricultural product sales, all show substantial growth during the five year period.

Between 1966 and 1971 the number of farms in Alberta declined by nearly 10 per cent to 62,702. As a result farm population also declined. Of the province's 1.6 million people about 15 per cent or 238,000 people lived on farms in 1971.

While both farm numbers and farm population declined during the five year period to 1971, the land area devoted to agriculture and the average farm size increased. The 49.5 million acres in agricultural production in 1971 represents a 1 per cent gain from 1966. Average farm size increased from 706 acres in 1966 to 790 acres in 1971. During this period improved land for agricultural production increased by more than 4 per cent and unimproved land declined by 3 per cent.

Livestock numbers also rose - in 1971 Alberta's beef cattle population was up almost 8 per cent from 1966 and hog numbers showed a growth of 66 per cent compared to five years earlier. The 1971 capital value of Alberta farms increased $1.0 billion from 1966 — a rise of 24 per cent in five years. Livestock and poultry represented the largest increase in capital values - up 40 per cent from 1966. Land and building capital values rose 23 per cent and machinery and equipment increased 11 per cent. Alberta's average farm capital value in 1971 at $83,003 compares to $69,734 in 1966 and $37,118 in 1961.

PRODUCTION UP

The value of agricultural product sales in 1970 showed an increase of $199 million from 1965 to $832 million. This represents a 31 per cent increase or about 6 per cent per year. Livestock sales showed the largest gains during this period - up 66 per cent from 1965. In 1970, nearly 4,000 more farms had production sales in excess of $10,000 than five years earlier. In total, 35 per cent of Alberta farms sold products valued at more than $10,000.

Census data also provides an opportunity to analyze agriculture within Alberta's crop districts. Crop district No. 10 (Vegreville area) and No. 15 (Peace River) show more farms than other districts at 8,356 and 8,415 respectively. The area tributary to Oyen, district No. 4, had only 1,737 farm operations in 1971, less than any other district. However the average farm size was larger — [illegible] 2,982 acres per [illegible]. The smallest average farm size was 367 acres in crop district No. 11, the Edmonton area. Average size in the Peace River area was 688 acres, in the Red Deer area, district No. 8, 479 acres, in crop district No. 6 (Calgary region) 869 acres and in the Lethbridge area, district No. 2, 1,081 acres.

The area centered [illegible] and crop district No. [illegible] showed the highest proportion of farms with product sales in excess of $10,000. Approximately 60 per cent of all farms in this area had sales over $10,000. The St. Paul area, district No. 12, and the Peace River region had a [illegible] per cent [illegible] [illegible]

Holden and district news items

Don MacGregor and Harry Christian have returned home after attending the recent two-day convention in Calgary of the Alberta Livestock co-op. While there, Mr. Christian had a very informative half hour talk with Mr. Whalen, the Federal Minister of Agriculture, who mentioned to Mr. Christian that he had the opinion that the small town local newspapers "the weeklies" gave a truer version of news than the larger city papers and that the local radio stations also kept more to the original version of news, not being as highly colored or sensationalized as net-work coverage of news and announcements. Mr. Christian said he was given much pertinent information and the talk was most interesting and informative

Mrs. Irene Strilchuk, former Holdenite, now of the Ryley district was hurt severely in a car accident in Calgary a couple of weeks ago. She, with a daughter-in-law, were crossing the street when the accident occurred between a car and a truck. Irene being knocked down and is a patient in the General Hospital in Calgary. Her daughter-in-law was treated for shock and later released from hospital. Her husband, Paul Strilchuk was also unfortunate, being a patient in Tofield Hospital, receiving injuries while tryng to tow a car out of a ditch.

They enjoyed their trip very much seeing "Man and His World" at Montreal. Mrs. Ethel Brekstad, who looked after the farm and children during their absence, is back home and busy having a new garage built at the back of her lot when the weather permits work.

Mrs. Anna Christensen, a resident at the nursing home in Viking recently spent a day with her family in Holden.

HOME CANNING PROBLEMS

Why are Mrs B's canned raspberries such a nice red color and mine are faded? Why are my pears pink? Why did my corn turn brown. This is the season when many homemakers are confronted with such problems of home canning. The following should provide solutions to some of these problems.

FADED BERRIES

Some varieties lose color more than others. Injury to berries during preparation causes escape of juice and hence loss of color. Storage in a light place may cause fading.

FLOATING FRUIT

May be caused by too heavy of syrup or an under packed jar.

BROWN DISCOLORATION IN CANNED FRUIT

This is caused by oxidation. Air has been removed from fruit either because: (1) too low temperature was used or (2) of poor seal or faulty lids. Enzymes within fruit have not been destroyed by sufficient temperature. Use a hot rather than cold pack method to prevent this. Use standard processing time.

PINK PEARS

May be due to overcooking, or too slow cooking. Some varieties of pears tend to turn pink.

WHITE SEDIMENT IN VEGETABLES

White particles settling out in the bottom of containers is probably due to hard water. White sediment in peas or beans may be due to overmature vegetables. Sometimes starch cooks out and gives the liquid a white look. White sediment in tomatoes indicates spoilage. It is caused by using a poor product and by core present.

BROWN CORN

May be caused by (1) overcooking (2) canning corn at a poor stage of maturity or (3) using too much corn and not enough water in jar. Kernel corn should not be packed too tightly.

FOGGY LIQUID

This may be flat sour spoilage. To avoid, handle products rapidly and carefully. Use fresh products. Follow recommended procedure. Store in a cool place.

SULPHIDE SPOILAGE

Found particularly in peas. Food is often soft and has a very unpleasant odor. The trouble is due to the presence of bacteria (pressure canning). Botulism is fatal unless the product is boiled when removed from the container. Use a tested pressure cooker for canning all low acid vegetables (most vegetables except tomatoes). Bacteria thrive on low-acid foods, water boiling temperatures will not completely destroy these bacteria, only temperature above 212 degrees F. will be affective.

CANNERS — BEWARE

1. Don't pack jars too tightly - especially corn, beans and lima beans - these expand during processing. Leave one and one half inches at top of jar. For other foods leave one inch on top.
2. Don't fill jars too full of liquid, leave one inch head space and one and one half inch space for peas, beans and corn.
3. Don't count time in boiling water bath before water attains a full rolling boil. Keep it boiling vigorously the entire time.
4. Don't have water in boiling water bath less than 2 inches above the jar tops, in order to prevent loss of liquid from jars.
5. Don't overprocess fruit "just to make sure". This causes it to float in the jar and will turn peaches, pears and apricots brown.

Holden district

(by Mrs. G. H. Taylor)

The Holden Senior Citizens Group held their regular monthly meeting Thursday evening, July 26th in their club room, with Otto Hurum chairing the meeting. A short business session was held and, at the conclusion, various card games were played with lunch being served to end the evening. The Group hold their meeting every fourth Thursday of the month and all senior citizens of Holden and area are welcome to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Irvn Scott of Athabasca spent the long holiday weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hooper and because of the heavy rain over the weekend, did not return until Wednesday morning, as the rain stopped construction at Athabasca.

An honest man

It is an increasingly saddening spectacle to watch the Watergate scandal as it unfolds week by week. For it demonstrates that many men in high places - - people in public post' forgetting the meaning of plain honesty.

The Watergate is so much more than a series of monstrous mistakes and serious crimes emanating from the White House. The Watergate is a symbol of our times. Certain men are prepared to go toextremes to gain either wealth or power - - and indeed both for power equals money, and money usually can buy power.

The fact that Watergate and the sex scandals in Britain - as well as the monumental money frauds row coming to light in different nations - - capture the headlines is significant. For it indicates a yearning among the ordinary people for good and true men to lead them. An honest man is the noblest work of creation. And there are countless millions of honest men around the world.

But too often they are deprived, by lack of educational opportunities, by mere circumstance, of the chance to attain positions of leadership. Then there are others so disgusted by the fact that men who are but common criminals can gain such power and wealth that they keep away from public life and politics altogether.

No amount of modern technology can replace the basic ethic that has been established by mankind over the centuries. The morality that guides good men along right paths has many names. It is to be hoped that the tragedy that is Watergate will throw forward men with vision - not just south of the border - - but in various lands and regions where honest government today is lacking. / less ever and ask his mom things like why guest soloist Ricki Turofsky, a tall and slender soprano, didn't start singing immediately the orchestra started, and what was that nice sound (a glockenspiel).

Near the back of the theatre, Ian Sutherland, 5, and his sister Clair, 3, got their introduction to people like Mozart and Puccini.

Ian, who tinkers on drums and guitars with the rhythm band of his kindergarten class, wasn't sure to like this new experience sitting down. He was on his feet, emulating Gatl.

"With a little help from me, he makes all the movements," said his proud mother. "If he's interested, I'd like him to play in an orchestra some day.

"This is really good for children, because they don't have any musical prejudices yet."

The most popular feature of the morning was, without a doubt, percussionist John Smith playing an energy-sapping piece called The Worried Drummer, by Schreiber.

Surrounded by shlowa mini orchestra that included the timpani, bass drum, kettle-drum, bells, wooden slats and sleigh bells, Smith looked every bit the drummer at his wit's end.

The piece was introduced by Gatl, who said: "If anybody out there is thinking or taking up the drums, this is your chance to make a decision."

And while the orchestra was showing that symphonic music is child's play, a little old lady in a red hat was sitting alone, high up in the balcony, a living testimony to the claim that musical appreciation knows no age barriers.

UFA ..you make it happen.
when farm petroleum was low priced UFA was a good, money-saving idea

now it's even better!
Maybe UFA's patronage dividends weren't all that important to you a few years ago. Farm petroleum didn't cost very much anyway and you didn't have as much power machinery. But these days the 13.4 per cent dividend farmers earned last year on UFA petroleum purchases is your kind of money — cash that can help you beat rising production costs and keep up to increasing production needs. Today when very few farmers can afford to be without UFA — isn't it fortunate UFA's top quality products, dependable service and full customer benefits are offered in almost every farming district in Alberta!

Clear land

The land has been cleared and construction will get underway shortly on the senior citizens' modular home village in Daysland which is being erected by the Daysland Lions Club with many of the members planning on putting many hours of help on the project before it is finished.

Dual purpose grass

Russian wild ryegrass can be cut for hay after seed is harvested, or it can be left for fall or winter pasture. Agriculture Canada researchers found that regrowth in the fall will contain between seven and nine per cent protein, and that grazing Russian wild ryegrass in the late fall or winter does not reduce the seed yield the following year.

Youth service

Total number of studnets registered in Youth Employment Service so far to date is twenty nine. Eighteen of whom are male. Two more female registrations from the Tofield area are expected in shortly.

A total of twenty six job orders have been received since the beginning of July. In the past week one job order remained unfilled.

Monies earned by the students since the beginning of operations reached the two hundred and twenty two dollar mark.

Tofield Playground has very busy week

On Thursday last, 36 kids from the Tofield playground the leaders and two volunteers travelled to Camp Lake where they had a very enjoyable time swimming, canoeing and dunking the leaders. Everybody returned home that night slightly tired and soaked but, ready for the carnival. We would like to thank Mr. Baker for arranging the trip, Lyle Heiberg for driving the bus, Mr. Warner, the leaders at Camp Lake and our volunteers, Mike Warner and Debbie Walker for coming with us.

On Friday, plans and preparations were finalized and the "Mini Klondike Carnival" got under way. A Haunted Mansion, Gold Mine, Football Throw, Fortune Teller and Fish Pond were a few attractions. There was also a display of pictures and crafts that the kids made.

Grand Prize winners of the flashlights were Michelle Fleck and Darrin Sorken. A total of $37.35 was raised, $15 of which will go towards the Retarded Childrens Fund

We would like to thank the mothers for popping the popcorn and for providing the various things we needed. We would also like to thank all the people who attended and helped make the carnival successful.

We would like to extend an enormous thank you to the following businesses for their donations towards the "Mini Klondike Carnival,", Charlies Place, Texaco, Crown Lumber, Tire and Battery, Super A, MacLeods, Tofield Pharmacy, Gene Thirsk, Country Girl Salon, Simpson-Sears, Pool Hall, MD Hardware, UFA, Dykeman's Confectionery, Swift's Garage, Everitt's Foodland, Robinson's Tofield Public Library, Elizabeth Shoppe and Tofield Hotel.

We gratefully appreciate the contributions from Joe Winger, Ron Dehminsky, Mrs. Maloje, Mrs. Freebury, Mr. and Mrs. Clark, and various other people. We'd also like to thank Don Roth for duplicating the invitations to the carnival. A really big thank you from us goes to our volunteers Debbie Walker, Donna Friessen, Lynn and Mike Warner. We would like to thank each person who helped in some way but the list would be rather long so we just say a big THANK YOU.

Higher interest rates

Announcement of sharply increased interest rates in Canada last week was followed in the news yesterday that the prime rate in the United States had increased to nine and a half percent. Says corporate farm is unlikely threat

A good deal has been said lately about the invasion of Western Canadian agriculture by large, and mostly American based non agricultural corporations. Depending upon whom you talk to, it may be portrayed as a genuine threat to western agriculture's treasured free enterprise system. Allen Toly, the Alberta Department of Agriculture's district agriculturist at Claresholm, does not agree with this view.

While attending the University of California last summer he came across an extension econ must who has spent a great deal of time, in cooperation with the U.S.D.A., studying this very problem as it relates to American agriculture. Since most of our agriculture is western Canada is directly influenced by American agriculture, there is every reason to believe that their findings on corporate farming bear a direct relationship to what we can expect here. Mr. Toly says California has been the centre of most of this corporate activity because of its high risk, high return crops.

U.S.D.A. finding indicate that the dimensions and impact of corporate farming in that country are exaggerated. Only 1 to 7 percent of commercial farms in the U.S. are incorporated and nineteen of them are massive (annual sales) businesses that have grown to a size that makes a corporate structure desirable for tax or inheritance reasons. Less than 0.01 percent of the total are operated by corporations with more than 10 shareholders, and these account for less than 3 percent of the total farm sales. Farms with gross sales in the $10,000 to $40,000 range still account for 30 percent of all cash receipts.

The great corporate land rush that was started in the late 1960's by companies that previously had no connection with agriculture appears to have been touched off by a 1966 U.S.D.A. report predicting the enormous increase in food production that will be needed to take care of the population growth by the end of the century.

U.S. farm organizations protested bitterly about this corporate invasion, and some even advocated retaliation in the form of holdings among other countries' farmers in the future, even raising the possibility of hostile action if certain aspects of integration in California aren't changed. Mr. Toly adds that this alarm was being heard at the time when corporate farms were turning out to be no menace at all — except to the profits of their parent companies.

Although no public agency keeps track of the financial records of large corporate farms, the U.S. Department of Agriculture officials can rattle off the names of many spectacular failures among large, well-known companies. Our own Peace River country has also seen many U.S. corporate farming ventures fail.

Just why do these large, otherwise successful corporations, do so badly in farming? The University of California study points out that farming is full of uncertainties such as weather, soil, seed and yield. Such uncertainties call for countless decisions that must be made out in the field and not behind a distant desk.

Mr. Toly believes that the typical independent farmer is better equipped than a hired manager to accept the responsibility of taking chances. He is also familiar with his operation that its problems and capabilities are second nature to him. Most corporations believe that with modern management and the economies of scale, they can operate more efficiently than the smaller independent operator. However, as soon as a business grows beyond the ability of the owner to stay on top of his total operation, where critical decisions must be made daily, costs begin to mount.

The California study also showed that financially oriented "brains" do not really understand farming. The companies try to grow too fast, with the result that they do not have a chance to make the little mistakes before they make the big ones. In addition, these "frontline" man

Bukieda advises Hog producer caution

"I am worried that the producers will reduce herds by too much in the next few months" says Tony Bukieda, chairman of the Alberta Hog Producers Marketing Board. Mr. Bukieda made this comment in response to the current decline in hog numbers and the reported high female stock slaughter in Canada and the United States.

Canadian now, marketings for slaughter in the last four weeks are reported to be averaging 17 per cent higher than the same period last year. Of even greater concern is the number of pregnant sows coming to market - about 10 to 20 per cent above normal, reported at meat packing plants in the last few weeks. The reason farmers appear to be quitting hogs is primarily due to rapidly increasing costs of production and feed, the uncertainty as to how long the market price will remain high and the temptation to deliver grain to the elevators at recently improved prices.

Mr. Bukieda feels that swine producers in Alberta should exercise caution in reducing hog numbers at this time. He explained that "future income security for farmers in Western Canada can be better obtained through diversification into livestock production" of livestock than relying on grain export sales. Our future should not be tied to crop failures in countries like Russia and China - instead, it would be better to rely on increasing levels of income in the developing nations where we have an opportunity to make most export sales at good prices. It makes more sense tying our future to increasing wage levels in Tokyo than to the weather in Russia."

Mr. Bukieda said "it is still too soon to tell for certain but it appears that hog producers may have reduced herds by too much already - we will be keeping a very close watch on future developments". He would like hog producers to consider all factors involved before selling breeding stock for slaughter. "The producer that has stayed in the hog business over the long haul is usually ahead of the game", he stated.

agers tend to farm on a strictly first class basis, believing they have plenty of money to spend because the outfit is big.

It seems that the old adage is still true the essential factor in profitable agriculture is "the shadow of the owner on his land." The personal day to day supervision by a man with a substantial stake in the enterprise appears to be more important in agriculture than it may be in some other businesses.

CRAPAUD, PEI — One of the thing that's a must for the Ward family on the annual jaunt to Prince Edward Island is a stem of mackerel fishing with our favorite skipper, Charlie Craswell out of the North shore port of Rustico.

This year there is a regular army of friends staying at the same cottage complex, so we decided to charter Charlie's whole boat — a 30 footer powered by a big 455 Olds engine.

You wouldn't believe the complexities of the arrangements which had to be made to wake and breakfast 10 adults and close to 20 kids. We had to leave by 7 a.m. to make an 8 a.m. departure time from Rustico, and as anyone knows different families have different ways of getting mobile in the morning. The Wards, perhaps because the nominal head of the house likes to squeeze every possible ounce of sack time from the morning, habitually rise at the last minute and launch themselves into the day with crumbs of sleep still clinging to each cheek.

Others are different, but on this particular day, that mattered not. We had the only alarm clock so we were designated first on deck.

By 6:10 a.m. there was a knock on the cottage door. It was howling half a gale outside with rain squalls, and our nautical neighbor wanted to know if it was worth going, because the kids would be teased about something fierce.

No, I agreed, it wouldn't. Do we tell the others, or do we let them sleep? Silly question. All potential fishermen under the age of 15 were already awake and rarin' to go.

One of our friends, the gal with the great legs, was shuffling about her cottage in a filmy nightie with an old hockey sweater worn on the top, fending off complaints about her coffee whilst jamming peanut butter sandwiches into the noisiest mouths.

The rain came across the lawn off the sea in grey slats, dousing the kids, who didn't really seem to mind, and the parents, who did. The door to the local management office was still locked, so we couldn't phone Charlie to cancel.

As organizer of the fishing trip I was receiving bleary stares of veiled hostility more and more frequently as the kids became more and more wakeful. Well the only logical thing to do was mumble something about having to find a telephone, and drive off over the red mud, away from the prematurely wakened cottage complex.

There were still residues of distaste left when I returned, and there was a notable lack of enthusiasm when I announced that the fishing spree wasn't really cancelled, just postponed until the next day, 7 a.m. departure once again.

And that it seemed to me, was a good time to retire and demand solitude in which to write a column, whether one had anything to say or not. Please let there be sunshine tomorrow.

Facts about the Carpet Business
A carpet can be advertised on the radio or television at $7.50 a yard.
It sounds like a very low price. But when they add $2.00 for cushion, $2.00 for labor — that's $4.00 a yard more that you don't expect. So you are really paying $11.50 a yard. Some companies also charge for mileage.

UFA ...you make it happen.
when farm petroleum was low priced UFA was a good, money-saving idea

now it's even better!
Maybe UFA's patronage dividends weren't all that important to you a few years ago. Farm petroleum didn't cost very much anyway and you didn't have as much power machinery. But these days the 13.4 per cent dividend farmers earned last year on UFA petroleum purchases is your kind of money — cash that can help you beat rising production costs and keep up to increasing production needs. Today when very few farmers can afford to be without UFA — isn't it fortunate UFA's top quality products, dependable service and full customer benefits are offered in almost every farming district in Alberta!

THE Homemaker

DOES IT PAY TO CAN AND FREEZE?

Every year at harvest time, homemakers are involved in confusing and often conflicting debates regarding the economic advisability of preserving foods by canning and freezing.

When food is home grown there is no problem — home preservation is economical as well as being more flavorful. But if the food must be purchased, the decision depends on the individual homemaker, her skill, equipment, storage space, access to shopping, standards, family size and demands on her time.

It will be worth your while to consider all the factors, and estimate the cost before making a decision. Some general points are: It will cost more to can if:
1. You need to buy fruit and vegetables.
2. You need to buy jars (it costs more to can in pint sealers than in quarts).
3. Poor technique or storage causes spoilage.
4. Your family can't use the size conveniently.

It will cost less to can if:
1. You produce your own fruits and vegetables.
2. You have all the equipment needed and plan to can each year.
3. You have adequate skill and storage space.
4. Your family can use what you prepare.

BUY ALREADY CANNED IF.

1. The price is especially low.
2. You do not have much storage.
3. Shopping is relatively convenient and you can take advantage of specials.
4. You are a busy homemaker whose time and or skill can better save pennies elsewhere.
5. Tins are available in sizes that suit your family's needs.

Freezing foods even though they must be purchased is generally more economical than canning. It takes less time to freeze than to can, and the product generally more closely resembles the fresh food.

REMEMBER FOR ECONOMY
1. First freeze home produce or local produce. Consider which foods represent the greatest savings, eg. it is poor economy to freeze vegetables which are available at a reasonable price all year round.
2. Need what you feeze. Do not use your frozen product while the fresh fruit or vegetable is available in your home garden or at "in season" market price.
3. Using every bit of freezer space all the time represents the greatest saving in food costs.
4. Don't "bank" foods too long. Use first those stored longest.

For more information on home preservation we have three pamphlets that you might find very interesting and useful.
1. Preserve by Freezing.
2. Home Canning of fruits and vegetables.
3. Jams, Jellies and pickles.

If you would like a copy of one or all of these write to Box 519, Vegreville, or call 632 2885 or drop into our office.

BRING THE OUTDOORS IN

Summer is a particularly happy time for flower enthusiasts. Don't let fall end your floral arrangements. Dry grasses, weeds and flowers for later use.

With one stop along the road side, you may find all the colors and kinds of foliage you want. Some will already have dried naturally and are ready for immediate use. Others must be preserved when you reach home. Cattails, grasses and other long stemmed varieties can be hung (heads down to preserve their straight lines) while they dry. For curved stems, place them in a container that allows some flexability. Dry heat speeds rapid and successful preserving.

Of course not all things are suited to this type of drying. Include:

1. Silica gel — a light weight drying crystal suitable for roses, marigolds, pansies, carnations, etc. Place layers of the powder in a box, lay the flower in face down and cover with more powder. Leave about one week.
2. Mixture of half borax, half cornmeal or two thirds borax with one third sand. Method is same as above and useful for some flowers, but take about three week.
3. Pressing is recommended for leaves and ferns. Be sure to use several layers of newspaper to absorb moisture, and place extra between leaves that over lap. Try to keep your materials dust free until they are ready for use. Spray some gold, silver or another color if you like. Hair spray or shellac will help keep cattails from shattering.

When you're ready to make your floral bouquet, spread lots of newspaper first it'll save on clean up after the fun is over. When using heavy cattails, etc use a large, heavy container. Light weight glass containers are better for airy arrangements like dried grains.

Remember to work from all sides unless the one side of the arrangement will be against the wall. Establish the height and width with the first few flowers. Then fill in with others — don't overcrowd.

I'm going to try using dried sorril, cattail and grasses on a burlap backed wall hanging this fall. Glue will likely hold the light grasses in place but invisible thread or wire may be necessary for the heavier pieces. You might like to try this idea too — it's something different, with all the texture and depth anyone could want.

Society seeks members

Nearly 350 members have been signed by the Beaver Heritage and Agricultural Society of Ryley. The Society's aim is to foster social recreational, and cultural activities in the Ryley district.

Their first project will be to secure an agricultural complex containing a swimming pool and meeting and crafts room.

The organization is being sponsored by the Ryley Lions Club and other groups in the rural district. Officers of the new organization will be selected at a general meeting to be held Thursday, September 6th, at the Community Hall in Ryley.

The goal of the society is to sign at least 500 members to the project and they have issued an appeal to all residents for support in this endeavour.

Mosquitoes and Flowers

Centennial Park in Tofield is in its full glory, with all the flowers and greenery at their peak. If one can stand the mosquitoes, it's a pleasant place to relax.

Holden girl gets 4-H trip to New Brunswick

At the recent 4-H Provincial Selections held at Olds and attended by 150 members, Debbie Koetke of the Holden 4-H Beef Club, was fortunate enough to win one of the 36 major awards.

Debbie's 4-H record, compiled over a six year period, earned her the right to represent Alberta on a two-week trip to New Brunswick next July.

Debbie has been a diligent and conscientious worker in both her local club and regional activities. She has held every executive office available, attended Club Week in Vermilion, been a camp councillor at Moose Lake 4-H Camp for two years, and been a member of the North East Regional 4-H Council. In addition, she has experience in public speaking, parliamentary procedure, public relations and leadership.

Local Award Winners

Dawnita Keith, Lorna Grinde, Gregory Koetke and Harvey Hunchak attended Moose Lake Regional 4-H Camp during the first week of July. Their trip was sponsored by the Holden Elks, Norman Lefsrud, M&M Food Store and Holden 4-H Beef Club.

Elgar Grinde won the Senior 4-H Record Keeping Competition and will receive the Royal Bank Trophy.

Gregory Koetke won the Junior 4-H Record Keeping Competition and will receive the Royal Bank Belt Buckle. Debbie Koetke was selected as the most efficient member in the club and will receive the H.C. Olsen Efficiency Trophy.

Tofield Playground program is completed

The average daily attendance at the Tofield Playground has been 22 for both months.

Last Thursday, 32 kids, the leaders and the four volunteers travelled to Storyland Valley Zoo where they had a marvelous time. They watched two puppet shows, saw the milking of Hazel the cow, rode the train and saw the many different animals. The monkeys, otters, racoons and bears were among the favorites. A thank-you is extended to Henry Shroeder for driving, to the Lions Club for the use of the bus and to the people at Storyland.

At an end of the summer party, everyone went out to Colleen's farm where they had fun riding horses, watching hypnotized chickens and having rides on the motorbike. Later, weiners were roasted and the ice cream and cake brought out for lunch. We would like to thank our volunteers Mike Warner, Debbie Walker, Donna Friessen and Joan Clark for all their help. We would also like to thank the Tofield Recreation Board for all their help, especially Mr. Dykeman and Mr. Baergen for solving most of our problems. Also, a thank you goes out to The Mercury for printing all of our articles.

Since there has to be an end to everything and this seems to be it for summer holidays we'd like to thank everyone else, especially the kids, for making the "Summer of 73" as great as it was.

Lightning hits Ministik region

Last Thursday some damage was caused in a few homes in Ministik by one of the fiercest thunder and lightning storms to ever strike that district.

Although the houses themselves were not extensively damaged, the P. Lafontaine, J.D. Paterson, and Mrs. Jim Roddick homes were among those which had appliances, light fixtures, and telephones blown out of commission. Most telephone lines in the district were put out of order, with some still having trouble.

The Mercury celebrates its '57th' anniversary

With this issue, The Mercury is celebrating is 57th anniversary of regular publication since it began printing back in 1917.

The years have seen The Mercury grew, both in the number of pages used in each issue and the number of subscribers that read the paper each week.

Up to about two years ago, The Mercury ranged between eight and twelve page issues but, the last two years has seen limited eight-page editions with sixteen page publications appearing at various times and, not just at Christmas as had been the case in the past.

The Mercury circulation hovered around 1,000 for a number of years until the County of Beaver split the circulation between this paper and the Viking News in an effort to see that all ratepayers were aware of the happenings in the County.

Since then, circulation figures have continued to grow until it now totals 1,631 and, new subscribers are appearing at a regular rate each week.

W. Wotton started The Mercury and published until his death in 1951. From 1912 until 1952, The Mercury was printed in the plant of the Wainwright Star.

In 1952, The Mercury was taken over by Cliff Patterson and Ken Leiske but, unfortunately, Mr. Leiske passed away shortly after the take-over.

On February 1st 1962, the paper was purchased by C.A. MacLean and K.E.G. Patrige, owners of The Camrose Canadian, with George Meyer as editor in chief and Olive Pollock as local editor.

Mr. Meyer gave up his post in 1966 when he purchased the Taber Times. Publisher C.A. MacLean assumed the editor's chair until November 1967 when the present editor, Ed Clinton took over the task.

Treat all the same

When hog prices were $18 per hundred weight barely two years ago, producers were told to supply pork for world markets. Why can't producers meet world markets now? asks the Western Hog Growers Association. It doesn't seem reasonable to encourage them to produce for the world when prices are low, then cut off that market when prices rise, simply to insulate the Canadian consumer from world market prices.

But if we're going to establish the concept of protecting Canadian consumers, then let's go all the way. Why not insist that the pulp and paper mills supply Canadian consumers ahead of any other customer, especially since Canadian purchasers are willing to pay the world price for newsprint if only they could get it.

The Camrose Canadian has no problem with supply, as it happens, for some time yet, but another Canadian, in fact, several national publications are facing severely curtailed situations. Part of this, of course, is because of the railway strike eliminating supply, but part of it is because of strikes in the paper mills. And part of it is occasioned by sharply increased pressure on world stocks, much of which is brought about by increasing insistence on pollution controls cutting out a number of mills.

If Canadian consumers should be entitled to first call on the beef and cattle products of the country, why shouldn't Canadian printers be entitled to first call on the forest products of our country? And so on, through the other industries.

It can be argued that once lost, customers for these products are very hard to replace, and of course this is true. But it's equally true that once breeding stock is liquidated because of embargoes on shipments out of the country, it will take years to replace.

It's only a few short weeks since Ottawa and the Province met in Calgary, and already the West has been dealt two very sharp blows, first a highly discriminatory feed grain policy, and now an embargo on meat export. It makes one wonder if nobody from Ottawa was listening.

Dinah, won't you blow?

Probably the most important news in Canada this week is that Prime Minister Trudeau decided to recall Parliament, for tomorrow, with the express object of finding a solution to the railway strike. As well as the Opposition, of course, he realized he wouldn't be allowed simply to get the trains rolling, and then let MP's go home again . . . once back in Ottawa, they'll be girding for battle on many fronts.

However, even the Opposition parties must realize that the most important thing is to get those trains rolling. The stronghold of the Conservatives is on the Western Prairies, and the Prairies desperately need those trains to move the cattle to market, and the grain to market, and many types of oil and other commodities that are presently stalled. Not only that, but they need the trains to haul in the countless products that aren't manufactured in these parts.

Isolated as we are, without recourse to water transportation as an alternative, it's obvious that the Prairie residents are more absolutely dependent on the railways than any other section of the Dominion. We still have truck transport, of course, and air traffic, but when it comes to moving the really heavy stuff and the big loads, it's pretty hard to match the capacity of the rails.

For th[illegible], it seems only logical that the Western Conservative members will be working just as hard as the government to find an equitable solution to the [illegible], even though the Conservative party as a group may want to make all the political mileage possible out of the government's trouble. Let's not forget it's not just the government's problem. It's shared by all of us.

POOL IS NEEDED

Dear Sir,

Recreation in Beaver County has come a long way since the Regional Recreation District was created four years ago. It has fostered an intense interest in cooperative recreational activity in the area. This interest has resulted in the increased efforts of the residents to upgrade their recreation facilities in local areas. The arena in Tofield, the new sports grounds in Ryley, the proposed arena complex in Holden, the agricultural complex in Bruce and the new community hall and renovation of the arena in Viking are examples of this new spirit of cooperative endeavour.

Under the regional board policy that ended last year all grants were to be used for local facilities but in the new grant period of five years starting in 1973, the [illegible] would be placed on [illegible] for county wide use.

Number one priority by popular demand and by vote of the board has been the construction of a swimming pool for the use of the whole county.

A major facility such as this is too great a financial burden for any district to bear and must be shared by all the residents. Swimming has a greater participation by all people, nearly 80 per cent according to surveys by the University of Alberta than any other form of organized recreation. Arenas and sports grounds are enjoyed by many as observers but only [illegible] to 20 per cent of the [illegible] population are active participants.

Beaver County [illegible] an enclosed swimming pool to give the full benefits of this popular recreation to its residents on a year round basis.

Recently members of the Ryley Lions Club and of the Regional Board have visited pools at Stettler, Killam, Vermilion, Camrose and Edmonton.

The most impressive pools were those operated by the Stettler School District and by the Edmonton Recreation Department at Confederation Park.

The Stettler complex [illegible] two pools [illegible] general swimming [illegible] included [illegible] in its curriculum [illegible] the program serves both the town of Stettler and all the schools in the County of Stettler. In the summer [illegible] students are bussed [illegible] other areas outside the county.

The school children of Beaver County have been limited to twelve hours of instruction a year by transporting them in the summer to Edmonton and Vegreville. This limited time is not enough to make good swimmers of the students.

The Ryley Lions Club is spearheading the campaign to form Beaver Heritage and Agricultural Society whose goal will be to build an agricultural complex containing the facilities that Beaver County lacks. They sincerely hope to gain your support for this worthy project.

Duplication of expensive facilities will be avoided [illegible] other areas as do not have sufficient capacity to serve the needs of our County. Camrose and Vegreville have outdoor pools limited to two months in the summer. The only possible solution is the construction of a facility [illegible] meet the needs of our residents and the inclusion of the facility use into our school program.

Thomas M. K[illegible]
Chairman of Ryley District Recreation Board Member of Beaver County Rec Board

'Angels of mercy'

CRAPAUD, PEI — Never mind the international grain orders falling behind because of the rail strike, or the saturated holiday crowds tenting in the mud to wait for strike-delayed ferries, think about the plight of Newfoundland.

As we sat waiting out the current rain storm on the last night of the annual Ward family holiday in Prince Edward Island there was an air of excitement. The three younger Wards were to fly to Newfoundland for a week with friends, mother and dad were to have the drive back to Ottawa entirely to themselves.

There was a birthday in the family and to celebrate in lieu of a cake, was a birthday cherry pie, pastry pierced with candles, different I suppose but after all why not?

In the midst of all this, came a distress call from our friends in Newfoundland.

Help, they said. Send food. They reported that the CN strike and local labor troubles had combined to virtually wipe bread, hamburg buns, flour and potatoes from every grocery shelf. Now with our three planning a week's visit, I could understand the concern such a circumstance would cause.

Could we, they asked, arrange to pack six loaves of bread, a couple of dozen hamburg buns and some potatoes in the kids' baggage. The kids would have to be discreet [illegible] would be [illegible] Newfoundland [illegible] labor force threatened [illegible] action [illegible] to circumvent the strike.

So that's how we turned our kids into potato smugglers.

We raced to the local store [illegible] the [illegible] and filled a carton with island spuds, fresh bread and hamburg buns. These were packed [illegible] to make three [illegible] parcels and [illegible] that our friends [illegible] depleted wardrobe of their guests.

[illegible] becoming [illegible] part an [illegible] the [illegible] first plane [illegible] all [illegible] they hauled their freight out of Prince Edward Island.

[illegible] days straight [illegible] think you could [illegible] session on the Northumberland Straits this year as [illegible] even caught [illegible] well [illegible] all the other [illegible] boats [illegible] and us were getting nothing [illegible]

There [illegible] a resident [illegible] from the [illegible] friends back in Ottawa [illegible] the [illegible] a ready-made answer.

That's not fan friends that's rust.

MR. AND MRS. KINDLEY

Axel and Nita Kindley marked their golden wedding anniversary on Sunday, August 26th, when approximately 250 relatives and friends gathered at Bardo Lutheran Church in Tofield to wish them well and to reminisce.

Three of their four attendants were present. Mrs. Nora Anderson of Camrose was bridesmaid and Raymond Nordhus of Clearbrook, B.C., and Edward Steen of Camrose were the groomsmen. The maid of honor was Nita's sister, the late Mrs. Emma Eide. Her daughter, Mrs. Becky Strilchuk of Edmonton, sat in her mother's place.

In attendance, Earl and Denny Nita Hanson, were married on December 20th, 1923, and have farmed in the Tofield area until they retired in 1966 and took up residence in Tofield.

Their three children were all in attendance, Earl and Denny Kindley of Viking, Harold and Audrey Kindley of Edmonton, and Wilfred and Norma Fisher of Medicine Hat. Eight of their nine grandchildren were present.

Lester Severson, president of the congregation was master of ceremonies. Throughout the program, he mentioned several amusing incidents that took place some 50 or more years ago. Pastor Olokken opened the program with devotions and a prayer. Two beautiful solos, "When God Gave Me You" and "How Great Thou Art" were sung by Becky Strilchuk.

Lavern Sorgaard of LaGlace and his sister Mrs. Thelma Erickson of Tofield sang "Bless This House," which was also sung at Mr. and Mrs. Kindley's 25th anniversary. A poem composed and read by Mrs. Emma Reger of Viking was enjoyed by all.

Phillip Anderson, on behalf of all in attendance presented the happy couple with a purse of money. Earl Kindley on behalf of his parents and other family members, expressed the thanks and appreciation to all in attendance. Messages of congratulations were received from Prime Minister Trudeau, Governor General Roland Michener, Lt. Governor Grant MacEwan and Premier Peter Lougheed.

A lunch was served by the ladies of the L. C. W.

The guest book was signed by out of town guests from St. Paul, Edmonton, Calgary, LaGlace, Rockfort Bridge, Viking, Medicine Hat, Camrose, Ryley, Sherwood Park, Kingman, Scandia, Cooking Lake, Wetaskiwin, Junction City, Oregon, Springfield, Oregon, Thief River Falls, Minnesota.

An informal supper was served in the church parlors for fifty relatives. Becky Strilchuk sang two lovely numbers at the evening service, after which coffee was served and all enjoyed a duet by Mr. Leroy Fenseth and Mrs. Thelma Erickson.

On profits - and jobs

Profits on the manufacturing sales dollar last year recovered only slightly from the rock-bottom three cents to which it skidded in 1970. At 3.7 cents it was still the second lowest return in the past ten years — much too modest to stimulate expansion that will open up anything like the number of new jobs needed.

Even so, as always happens when profits turn upwards, there are those who are quick to notice the fact and to deplore it.

That such critics should ignore the direct relationship between better profits and more jobs is one of the mysteries of our time. Where the jobs would come from in private industry if there were no profits, only losses, is never explained.

Most people, of course, are under the impression that manufacturers make vastly more on each dollar of sales than is the case. A recent poll confirmed that public knowledge on this point is as wide of the mark as ever; most of those questioned were of the opinion that the average manufacturer makes about 28 cents on each dollar of sales, after taxes!

In this connection it is worth referring to the following table show manufacturing profit and sales trends over the past decade:

facturing industry's profits continue to show improvement this year — even if only back to the nickel of 1963-65 — employment levels will also improve.

It won't ever happen but if the day ever did come when manufacturers were left with something like a dime on each dollar of sales, we might even see the ranks of the jobless thinned to the point of near extinction.

The function of profit being misunderstood to the extent that it is however, we can be sure that long before that particular rose bloomed, unions and government between them would have nipped it well and truly in the bud.

Sorry waiter I've just become a vegetarian

Stockyards are smelly, drafty old places where the people sit in comfort while the animals freeze outside. Right? Well, that's the public image of stockyards and no one wants to live next to one. So when the Alberta Livestock Co-op came up with an idea for a new kind of stockyard - all-steel washed-down, filtered air, next to an airport instead of a railway - the local people in Calgary put up a huge fight to get the thing out of their neighborhood. Despite assurances from the Co-op that the facilities would be noise-free, smell-free, germ-free, the zoning fight still took almost three years. But last month, the Co-op finally got municipal approval for a site near the airport and the $3.5 - million Agricultural Marketing Complex (as it's called) will be open for business next fall. The current stockyard facilities in Calgary date back to 1903. At their peak in the 1950s, they handled 330,000 head of cattle a year, but lately, the figure has dropped down to 260,000 as cattlemen took their animals to smaller, local markets all over the province. George Hopkins, head of the Alberta Livestock Co-op, one of four commissioned firms selling cattle in the Calgary stockyards, realized the only way to bring cattlemen back to the terminal market was to modernize it. "People don't like this place. It's dirty, old fashioned and outmoded," he says. "So we looked to the U.S., where they have built some new modern facilities, one in Texas and one in Alabama." After all, the animals deserve better. Today's steer may be worth $250 - $300 and the owner is pretty proud of it. He doesn't like to see it herded into a dirty manure-filled wooden pen. So first thing decided was that the pens would be indoors. Second, they would be hosed down every day, so that odors couldn't develop. "When you merchandise something, you want to show it off. So we decided to show off the cattle in the auction ring," says Hopkins. Instead of regular lighting, it was decided to use fluorescent lights - - the kind the supermarket uses to make a piece of meat look juicy and succulent in the store. Then instead of sawdust or shavings on the floor, there would be artificial turf, just like on a football field. And to give the place even more appeal, there would be a top-flight steak house, a western goods store and an open - air farmer's market.

Anyone recognize this antique wrench?

Though old and rusty, the wrench above is still perfectly useful after being found during spring's work on a farm in the Spring Lake district, but the new owner, who farms the NW quarter of 13-43-16, says neither he nor anyone he's run into has ever seen a similar wrench. It may have come into the country with some European settlers or it may have come in from the States with an early steam unit. Remarkably simple in principle, the movable jaw simply slides up or down a wedge, and is held in position by the pressure of the sleeve around it. The sleeve, in turn, works against a serrated edge on the back of the wrench, to discourage it from slipping. When the sleeve is released, the movable jaw quickly slips free by a small coil spring pulling it open. The wrench pictured is about eight inches, but there's no reason it couldn't be larger or smaller.

Holden and district news items

(Mrs. G. H. Taylor)

Word was received last week that Harry Greenwood, father of Art Greenwood, a former Holden resident has passed away August 10th after having serious surgery. He had been in indifferent health for the past couple of years. Mr. Greenwood Sr. will be remembered as he had visited in Holden when Mr. and Mrs. Art Greenwood and family resided here, Art being the druggist and, building the drug store, which is the present Variety Store, and he built the residence which is now owned by Mr. and Mrs. Mill Malick.

Neighbours and old timers will remember the family who took an active part in community affairs, Art being Mayor of Holden when residing here. Mr. and Mrs. Don Allan visited with the Greenwoods while holidaying in Victoria.

Miss June Clark and her brother, Lloyd left on the weekend to spend a holiday visiting with relatives, the Scott family at Dawson Creek. A nephew drove down to take them there.

Recent visitors with Mrs. Ethel Brekstad were Alex and Anne Harris of Edmonton.

Mrs. Beth Campbell and her sister were visitors over the week-end with their niece, Beth and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Merta of Viking. Ernie came up for them Saturday and he brought them home Sunday evening.

Mrs. Mabel Sizer is back in Viking and presently staying with her daughter, Gurene and family. She was in Edmonton last week having a treatment for her hip and leg but is waiting for a hospital bed in one of the hospitals there to have further treatment and checks.

Cousins of Mrs. Ethel Brekstad and members of a pioneer family of the district were recently visiting for a day with her: Mrs. Ruth Gerdes of Edmonton and Mrs. Helen Griffiths and daughter of New Westminster, B. C., both former Chetney girls. Helen had not been back to the Holden district for over twenty-six years and saw many changes in the district. They both made a trip to the school they had once attended and they found this to be quite interesting - the old Vermilion Valley school.

Mrs. Mary Hooper is back from her stay in Tofield hospital after being a patient there for over three weeks with a bad ankle. She now has a cast on it and her daughter, Mrs. Beatrice Dinlayk of Edmonton is staying with her for a while.

Don Allan is presently a patient in the University hospital, Edmonton where he is receiving treatment for arthritis.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Nordstrom were Saturday visitors from Camrose, visiting Mr. and Mrs. Mike Komarnisky.

Norman Gussman has sold his farm to B.Starky and has purchased a house in Viking. He and his sister, Mrs. Clements and children have moved to make their home there.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Keith were business visitors in Viking on Wednesday of last week.

Aaron Thygeson of Edmonton was a weekend visitor with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Keith.

The Holden Senior Citizens Group met for their monthly meeting, Thursday evening, August 23rd. After a short business meeting, those present enjoyed a series of films shown by Earl Hardy of his trip to Hawaii and of other trips he has taken. Mrs. Hardy, with their wee granddaughter also attended the meeting. Lunch and coffee were served to end the evenings' entertainment.

Mr. and Mrs Jack Keith had their daughter, Mrs. Loretta Thygeson and two granddaughters of Calgary, visiting with them for a two-week holiday.

Mrs Ralph Keith, who had been home for a few days from hospital after having major surgery, had to return to Viking hospital for a few days and then was transferred to an Edmonton hospital with a bad abscess which had to be operated on.

A surprise birthday party was held Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr and Mrs. Tony Lupino with a number of friends from Holden and area attending to help Mrs. Lupino celebrate her birthday. A pleasant social afternoon was spent and various games played. Mrs. Lupino was presented with a gift of luggage, and a delicious lunch, which was brought by the ladies attending, was served in the evening.

The district was shocked on Tuesday afternoon to hear the news that Harry Komarnisky of the Poe Store and a former farmer of the district had died very suddenly from a severe heart attack. He was 50 years old. He was taken by ambulance to Tofield Hospital but the doctor pronounced him dead on arrival.

A lovely shower was held on Friday evening in the Holden R.C. Church basement in honor of Miss Betty Ann Friend, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. Friend, whose marriage to Donnie Kawalilak takes place early in October. The room was beautifully decorated with streamers, wedding bells and bouquets of fresh summer flowers were on the tables. On entering the room the guest of honour was greeted and a rose corsage pinned on her, with the other guests of honor: Mrs. Friend, Mrs. Kawalilak and the four grandmothers being presented with corsages of carnations, all then being seated at the head table, with the two brides-maids-to-be.

Several amusing games were played causing much merriment after which the presentation was made, three little girls pulled in a decorated wagon and useful gifts, and Mrs. Olga Milimaka wished the bride-to-be happiness, good luck and the well-wishes of all in her future life and home. After the many gifts had been admired by all, Betty very graciously thanked those present for the lovely gifts, their kindness and good wishes. The ladies then served a delicious lunch to bring to a close a very pleasant evening.

Mrs Irene Sirtichuk who was hurt recently in an accident in Calgary is now out of hospital and has been staying with her daughter-in-law for a while and is hoping to be able to get home to Ryley in another week or so. She is not very mobile yet and progress is slow but satisfactory.

Roy Nichols was in Tofield hospital Tuesday morning having a series of x-rays taken.

On Saturday, August 25, baby Marcia Lukawiecki, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs Albin Lukawiecki passed away, aged 6½ months. She is survived by her parents, Mr and Mrs Albin Lukawiecki of Holden, one brother Vincent, and four sisters Anona, Teresa, Andrea and Deirdre all at home; maternal grandparents Mr and Mrs F. Hubbard of Lavoy and paternal grandparents Mr and Mrs Walter Lukawiecki of Holden. Mass of the Angels was held Tuesday morning with Rev. J. Leszczynski being the celebrant and interment was in the Holden cemetery.

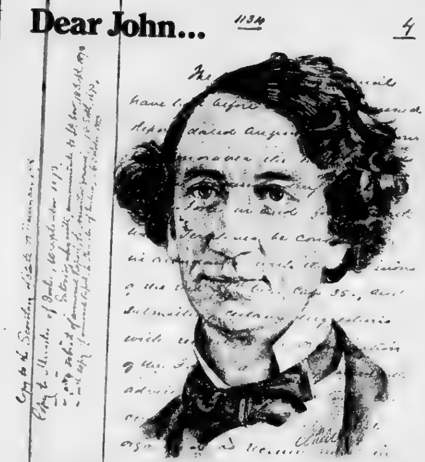
Dear John... 1134 4



a belated thanks.

It was your dream to see a Canada united from ocean to ocean. When you signed this charter you sent us the North West Mounted Police to help make that dream come true. They became the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. We became a province. Together we've grown up. This year we're celebrating their formation as a force. Next year, we celebrate the anniversary of their arrival in Alberta. Through every inch of the colourful tapestry of Alberta's history runs the scarlet thread of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. So thanks, John. Your dream means that next year we can celebrate, not just the pride of Alberta, but the pride of Canada.

Check that used car

For the consumer caught in a price squeeze, a used car can cut personal capital expenditures providing the buyer knows the pitfalls. Consumers' Association of Canada has provided a list of hollows, the car has probably customers.

1. Look inside the car for signs of wear and tear. Feel a seat cushion. If the cushion has weak or broken springs, or lumps or hollows, the car sahprobably had long and hard use. Look closely at the brake pedal to see if the rubber is worn thin or worn off at the corner.

2. Look at the tires for signs of wear. If the tread on any tire is worn unevenly, the front wheels are probably out of line and will need an "alignment".

3. Look for bad rust spots, pimples in the paint or for flaking paint on the car's body. Also feel for rust spots and weak places in the metal usually at door edges, fenders and trunk lid. You might find that repairs are impossible and on unitconstruction cars, body rust can even weaken the car's basic structure.

4. Look for ripples in the paint or for repainted places on the car's body or top. These signs may indicate further damage underneath — perhaps to the frame or a poor repair job.

5. Open and close windows and doors to see how well they fit and work.

Is it difficult to roll windows up and down? Do windows and doors seem to fit badly? Do doors sag when you open them. Do you have to slam doors to close them tightly? If the car's frame is badly bent, repair costs can be very high.

6. Shake each front wheel hard in and out at the top to see how loose it is. Does the wheel have a lot of free play? Do you hear any clunking sounds? If so, the wheel may have loose or worn bearings or the suspension joints may be badly worn, requiring replacements or repairs.

7. Check for loss of brake fluid. Press your foot steadily on the brake pedal as you count from one to sixtey. If a pedal sinks slowly, there is probably a brakefluid leak.

8. Check to ensure that the car's lights, switches, controls and safety devices are functioning properly. Start the engine and before it gets warm, listen for loud or strange noises. Inside the car, make sure that the indicators and the lights of the instrument panel all work. Have a friend check that the car's exterior lights work.

9. Check for worn shock absorbers. Stand at each corner of the car and push down on a fender. Let up quickly and push down again, and so on until that corner of the car is bouncing. Now let go. The car should go up or down and then stop in a middle position. If the car keeps on bouncing it may need new shock absorbers. Worn shock absorbers should be replaced for both safety and comfort.

To decide if the price is right, check with the Canadian Red Book of Used Car Evaluations published monthly and available at most libraries in Canada. Or write for the Sanford Evans Gold Book of Used Car Prices, costing $3.00 from Sanford Evans Ltd., P.O. Box 6900, 1077 St. James Street, Winnipeg R3C 3B1.

For further information on "How to Buy a Used Car," including Driving and Shop Tests, see the August 1973 issue of the CANADIAN CONSUMER on sale at most newstands. Also available from CAC, 100 Gloucester Street, Ottawa K2P OA3, price 75 cents.

White spring wheat a future export crop?

A new breeding program that may lead to a Canadian white spring wheat for future export markets is underway on the prairies.

Some people in the grains industry believe there is a strong market potential for this type of wheat.

Holden

(Mrs. G. H. Taylor)

Robert Tiedemann of Edmonton has been visiting with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tiedemann this week.

A former long-time resident of the Bruce district, Mrs. Myrtle Cecilia Starky of Cawston, B.C. passed away at Penticton Hrd. She is survived by her husband, Beauchamp of Cawston; her daughter and son-in-law, Beatrice and Grant Fredericks of Bruce, Alberta; her son, Bud Starky of Bruce; son and daughter in law, Brian and Jill Starky of Cawston; three grandchildren, Inne Dewart of Sherwood Park, Mark Fredericks of Bruce and Jackson Starky of Cawston; one sister, Mrs. G.T Myles of Edmonton; brothers, Ole Lund of Ryley, Marvin Lund of Bruce, Chester Lund of Viking and Otto Lund of Edmonton.

Funeral services were held in the Holden United Church on Tuesday afternoon with the Rev. S. Bessey of Tofield officiating The church was filled to capacity with friends, relatives and former neighbours to pay their last respects to this well loved lady. Interment was in the Bruce cemetery. Mr. and Mrs. Starky lived and farmed for many years in the Bruce district, before retiring to make their home in B.C.

B. B. Starky was a member of the Municipal County of Beaver No. 9 and was also the Reeve for many years. Mrs. Starky often came back in the seeding and harvesting seasons to help her son Bud on the farm.

An item noticed in the Viking News recently in their "Remember When" column of fifty years ago, mentioned that the Memorial on Holden Main Street was unveiled on June 6th, 1923 The sculptor of the Cenotaph was the late Major Newbury and it was unveiled by Col. Weaver Bro. Geo H. Taylor was president of the old G.W.V.A. at the time, now known as the Royal Canadian Legion. The Cenotaph is photographed quite often by visitors from other provinces and from the U. S. It has had much abuse the past few years, paint was poured over it and this had to be sand-blasted off, and at present is a hand short, which was broken off a couple of years ago by vandals A year and a half ago a new plaque was placed on it when the old one was spoiled, bearing the names of those in the Holden area who lost their lives in the first and second world wars.

UFA ...you make it happen.
when farm petroleum was low priced UFA was a good, money-saving idea

now it's even better!
Maybe UFA's patronage dividends weren't all that important to you a few years ago. Farm petroleum didn't cost very much anyway and you didn't have as much power machinery. But these days the 13.4 per cent dividend farmers earned last year on UFA petroleum purchases is your kind of money — cash that can help you beat rising production costs and keep up to increasing production needs. Today when very few farmers can afford to be without UFA — isn't it fortunate UFA's top quality products, dependable service and full customer benefits are offered in almost every farming district in Alberta!

In motor vehicle bicycle accidents, the cyclist is nearly always injured, according to the government of Manitoba, so cyclists should follow this list of "do's and don'ts."

- Don't pass a stopped car without slowing down to watch for vehicles pulling away from the curb and look for pedestrians.
- Don't carry books or parcels in hands while riding.
- Don't pull up on the right-hand side of vehicles stopped for traffic lights on stop signs, or turning.
- Do ride a safe distance behind buses, trucks and other vehicles.
- Do get the bike out of the travelling lanes when stopping to rest or make repairs.
- Do wear clips on pant and slack cuffs if there is any chance that they will become caught in the chain-this can cause a sudden fall in traffic.
- Do ride in a straight line, without wobbling in traffic.

Facts about the Carpet Business
A carpet can be advertised on the radio or television at $7.50 a yard.
It sounds like a very low price. But when they add $2.00 for cushion, $2.00 for labor — that's $4.00 a yard more that you don't expect. So you are really paying $11.50 a yard. Some companies also charge for mileage.

Curlers plan annual meeting

The annual meeting of the Tofield Curling Club has been scheduled for Wednesday, September 12th.

The meeting will be held at the curling club and will commence at 8:30 p.m.

There will be an election of officers and four directors' terms of office have expired and must be filled.

Plans for the coming season will be made, including the scheduling of bonspiels and other major events.

All persons interested are invited to attend

Ad was sent, didn't arrive

Somewhere along the line, an ad that was to run in the last issue of The Mercury got lost and, as a result, some people have red faces.

School opened last week and parents, as well as students, should have been notified of this major event by means of an ad in The Mercury.

Although Superintendent of Schools Marvin Bruce sent out an ad from the County Office, it did not arrive at The Mercury and, of course, was therefore not published County officials and The Mercury regret any inconvenience this lack may have caused students and their parents.

Ratepayers questioned by Recreation Board

Beaver Regional Recreation and Parks board members, at their regular August meeting, discussed the possibility of holding a Music and Arts Festival on a county-wide basis.

The question asked first was, whether or not a Music Festival could be held county-wide? Although it is possible to hold only a music festival, many of them are held together: That is, arts and music. The arts - includes all - music, drama, painting, crafts, choirs, lapidary, weaving and ceramics.

To undertake such a festival will mean a great deal of work by every organization and group in this kind of activity within the county.

With all this in mind, the Beaver Regional Recreation and Parks Board would like to request that anyone who is interested in this venture, and the arts generally, and also interested in acting on a committee to help and act as an arm of the Regional Board to follow through on their motion to proceed with such a committee, send their name - address and phone number to Box 5, Ryley, Alberta, T0B 4A0.

This festival could be planned for and held in January or February of 1974.

Once we have received names of people interested in the committee and acting on it, an organizational meeting will be called within the next two months.

Sports and Athletics

To take a step further to the idea of forming an arts committee, what would you people, those of sports and athletics think about a committee, as an arm of the Regional Board to take a look at and plan these activities on a county-wide basis for leadership training, clinics, schools, etc. . . . to help in training citizens who wish to participate in sports and athletics.

If you have read the part about the Arts and Music Festival and committee, and would like to see more and varied tournaments in the county, express your desire to assist by writing to Box 5, Ryley, Alberta - Let us know. If you would be interested in being on the committee.

Planning — Totally for the County

Community planning and development of parks, activity programs, recreation, town, village hamlet, rural, urban to improve and invite new citizens.

Are you interested? Well, what are you going to do about it?

Adventure playgrounds - creative - do you know anything about them? - Do you want to know? Are they better than present day playground programs?

What about a total recreation festival? - To include everybody with their own thing. Arts, crafts, sports, athletics, music, dancing - you name it.

What have you to say about recreation - get it off your chest - complain to us - let our department know what you have to say. Jot it down, write it, tape it and send it

County senior citizens have an enjoyable tour

Forty-three senior citizens from the County of Beaver, along with bus drivers, Steve Illsabeck and Lyle Helberg made the trip to the Grande Prairie area, on Monday August 27th.

After arriving in Grande Prairie and after having supper, a get-together with the Grande Prairie senior citizens was held to welcome and introduce everyone. A good old-time dance with lunch was had. Everyone had an enjoyable time and Herman Lawson of Tofield even did a few numbers on the fiddle which everyone was delighted to hear.

The next day, everyone was up at about 7:00 for breakfast. A busload of senior citizens from Grande Prairie accompanied the senior citizens from the County of Beaver on a bus tour, which consisted of the experimental farm at Beaverlodge, which is run by the Federal Department of Agriculture. Next on the agenda was the Beaverlodge Canadian Armed Forces Station. Here, films were shown displaying defensive measures for the North American continent, as well as detailed description of the way radar works. Dinner was then had at the station. After dinner, there was a trip to the South Peace Centennial Museum and the Grande Prairie Museum.

That evening a supper was put on by the Grande Prairie senior citizens. Here it was suggested that the senior citizens from Grande Prairie should come down to this area.

The next morning consisted of a tour of the Canfor Lumber Division. Because of the mill strike, a lot of lumber was piled up, and some of the mill was shut down. After this, the group from the County of Beaver began their trek home.

On the way home, lunch was had at Williamson Park on Sturgeon Lake, which is a nice camping area not far from Valleyview. The group arrived back home, tired but happy, at approximately 9:00 Wednesday evening.

Young farmers at the Agricultural Training Institute in Ranchi, India, a project of the Unitarian Service Committee, show to Dr. Hitschmanova, Executive Director of the organization, samples of the first harvest of wheat grown from improved seed. Not only are the grains of superior quality, but crop yields have doubled and tripled because of modern methods of cultivation and irrigation. Courses established by the NSC for tribal youth in this once barren region, are of six weeks or longer, but counsellors and equipment are available to students as long as they work on their own farms.

Double pricing not wrong

Alberta's provincial government has joined a number of consumer movement spokesmen in condemning what has been a fairly common practice of double pricing articles for sale, that is, putting a new price tag, with a higher figure, on an article already on the shelves, when the replacement wholesale price for that commodity increases.

Leading the hue and cry against the practice has been Minister of Consumer Affairs (and Tourism) Bob Dowling, the MLA for Jasper-Edson, and a native of Ohaton. So effective has Mr. Dowling been that he was able to prevent the liquor commission from following the practice of marking up stocks already on the shelf, whenever a price increase came through, although this has been a practice for some time.

In spite of the indignant protests of Mr. Dowling and others in this score, we think they're mistaken in their criticism. We do not agree with the contention that a price cannot be increased once it has been affixed, any more than we feel a price cannot be reduced once it has been placed on a product. Certainly we can't imagine much support from the consumer movements for the argument that there should never be any markdowns.

So far as we know, there's no law that says a merchant has to sell for a specific profit, or lack of it, and surely if the replacement price goes up, then the article in question is worth more, whatever it cost initially. In most instances, of course, prices aren't coming down, but occasionally advances in technology or market conditions, such as oversupply, or tight money, make some articles less saleable. If prices can't be increased, surely its just as logical to make it impossible for merchants to cut the price . . . in which case they'd be stuck forever with unsaleable products.

To take another tack, it seems only sensible if the price of a can of beans can't go up once it's been marked, then the price of the family farm also can't be increased, once it has been established, which means the price would have to stay the same as it was probably several years ago.

Obviously, we're being ridiculous, but no more ridiculous than the law which says commodities in the market place can't respond immediately to the dictates of the economy. And the ups and downs of replacement cost seem to be about as reliable a method of establishing selling cost as any government-devised formula, however well-intentioned it may be.

Another answer

If the federal government is serious about fighting inflation, says Unifarm President Dobson Lea, it must take steps to provide legislation for compulsory arbitration of labour disputes. Mr. Lea echoes the opinion of many other leaders across the country, who point out that at least one major factor in the inflation spiral is the loss of productivity due to work stoppages.

The losses of productivity for the plants, and earnings for both workers and manufacturers, set up a chain reaction when one section of the economy shuts down. Industry is forced to increase prices to make up for the lost production, while labor increases its demands to make up for lost earnings, and also to pay the higher prices. The country is faced with both cost-push and demand-pull inflation at the same time, according to economists, who define the situation where lost productivity makes it necessary to recover the same cost from less output, while excessive wage increases make it possible to bid up prices for goods and service in short supply.

As a farmer, Mr. Lea suggested to the Minister of Labor that compulsory arbitration would relieve much of the pressure for increased wage demands. If it would, it would definitely help slow inflation.

Blame the anchovies

Continuing high costs of both cattle and hogs are at least in part all the fault of the anchovies, and it looks as though they're going to be responsible for keeping prices up for some time yet.

For many years, huge hauls of anchovies off the coasts of Peru helped keep down prices on high protein feeds, but sharply reduced catches last year forced the government of Peru to curtail anchovy fishing for some time, and just recently, it has extended the ban, on an intermittent basis, at least until October of this year.

Whereas the catch used to be normally about ten million tons a year, the total catch for this year is not expected to reach three million tons. This fact has triggered a spiral in fishmeal prices around the world, just at the same time as a soaring demand has been seen for high protein foods.

Inevitably, the result has been a soaring demand, with prices to match, for soybeans and soybean products on world markets.

In all probability, it indicates a continuing high demand for any of these products, including prairie rapeseed and flax crops. Prices have never been higher, but there's no indication in sight they'll drop in the foreseeable future.

Food and Politics

By Peter Ward

OTTAWA—If anybody is monitoring Canada's skyrocketing grocery prices more carefully than the nation's distraught housewives, it has to be the government of Pierre Trudeau.

Mind you, the housewife is merely worried about her ability to stretch the cash available into sufficient to feed her family. The Prime Minister has much higher worries: staying in power.

It was instructive to watch the government's so-called three point action plan to control higher prices in late summer, and even more instructive to watch Mr. Trudeau and his three ministers maneuver to avoid recalling parliament.

There was some fancy-dancing, too, on the part of David Lewis, as he sought to hit the desired balance between outrage at the government for not controlling prices, and yet keep his anger sufficiently in check so that he wouldn't be obligated to vote himself into an election.

Lest this diatribe give the impression of being a partisan outburst, let me assure you that from an Ottawa perpective, the Tories, too, deserve castigation for their performance on the inflation [illegible].

Where was Mr Stanfield when the Trudeau cabinet met to produce controls on meat experts? He should have been out front, ready with something to say, but no, he was home in Halifax. Surely the worst crisis tht Trudeau government has faced in three years warranted the appearance of the Tory leader.

But hten, maybe Stanfield was hesitant about once more calling for a price and wage freeze. That action would have been just dandy two years ago, or even last year, but who wants to set the price of hamburg frozen at $1.30 a pound?

The state of the nation has not been faring very well under the policy to leave-it-to-chance or, as some might call it, political expendiency. Surely the Trudeau government can produce something better than prayers that the cost of living will come down sufficiently to save their hides before parliament reconvenes October 15.

And surely the opposition can produce some credible alternatives for us which aren't two years too late. Then too, maybe pigs will fly at midnight.

A hog's not all chops (nor bacon)

Pork chops don't just happen. They require endless planning, investments and hours of hard work. In fact, they're the product of a chain of events, starting even 18 months ago, ranging from the hog producer to the livestock markets, processors and retailers. All provide vital necessary service, bringing you the best in quality, wholesome pork.

The pork you buy today wasn't manufactured just last week. It began months ago when the hog producer thought the price of pork was high enough that he could meet his production costs and maybe realize some profit. So he held back some breeding stock and made plans to grow more hogs. But it still takes nearly 4 months from conception until the little piglet is born and a further 5 or 6 months to grow the piglet to a market weight of about 210 lb.

In processing the 210 pound live hog is reduced to a 160 pound warm carcass which is further broken into "so-called" primal cuts. They consist of 2 Picnics 13 lb., 2 Butts 13 lb.; 2 Loins 24 lb., 2 Bellies 21 lb., 2 Hams 34 lb.; 105 pounds.

In addition there are products of slaughter and processing such as variety meat, hocks, spare rib, tenderloin, trimming and various fats.

The relative [illegible] of each primal to another [illegible] determined by the relative market demand, which continually [illegible], and the restriction that the products must be sold in the [illegible] relative volume as they are [illegible] from the hog.

There are many multiple choices that can be made about the form of the finished product. For example, the picnic cut can be sold fresh to the retail trade, cured as a sweet pickled product, smoked as a smoked picnic, canned and cooked a canned or cooked picnic and even boned, ground and used in canned luncheon meats and sausage products. Other products such as a butt or ham can likewise be merchandized in a variety of ways: fresh, smoked, cured or cooked, canned, etc. The belly cut is traditionally derinded, cured, smoked, sliced and packaged as breakfast bacon or may be sold without slicing as slab bacon. The loin can be sold bone-in or boneless for merchandizing as pork roasts or chops, or it may be processed into boneless backs for back bacon production.

Consumer prices must be high enough to cover the price paid to the producer, and cover all costs of processing, transportation, refrigeration and business over-head. Individual products must be priced so all items move into consumption at an even rate the reason centre cut loin chops may be priced at $1.19 per pound while smoked picnics are 69 cents per pound.

For good measure

Gas pumps don't lie very often. Weights and measures inspectors in the Consumer and Corporate Affairs Department checked 80,000 service station gas pumps last year and the rate of inaccuracy was low - 8 percent. Four percent measured under a gallon, four percent over a gallon. That is an enviable record; in Wisconsin last year for example, the rate of inaccuracy was 18 percent.

The department's inspectors also checked thousand of store scales, domestic utility meters and grain elevator scales to control fraud and ensure that the Canadian consumer was getting what she paid for.

A round pink stamp placed in a prominent position on the gas pump is your guarantee that weights and measures inspectors from this department have checked the pump for accurate measurement.

Alberta central registry most advanced in Canada

Registration and searches of chattels etc. have been streamlined to give rapid and efficient service. Under the previous system twelve registration offices throughout the province maintained the registrations related to their respective districts. Under the new system, all information is transmitted to the Central Registry by means of a telex network provided by Alberta Government Telephones.

Through the use of electronic and microfilm processes, the people of Alberta enjoy one of the most efficient register ing and searching systems available.

The system installed in the registry office floor BI of the Law Courts Building in Edmonton is known as "Microfile" for Microfilm Information Retrieval Access Code.

Synopsis of documents to be registered are photographed on 16 millimetre film, together with coding card punches. These films in 100 foot lengths containing up to 1,500 entries are held in let terkeyed cartridges to form a rapid index to a sequential microfilm file of contracts.

The contract file is formed by microfilming the pages of the original documents in sequence, according to registration number. After this film is processed and checked, the contracts may be destroyed or returned to the person registering them. As an additional service, a copy of this film will be sent to Calgary to offer prints of actual contractual information there, as well as being available at Central Registry.

To allow the new system to go into operation, changes in legislation were required to provide that prints from microfilm must be accepted in evidence, and to authorize the retention of documents only on microfilm.

The documents registered under the new system include chattel Mortgages, Conditional Sales Contracts, Lien Notes and Assignment of Book Debts. The term of registration will continue to be three years, if not renewed within that time. Partnership and trade names are also registered and remain on record until dissolved by the person who composed the partnership or trade name.

Rapid scanning machines provide almost instant recall of the filmed documents when a person applies for a search. In many cases, the synopsis provide all the information required by a searcher, and if a copy is required the touch of a button on the scanning machine will provide a dry photo copy of the synopsis.

If more detailed information is required, the microfilmed pages of the original document may be viewed on the scanning screen of another machine. The correct document is located by punching the identifying sequence number on a connected keyboard.

The system is the most advanced of its kinds in Canada, and enquiries concerning its operation are expected from other centres. It has also been devised with a view to the possibility of once future assimilation of the Motor Vehicle Central Registry into the system.

Documents presented for registration:

1. Must be legible for microfilming purposes.
2. Must be submitted in duplicate
3. Must indicate the full surname at together with the first and second given names of the person at against whom the registration is to be made.
4. Must be properly signed and executed.
5. Must contain the Social Insurance Number, if any.
6. Documents to be no larger than 8 and a half by 14 inches.

Fees are as follows: Registration $1.25 per document; search fee 75 cents; which includes a copy of the first synopsis, plus 50 cents for each additional synopsis; (in addition to the original search charge of 75 cents, a certified copy of any document registered, 50 cents per page.

Additional information may be obtained from Mr. H.J. Corie, Registrar, Law Courts Building, 1A Sir Winston Churchill Square, Edmonton, Alberta. T5J OR2.

Announces policy concerning controversial classroom issues

Education Minister Lou Hyndman recently announced department policy for dealing with controversial issues such as evolution and family life education in Alberta classrooms.

It is the objective of the Alberta educational system to develop students' capacities to think clearly, reason logically, examine all issues and reach sound judgements", said Mr. Hyndman. "We think the following principles will help achieve this objective when controversial issues arise in our classrooms".

Students should not be ridiculed or embarrassed for positions they hold on a particular disputable issue. "This calls for great sensitivity on the part of teachers and students". noted Mr. Hyndman.

Students should have experiences in selecting and organizing information in order to draw intelligent conclusions. They must have information that represents alternative points of view. The information must be in understandable form and reflect the maturity of students and the program of studies for the school course Students views, while relating to values held in a particular community, should not exclude provincial national and international contexts

Students, teachers and administrative staff should have a voice in determining controversial issues to be studied, texts to be used and the manner of presentation in the classroom.

Mr. Hyndman said that, providing boards can meet these departmental objectives, the locally elected school trustees working with parents, should the freedom to identify and deal with contentious issues in local classrooms

ANNOUNCING DO-IT-YOURSELF L.I.P.

Your Local Initiatives Program is even more local.

This year, $83 million is going to be invested in helping people help themselves in their community.

If yours is a typical community, we're putting the "local" into the Local Initiatives Program by setting up a Constituency Advisory Group, or by having L.I.P. staff consult with already established groups. So now you help decide which projects will contribute most to everybody.

On the Constituency Advisory Group will sit a good representation from the community, including people active in community affairs, people from local government and social agencies, and L.I.P. sponsors from last year, all suggested by your M.P.

Your project could have up to $75,000 to work with, if your idea is a highly creative and innovative one.

To qualify for L.I.P. funds, your project must create not less than 15 man-months of employment. Workers with the skills required for your project must be available within your community. Project sponsors must hire all employees through Canada Manpower Centres. Deadline for applications is October 15th, 1973, though early submissions could result in projects starting as early as December 1st. In northern or isolated areas, projects could start as early as November 1st. Projects may be funded for up to six months.

There's Do-it-Yourself Business L.I.P., too, for companies which want to provide facilities or services for their communities. Projects are not to be related to business operations, and must create additional jobs.

All it takes is one good idea.

Applications available now at your nearest Canada Manpower Centre.

RETRIEVER DOG TRIALS

Retriever dog trials were held Saturday and Sunday in the Ryley area on the property of Holmer Hjelter, Wm Mumland and the Dodds Coal Mine. People competing were from Yukon, B.C., Ontario, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Scott Reil enjoyed the job they gave him during the two days and was fascinated by the way the dogs were trained and how anxious they were to obey their masters' orders to go and retrieve their birds.

On Saturday night, a barbecue steak supper was held at the Blooms Campsite.

Behind them came the RCMP car followed by several little ones in costume, on bicycles, with pet dogs and cats etc. At the school there was a display of ash trays etc. made from clay, and pompoms. The little ones enjoyed the pony rides, freak house, fishpond, dart-throwing, fortune-telling, kissing and hugging, etc.

Little Corey Kadrowich, baby son of Mr and Mrs Peter Kadrowich spent a few days in the Tofield Hospital.

Stan and Bernice Kozdrowski had a pleasant surprise awhile back when Mr. and Mrs Orvin McIntyre and family of Hinton paid them a visit. Mrs. McIntyre (the former Connie James) worked with Bernice at the Hotel Coffee Shop in Ryley about 10 years ago.

Yukon RCMP establish for wilderness travellers

A voluntary registration system for people venturing into Yukon's wilderness areas has been put into operation by the R.C.M.P. in co-operation with the Yukon Territorial Government. While there is no legal requirement to register, officials feel the system could mean the difference between life and death in an emergency. It will also be useful in relaying urgent messages.

Inspector Jack Hunter, officer commanding the Yukon subdivision says time is a key factor in searching for missing persons.

"With the registrations, we should be able to get a better idea of where to look and what to look for. The forms allow for listing distinguishing features of large items like boats, tents and backpacks. It also gives a rough itinerary which is a big help in determine where to start looking."

For the same reasons Inspector Hunter said he hopes that people not using this free service will make sure some responsible person is aware of their approximate whereabout and have sufficient knowledge to give authorities an adequate description for identification purposes.

"I suppose it's human nature to assume that nothing can happen to you," says John Guldner director of the Yukon's Tourism and Information Branch. "But if it does, I'm sure most people would like to know that help will not be long in coming. The registration is a safety precaution well worth the few minutes it takes to fill out a form."

The branch provided the [illegible] and [illegible] of the service. They will also be placing signs at major boat launching sites in the territory.

Registration forms are available at RCMP detachments in Watson Lake, Teslin, Whitehorse, Haines Junction, Beaver Creek, Carcross, Ross River, Faro, Carmacks, Mayo, Dawson City and Old Crow.

More science needed for meat production

To produce more meat in Canada, current knowledge must be applied by producers.

That message came through a panel discussion presented to the Canadian Veterinary Medical Association convention in Edmonton recently.

The head of one feed company said major nutrition breakthroughs are not expected in the near future but there should be the broader application of the knowledge of nutrition, management and disease control.

He said producers must expect to encounter shortages of feed ingredients and must adapt to changing conditions, and suggested producers must become accustomed to the fact that the most profitable diet may not be the one which gives them the best growth or the most efficiency.

Dr. Roy Berg of the University of Alberta Faculty of Agriculture suggested producers breeding and performance testing in their production programs. He said there may have to be changes made in the grading system to allow for more inclusion of dairy type animals.

For more beef, he said more bulls must be fed, there should be heavier slaughter weights and a separate feeding system for heifers.

Dr Jack Done of the Central Veterinary Laboratory, Weybridge, Surrey, England told the group that swine breeding must concentrate on developing more meat [illegible] to make pork more acceptable.

Dr Ed Ballantyne Deputy Minister Alberta Department of Environment, said his department was endeavouring to create a balance between resource development, environmental control and quality of life.

Easy way to check grain for insect infestation

A trap made out of a piece of pipe is one of the most practical things to use for checking grain for insect infestations.

This pipe-trap is based on the same principle as that used in a trap developed by S. R. Loschiavo and J. M. Atkinson of the Canada department of agriculture's research station in Winnipeg. Their trap proved extremely efficient in detecting insect infestations during farm granary tests. Catches of rusty grain beetles, fungus beetles and mites ranged from zero to more than 9,000 beetles and innumerable mites, depending upon the severity of the infestation, temperature of the grain and the length of time the trap was left in the grain.

The trap used in the above studies is not available commercially, but the pipe-trap is equally effective and very easy to make. It, like the trap on which it is based, is also a reliable indicator of heating in the bin.

To make a pipe-trap, you take a piece of half- inch pipe and drill vertical rows of holes that are small enough to prevent the grain from entering the pipe, but large enough for the insects to enter (about 1-10"). Start drilling the holes six to eight inches from what is to be the bottom end of the pipe, and extend them anywhere from a minimum of two feet to the full length of the pipe. The farther up the pipe they go, the more representative the sampling will be. Then put a cork, or some other type of plug, in the bottom of the pipe and insert it in the grain.

If there are any insects in the grain they will crawl through the holes into the pipe and drop to the bottom where there are no holes through which they can escape. You should check the trap about once a week.

As a general guide, Mike Dolinski of the Alberta de- crop and pest control branch, suggests one trap for every 1,000 bushels of grain. He recommends placing them in the center of the bin and in areas where rain or snow may have entered the bin. High dockage areas are also places where insect infestations are likely to build up.

The reason for putting the traps in the center of the bin is that any insects that may be present will congregate here for warmth during the cold weather. As soon as the walls of the bin warm up in spring, the traps should be moved near the walls, especially the south wall.

Mr. Dolinski urges anybody who finds insects in his grain to be sure to check their identity with his district agriculturist. The insects may be a specie that does not do enough damage to warrant fumigation.

Western co-ops purchase ' Hat fertilizer plant

Western Co-operative Fertilizers Limited, a Calgary-based manufacturing complex owned by Federated Co-operatives Limited, the Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba Wheat Pools has reached agreement in principle with Northwest Nitro-Chemicals Ltd. for the purchase by W.C.F.L. of Northwest's fertilizer manufacturing facilities at Medicine Hat, the two firms announced today. The purchase price was not disclosed.

Gordon Harrold, president of Western Co-operative Fertilizers Limited and Dr. Ken Nielsen, chief executive officer pointed out that this acquisition was part of a continuing program to provide the co-operative's owner-members with their fertilizer requirements. Mr. Harrold said "With this purchase we will be able to repatriate about 100,000 tons of fertilizer a year which has been shipped to the United States from the Northwest plant. All advantages and savings that result from this purchase will be passed on entirely to our Canadian owners, the farmer-consumer members of the Pools and Federated. We are 100 per cent Canadian."

The Northwest Nitro-Chemicals plant, built in 1958, has an annual capacity in excess of 225,000 tons of ammonium nitrate and ammonium phosphate fertilizers and employs about 250 people.

Dr. Nielsen stressed that no shut-downs or staff reductions are planned. "On the contrary" he said, "with today's food shortages and the increasing difficulty in finding relatively inexpensive nitroge sources, we'll be running the Medicine Hat plant at full capacity, and we intend to keep it fully modern and efficient."

Manitoba Pool Elevators is owned by 70 per cent of the farmers in Manitoba; Saskatchewan Wheat Pool is owned by 93 per cent of Saskatchewan farmers and the Alberta Wheat Pool is owned by 95 per cent of all Alberta farmers. Federated Co-operatives Limited is owned by about 400 retail and farm service co-operatives in centers throughout Western Canada.

Mr. Wilbur Keko, President of Northwest Nitro-Chemicals Ltd., said, "The thermal carbon black facilities of Can Carb, Ltd., a Northwest subsidiary, now nearing completion in Medicine Hat, are not involved in this transaction with W.C.F.L."

New addition of Quick Canadian Facts

A new and enlarged edition of Quick Canadian Facts, the Canadian pocket encyclopedia, has just been released. This low-cost, up to date, comprehensive reference book covers history and geography, population, government and politics, the economy, industry and finance, and virtually every other phase of Canadian affairs. It is a valuable addition to any household or office library, and many high schools now recommend it to their students as a study aid.

The volume contains interesting and largely unknown facts on many things that we take for granted, as in this item in the transportation section: "In Canada, and throughout North America, engineers of railway locomotives employ a standard code of 19 whistle signals. The most familiar is two longs, one short and one long, which must be sounded at least a quarter of a mile from every public road crossing; one prolonged blast means the train is approaching a station, a junction, a drawbridge, or the end of double tracks; one long and one short is a warning signal, indicating that the train is running against the regular traffic, a series of shorts indicates that the engineer has sighted persons or animals on the track ahead and is warning of the train's approach."

In any household or office this is a book that will encourage discussion about Canada -- as well as settle debates.

WATER AND YOUR

STEAM IRON

If the manufacturer of your steam iron recommends the use of distilled water in the appliance, take heed, says Consumers' Association of Canada. Tap water or chemically softened water leaves a residue which will clog the small holes in the steam and spray mechanisms, and will reduce the life of your iron.

Trudeau didn't hear

Despite the high sounding phrases when Prime Minister Trudeau met with four western premiers in Calgary recently, and the feeling of hope which ran through the West that at long last an eastern Prime Minister understood what the West was talking about, despite all this, it seems that Mr. Trudeau didn't hear after all. Or maybe he wasn't listening. Maybe he was too busy counting up the votes instead.

Two actions from Ottawa only this past week make you wonder, at any rate, how much sympathetic understanding there is.

The first was the complete removal of any tariff against American beef animals entering this country, while the U.S. continues to maintain a high tariff against Canadian animals heading for the States. Fair is fair, it seems, and if they're going to keep out our cattle, why shouldn't we keep out their cattle? Well, the answer is pretty obvious . . . there are more consumers than cattlemen, so the consumer gets the type of action that may force down the price of beef.

And then, just last week-end was his announcement that efforts would be made to extend the Canadian oil pipeline, across the long-established barrier between the traditional Western Canadian oil supply area, and the traditional Venezuelan, or import oil, supply area. In all probability, this would have been good for western oil development, extending markets within this country, and ensuring more and more jobs out west.

But it seriously cut in on the development plans for a huge superport and refinery, in an off-shore situation, in Quebec, providing thousands of new jobs and millions of dollars worth of activity.

Once again, western interests were expendable, in return for the more paramount eastern interests.

Well, anyway, it was nice for a short while, thinking someone was listening, and someone understood.

The right track

The Ottawa government was right on track in another instance this week, when it came to the situation where a number of striking railway workers refused what had become a lawful order of the government to go back to work. Charging wilfull non-compliance with the law of the country, the government ordered that they be arrested.

Since the men have since elected to go back to work, it is suggested they will probably be lightly treated by the courts, but the important point is that the charges were issued in the first place. This is almost a break-through in labor relations, and one of the first cases of its kind.

Another recent instance of court action took place a year or so ago in Quebec, when a provincial judge jailed three union leaders for inciting union members to defiance of legal court orders. Although jailed, the leaders unfortunately managed to make a good deal of political capital out of their confinement, with the result that Premier Bourassa made a mockery out of the court action, and practically wiped out their sentence.

However, the point is slowly becoming clearer, (as well it should be) that unions and union members possess no immunity from the laws of the country not possessed by the ordinary citizen, and that illegal action is no less illegal simply because it is conducted in the heat of a strike.

Our country is unfortunately developing far too much violence in a number of ways, and every method of reducing or slowing the development will be welcomed by the huge majority of Canadians.

Too high or too easy?

A question comes up from time to time of whether benefits of Unemployment Insurance or welfare are too high, or too easily obtained. Or both.

The question was brought to mind again this week [illegible] the comments recently of three employers in three entirely different fields, and with three different needs. One man almost desperate for help, and had a request to be [illegible] that morning from a workman who said he'd accumulated enough time to get back on Unemployment Insurance again, and he couldn't see why he should work when he could draw about $3.50 per hour for not working.

[illegible] n't hire [illegible] shape or form, th[illegible] steady work open, and probably lots of overtime. Another employer wanted help on a farm [illegible] offered something like $100 a month [illegible] free [illegible]

In another instance [illegible] couple of [illegible]

The point seems to be that either [illegible]

[illegible] can get, but there's got to be something wrong with a system that almost encourages [illegible] and [illegible]

The heat is off?

By Peter Ward

OTTAWA—The buffery - puffery of NDP leader David Lewis which changed from a threatening hurricane to a mere burst of wind following the caucus of his party, has sent Ottawa's pundits into chasms of cynicism.

Here we were in late summer with food prices climbing unjustifiably out of sight, gasoline prices following; and a national rail strike crippling the country.

The situation, one might think, would justify the recall of Parliament to tackle both the rail strike and prices.

David Lewis certainly thought so, and he announced he would call his caucus together to discuss the matter.

Well, after deliberating for two days, the caucus disagreed with David. The NDP members came out with a four point program, but they made it plain their demands were pussy-foot cosmetics, and they sent David before the TV cameras to explain why his change of heart wasn't really a change of heart after all.

That nicely took the heat off the Trudeau government, allowing them to avoid the recall of Parliament, allowing them to avoid the embarrassment of facing the public anger over food prices.

It also allowed them time to work out how a solution to the rail strike could be brought with taxpayers' money. Freight rates of course, were frozen after the Western economic conference, so the railways had no way of meeting union demands. The choice came down to a recall of Parliament to legislate railmen back to work, or government subsidies to buy a settlement.

I pretend to make no judgement as to the validity of the wage claims made by the railway workers. Neither do I blame them for taking full advantage of the government's awkward political position. But I do blame the government for putting the goal of staying in power ahead of the national interest.

One of the lessons the Trudeau government has not learned is the fact that those who carry a big stick should walk softly, and those with a pea shooter are generally safer if they act without fear.

When the Trudeau liberals had that large majority, they were [illegible]orial, [illegible] understanding. Now, in theoretical danger of [illegible] daily, the government is playing politics with our tax dollars and behaving like a [illegible] cream puff.

Research on black flies

Dr. Hugh Horner, Minister of Agriculture, has announced that $70,000 has just been granted for research on black flies in Alberta. The money will be used to fund on-going and new research projects being conducted in the County of Athabasca and area aimed at black fly control. Numerous government agencies including Agriculture Canada, Alberta Fish and Wildlife, Alberta Environment, and Alberta Agriculture (Animal Industry, Plant Industry and Veterinary Services Division) will be working with the County of Athabasca, and farmers in the area on various aspects of black fly biology, control and protection from disturbance.

These research projects will not only provide valuable data which can be utilized to cope with this problem in Alberta but will also be of use in controlling the insect across all of northern Canada and will likely be of importance in Northern development.

Black flies have already become a problem this season in many areas of the province. The problems can be solved by either [illegible] the larvae [illegible] aquatic [illegible] in rivers and streams or by protecting livestock which are attacked by the flies.

According to Michael Dolinski, supervisor of Entomology Alberta Agriculture, research being conducted on larval control in the Athabasca River will consist of 1) a baseline biological study of the river to determine aquatic organism population sizes and food chain relationships 2) an assessment of breeding potential of black flies 3) the development of monitoring procedures for any future chemical treatment of the river. An additional project will examine the possibility of regulating water flow in small streams, thereby controlling black flies. Non-chemical methods of managing production of black fly larvae will be evaluated.

Research on protection of livestock (cattle) from black fly attacks will consist of 1) a study to establish dispersal of adult black flies from breeding areas, and assessment of infestation roles for livestock on farms 2) development of livestock management practices which will reduce the fly disturbance problem (resistance to attack among livestock breeds, confinement rearing, provision of livestock shelters) 3) the efficacy of insecticides and repellents in protecting livestock. The veterinarians will attempt to provide a pathological description of the disease, that is, how black flies actually cause death, and how to identify a black fly death.

Rotten odds

Joe Mason, who is one of the best foremen we know, told one of his employees the other day that he was taking needless chances in the way he did a particular [illegible]. The employee's reply was [illegible] you're being [illegible] there ain't one chance in ten thousand I could be hurt doing it that way."

Joe thought about it a minute. [illegible] guy was [illegible] about one [illegible] thousand [illegible] that [illegible] safe [illegible] about those [illegible] odds.

"Those are lousy odds," [illegible] like pretty good odds to me," the employee replied.

"Look," said Joe, "you work an eight hour day five days a week, right? You work fifty weeks a year. Five times eight is forty hours a week, times fifty weeks is two thousand hours you work in a year. How often do you figure you take this shortcut that you think is ten-thousand-to-one safe? I guess you do it five times an hour.

"You know what that adds up to? That means you do it ten thousand times every year. In fact, that means the odds are heavy that you'll get killed or hurt doing that in the next year. You've got to change your ways, or they're going to haul you out of here feet first."

"Hey," the employee said, "I never figured it that way. Ten thousand to one - - not such hot odds after all."

"Ten thousand to one is lousy odds," said Joe. "Especially if you're betting your life"!

Bride elect is feted in Tofiled

(Grace Phillips)

Nette Appleby, a September bride-elect, was honored with a bridal shower recently in the social room of the Tofield United Church. Nearly a hundred ladies were present to wish Nette well in her new life.

Elizabeth Davison extended good wishes to Nette on behalf of those present, after which many lovely gifts were presented to Nette by Mrs. Davison and Mrs. Ruby Sears. Two of Nette's chosen bridesmaids, her sister Susan and Kathy Regehr, assisted in the opening of the gifts, which were then passed around and admired by the guests.

Nette introduced visitors from Vegreville, her grandmother, Mrs. Ziegler, two aunts and several cousins. She then thanked the ladies who had planned the shower, those who had attended it and those who, though unable to attend, were represented by their gifts.

Nette is the elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Appleby. She will become the bride of Mr. John Borosiuk on Saturday, September 15th.

A TIME TO PLAY

With school starting again, and the whole gamut of other organized activities getting underway, a child's time often becomes very crowded. Does this article have a message for all of us?

Do children have time to play? Listen in as Mrs. Sanders tries to arrange piano lessons for nine-year-old Johnny:

"I'll be glad to take Johnny, Mrs. Sanders. Would Thursdays at five be convenient for him?"

"I'm afraid his Scout troop meets then. Do you have another time?"

"Mondays at four then."

"I'm sorry, Monday is band practice day."

"Perhaps you'd better tell me when he is free, and I'll see if I can arrange something."

"Well, Tuesdays and Wednesdays are club days at school, and Friday afternoons his baseball team practices. Saturday mornings would be fine, if he can be finished in time to get to dance classes at one. I don't suppose you teach on Sundays..."

Mrs. Sanders would say that Johnny has time to play ... he takes part in baseball games and club meetings, goes to dances, and has countless other activities.

But what is play? And how does a child benefit from it?

Play is any activity that a child chooses to take part in and that interests, amuses, or satisfies him. It may be dramatic: pretend games and dress-up play; or simple: noisy-pounding and throwing — or quiet: social or solitary.

Play helps a child learn about the world. He discovers how objects are made and what he can do with them, tests the ways he might behave in different situations, and tries out the various roles he might play as an adult.

Through play, a child gains confidence in himself and learns to have pride in the things he does on his own. Paint, clay, building blocks, paper and paste give him a chance to show how he sees the world and to express his feelings about the events in his life.

Co-operative play provides a child with opportunities to learn what other people are like. He learns the give - and - take necessary to adult life. He discovers if group play is properly guided, that he can get along with others and still have a personality of his own.

But all of these benefits are gained from play only if a child can choose his own activity and can engage in it without pressure and interference. Johnny Saunders had many activities, so many in fact, that he could do none of them well - and in all of them he was expected to be first and best. As a result he enjoyed none and felt he was a failure.

A time for play - real play - can and should be arranged for every child. All that's required is that adults follow a few simple practices.

Try not to plan every minute of a child's day - like you, he needs some time that's his own.

Make a real effort not to press your own interests on a child. You may love music, while trying to master the piano is sheer torture for him. Let him find his special interest and help him develop it.

Take part in a child's activities when you're asked, but resist the urge to direct things. The game may run more smoothly or the painting may be neater, but the child will have lost the satisfaction of saying "Look what I did".

Don't be too critical of a child's work or compare it with that done by other children.

When asked to comment on a child's work, try to visualize what he was striving for, and don't judge his results by adult standards.

Every child is creative - and will express and develop his creativity through some type of play. If adults handle a child's playtime with care, creativity survives to enrich his later life.

Big price difference from hoof to hamburger

Consumers may feel there's too much-spread in the price of meat between the price the farmer gets and the price at the butcher shop, yet it's all a very logical and practical business, Camrose Rotarians were told recently by two representatives of the meat packing industry.

Bill Anderson, head buyer for Swift Canadian's operation in Edmonton, and Elmer Miller, of Camrose Packers, described the rather complex series of steps that develop from feedlot to frying pan.

The average choice steer of say, a thousand pounds, dresses out at 57 percent of this figure when it is killed, said Mr. Anderson, or about 570 pounds. There will be about 75 pounds of hide, he said, about 85 pounds of edible byproducts, and about 275 pounds of inedible byproducts to cover this difference he said.

This means that if the animal has been purchased at fifty cents a pound on the hoof, the 570 pounds of meat left after killing now represent 87 cents a pound, just for the purchase, without taking into account any of the many other factors involved in pricing.

The packing house deducts from the total cost of the carcass, the value of all the byproducts, so they can come up with the net cost of the carcass for meat purposes.

There are many factors that influence the cost dressed, he said including the amount of finish, the level of fat, the cleanliness of the hide, and so on.

Mr. Miller pointed out there is a further shrink of two to three per cent as the meat hangs for a week in the cold room. It has long been felt that hanging, or aging, the meat is necessary to improve the taste, although this belief was seriously challenged by the two packers.

Mr. Miller pointed to a number of factors influencing costs, such as the swing from steaks in the summer to roasts in the winter. There's a limited amount of steak in a side, said Mr. Miller, and when the heavy emphasis is on steaks, the price of these soars, and other cuts have to be reduced to help move them. He said further there has been a great emphasis on convenience cuts, those which can be cooked quickly, but the trend now is toward cuts that take more time, which often represent the economy cuts.

Mr. Miller referred to the hypothetical carcass mentioned by Mr. Anderson, costing 87 cents a pound dressed, and said this was further affected by the costs of freight, handling, shrink, trim, waste, and hamburger, which must sell at lower prices. His own plant tends to emphasize beef labelled A2, rather than A1, he said, in order to get the extra amount of marbling necessary for taste.

Mr. Anderson commented that Alberta is rather unique among meat producing areas, in that it produces roughly forty per cent of the total kill in this country, yet consumes only about ten per cent of it, so that large amounts of meat head out to places like Quebec, and so on.

Three major influences which have affected meat markets of late were pointed out by Mr. Anderson. First was the heavy calf kill of five or six years ago, when calves were bringing only $30 or less, whereas it took more than $30 worth of feed to carry them over the winter. Now, he agreed, the livestock population is on the upswing, but it takes a good deal of time.

His second point was the world economy, which is seeing more prosperous nations, particularly Japan, showing a good deal of interest in Canadian beef. Thirdly, he pointed out, last year there had been a severe drought in Europe, throughout Russia, and over in Australia, which normally is a heavy producer. Poor crops in these countries meant higher feed costs, which have a direct bearing on markets in this country, he pointed out.

Mr. Miller produced considerable interest in his hearers when he said high prices of red meats are having a direct effect in persuading customers to switch to fowl, and added there is a marked trend to deep freeze processing. Increased meat prices are hardly surprising, he added, when you remember that a short time ago farmers were getting twenty cents a pound for their beef, whereas today it's commanding from 54 to 56 cents a pound.

Making a compost heap

A compost heap is a good place for putting lawn clippings, garden refuse, leaves, grass sods, kitchen scraps and almost any other material that will decompose. However never use plants or grass sods that are diseased or that have been sprayed with a soil sterilant.

The size of a compost heap is not important; it will vary with the amount of material to be composted. A very simple way of making compost is simply to put the material in a shallow pit or pile and to keep it moist until it has decayed sufficiently to be used.

Another way is to follow the same procedure as above, but to sprinkle a small amount of rich soil in with the compost materials as they are added to the pile. The soil supplies organisms which hasten the decomposition process.

The decaying process may be further speeded up by periodically adding a few handfuls of fertilizer as the pile grows. A fertilizer like 16-20-0, which supplies both nitrogen and phosphorus, usually gives the best results.

The Alberta Horticultural Guide, available from district agriculturists and the publications office of the Alberta Department of Agriculture, recommends putting a 4 to 6-inch layer of inverted grass sod, straw or other coarse material as a base for a compost heap. Then, spread a 3 to 4-inch layer of manure folloed by a 3 to 4 inch layer of lawn clippings, leaves or other organic matter. A layer of topsoil fortified with a nitrogen fertilizer can be added at various levels of the pile to hasten its decomposition. Turning the material periodically will also hasten decomposition.

Some people by special cultures to innoculate their compost heaps. It is doutful, however, whether these cultures contain any organisms that are more effective for decomposing organic vegetable matter than those in fertile soil.

Regardless of the method used, the top of the compost heap should be slightly concave so that it will catch the rain. If the weather is very dry, keep the compost moist by adding water to the top of the pile.

Wigs—A fire hazard

If you have a wig, fall or hair piece, Consumers' Association of Canada warns that the wig setting or holding sprays in aerosol cans are highly flammable because of their ethyl alcohol content. The wig is at its most hazardous when the hairpiece ha been freshly sprayed and is still wet, regardless of the type of wig. Allow sprays 10 minutes to dry. Repeated application of a spray, without periodic removal of the accumulation by washing or shampooing, increases the burning hazard of any hairpiece, particularly a human hair wig. CAC headquarters is located at 100 Gloucester Street, Ottawa.

County School Committee briefs

(Unofficial Report)

AUGUST 7th, 1973.

Present were: Crs. Johnston, Laube, Knudslien, Kropielnicki, Roddick, Sears. Representing towns and villages: K. Field, N. Semotiuk, and H. Wilkie. Also present: M.S. Bruce, Superintendent of schools, K. Robson, Supervisor of Instruction, A.R. Cross, Secretary-Treasurer.

The meeting was called to order at 10.15 a.m. by the Chairman, Cr Roddick. Moved that the minutes of the School Committee meeting held on July 10th 1973, be accepted.

Unfinished Business

The Secretary-Treasurer advised that no tenders had been received for the purchase of the two old schools at Viking.

Correspondence from the Department of Education advised that a member of the School Committee or the County Council could not purchase these buildings without jeopardizing their seat. Moved that a committee composed of Crs. Roddick, Brissard and K. Field be authorized to try and negotiate the sale of these old schools at Viking.

Tenders for the supply of gasoline and lubricants were opened at this time. The tenders were as follows for gasoline:

Texaco Canada Ltd.
Tofield delivery 22.40
Viking delivery 22.40
Imperial Oil Ltd.
Viking delivery 27.20
Tofield delivery 26.20
Holden delivery 26.70
Shell Canada Ltd.
Viking delivery 22.70
Bruce delivery 22.70
Gulf Oil Co. Ltd.
All points 22.50

None of the prices quoted were firm prices for the contract year. Only the discounts were firm. Moved that the bid from Texaco Canada Ltd. for the supply of gasoline for the year September 1st, 1973 to August 31st, 1974 be accepted and that we purchase our lubricants from Imperial Oil Ltd.

The School Committee was advised that our proposal under the Educational Opportunities Fund had been approved by the Department of Education.

Moved that this report be accepted and that Mr. Bruce proceed with the necessary staffing at Bruce and Kingella.

A letter from the School Buildings Board of the Department of Education advised that approval had been given for the acquisition of a portable school building to put on a site at the Holden Hutterite Colony.

The Chairman of the School Buildings Board had informed the Secretary-Treasurer that a survey was presently under way to ascertain where there were empty portable schools. He would advise us further when the survey was completed.

The School Buildings Board had advised Mr. Bruce that they required a statement to the effect that the Hutterite Colony would use the school and that they would lease a site to the School Committee. A letter had been signed by the signing officers of the Holden Hutterite Colony giving consent for a lease of a site for the school and stating they would use the school.

New Business

Correspondence from the Department of Education stated that the contribution towards boarding allowances had been increased to 90 percent of $3.50 per day instead of $2.50 per day.

Moved that the County contribute $3.50 per day toward boarding allowances.

It was suggested that we revise our policy regarding payment of boarding allowances based on the number of credits taken. This would mean that those students going to schools outside our jurisdiction would have to take the maximum credits possible to qualify for the full boarding allowance.

Moved that our policy regarding payment of boarding allowance be revised so that it is based on the number of credits taken.

Mr. Bruce outlined the Learning Disabilities Fund program of the Department of Education.

This program is deviside to assess students who are of average or above average intelligence but who for some reason are having learning problems. The program is funded by the Department of Education by a grant of $10.00 per student for those students enrolled in elementary grades.

A committee composed of J. Roddick, H. Wilkie, G. Knudslien, K. Robson, and A.R.Cross had met on Wednesday, August 1st, 1973 with Dr. E.E. McCoy, Chairman of the Child Development Centre. This organization it was learned will do the necessary assessment of these students and outline a program for them to be followed on return of the child to our schools. The charge of this service is the amount of the grant.

A sample contract from the Child Development Centre was presented and discussed.

The committee was of the opinion that the Centre could provide a much needed service. It was suggested however, that a statement to the effect that the assessment of these children be done by a qualified person as required by the Department of Education, be included in the contract in order that we would be ensured of receiving the grant in full.

Moved that the School Committee enter into an agreement Centre for the 1973-74 school year.

The Secretary - Treasurer had been advised that Arlene Stauffer intended to resign as part time caretaker at Ryley school. He had received an application from Mrs. Ellen Lauber for this position.

Moved that Mrs. Ellen Lauber be appointed part - time caretaker at Ryley school when required and that Arlene Stauffer be appointed as a spare caretaker.

Moved that Sharon Pobuda (nee Klontz) be appointed to the staff of Viking School from August 1st, 1973 to July 31st, 1974.

Moved that Mrs. Gwendolvan Peterson be appointed a permanent staff member of Tofield School.

Moved that Mrs. Helen Tiedemann be transferred to Tofield grade one.

Moved that Mrs. Carol Rurka be appointed a grade five teacher at Tofield school and that Marilyn Lehman be appointed the Home Economics teacher at Ryley school.

Moved that a letter of appreciation be sent to the contract bus operators for their years of service to the school system.

Moved that Cr. Roddick attend the next Association of School Administrators meeting on August 29th, 1973 and that H.Wilkie attend on September 27th.

As there was no further business, it was moved that the meeting adjourn.

Mazankowski calls for end to strikes

Speaking in the House of Commons during the emergency debate ending the railway strike Don Mazankowski Progressive Conservative member of Vegreville, called on the federal government to initiate immediate action in overhauling the current barganing process in essential services under federal jurisdiction.

He said the people of Canada are fed up to the teeth with strikes and are demanding alternative methods to the present negotiating process. At the present time, there are some fifty-four strikes taking place in Canada, involving thousands, creatinig irreparable harm to the economy and causng untold hardship and suffering to countless millions of Canadians.

Mr. Mazankowski pointed out that nothing hes improved in the collective bargaining process from the standpoint of the public interest since the last time legislation sent striking railway workers back to work n 1966, notwithstanding the fact that it was then acknowledged that improvements were needed. At that time Mr. Pearson, then the Prime Minister said, "We must find better methods for negotiations and settlement of disputes in the railway industry, and in other industries, which will more effectively preserve the right of the employees and the national interest, particularly in respect of essential national services".

"There has been a void of action on the part of this goverment and former Liberal governments", said Mr. Mazankowski, "and what's more, they have failed to honour an undertaking committed to by the former Prime Minister".

Mr. Mazankowski called for the establishment of a Public Interest Disputes Commission which would set out new procedures for resolving labour-management differences where the public interest is threatened. He also called on the government to institue measures to encourage meaningful negotiations to take place well in advance of the expiry date of con tracts, rather than the present charades by unions and management.

"This rail strike has been the most costly in the history of Canada", said Mr. Mazankowski "and could have been avoided if the government had undertaken its rightful responsibility. It was warned well in advance, by both parties involved and by the action of rotating strikes, but it failed o show any courage and leadership on behalf of the Canadian pleople.

The Golden wedding of Edward and May Tiedemann was celebrated at Tofield on Sunday September 2, at an "open house" in the Legion Hall.

Numerous relatives and friends attended and the happy couple received many cards and gifts. A lovely three-tiered wedding cake decorated by Edith Wideman represented their 50 years of marriage. Red roses and white carnations, a gift from the grandchildren, completed the gold and white theme.

Hans Huseby passes

The Mercury received word just before going to press this afternoon that Hans Huseby, a resident of the Holden district for more than 65 years, died this morning, Thursday, at 6 a.m. in Bethany Home at Camrose.

Arrangements for funeral services had not been completed at time of going to press but members of the family feel the funeral will probably be held Monday. It will be held in Messiah Lutheran Church, Camrose, and Hoveland's Funeral Home are in charge of arrangements.

A highly respected member of the Holden farming community for many years, Mr. Huseby was 93 at the time of his death. Born in Norway, he emigrated to the States, and after spending some time there moved to Holden in 1905, and lived there until moving to Bethany Home several months ago due to failing health.

An original trustee with the Holden District Drainage Board he held the same office over a period of 30 years continuous, retiring from that position only very recent years.

Solve - a - crime

By A. C. Gordon

YOU ARE THE DETECTIVE

Larry Morse's body is slumped in the straight-back chair next to the window in the motel room.

Roger Helling, whose phone call has summoned you to the scene of the tragedy, speaks up. "Larry was a close friend and business associate of mine. He shot himself right here in front of me! I knew of course that he had been in poor health for some time, but I never dreamed that he was even contemplating anything like this!"

You stoop beside the victim's body, and the scorched hair around the bullet wound in the right temple indicates the close range from which the fatal shot was fired. Then, stepping around to the other side of the body, you pick up the gun from the floor with your handkerchief, test it for fingerprints, and find nothing of interest.

Turning back to Helling you ask, "This happened right in front of you?"

"Yes. Larry had just gotten into town. He phoned me . . . said he had some business matters to talk over with me. I was here with him for about fifteen minutes, and we talked about nothing really important. In fact he seemed very downcast and upset. Suddenly he got up from that chair he's in now, walked over to the dresser, pulled the gun out of a drawer, and shot himself!"

You saunter across the room to the dresser, gaze down at the still-open drawer, and then swing back to face Roger Helling.

"I happen to know," you say, "that Larry Morse was a very soft touch, that he had loaned considerable sums of money to various friends. And you were his biggest debtor. I suspect that you resorted to murder as a means of erasing your debt!"

What has led you to this conclusion?

SOLUTION

There are three inconsistencies in the whole setup. First, although the bullet wound was in the victim's right temple you found the gun lying on the floor to the LEFT of his chair. Second, you found no fingerprints on the gun, leading you to believe that the killer thoughtlessly wiped the gun clean and forgot to put the victim's prints on it. And third, the dresser from which the victim was supposed to have gotten the gun was quite a distance from the chair where you found the body. An innocent Helling should have had time to stop his friend before he walked back to the chair to shoot himself.

At the present time, registrations for minor hockey are being given out through the schools throughout the County of Beaver.

All boys interested in playing hockey this coming winter are urged to fill out this registration. This will give an indication as to how many players there will be and will allow for teams to be drawn up and the league schedule outlined. The deadline date for registrations is Friday, Sept. 21st, 1973.

Boys from the Bruce and Kinsella areas may be inaugerated with Viking or Holden teams, if interest warrants this.

Five age groups will be scheduled

1. Mites— 8 - 10 years
2. Pee Wees—11 - 12 years
3. Bantams 13 -14 years
4. Midgets—15 - 16 years
5. Juveniles 17 - 18 years

Cut off date for all age groups is December 31st, midnight. A mighty-mite league might also be organized for players eight years and under, if interest is shown.

Get your registrations in for the forthcoming hockey season, because the way it looks, winter could be just around the corner.

Also, it is hoped, a two-day hockey school can be set on the first weekend in November in Tofield. This would be an invaluable experience for the kids to receive good instruction.

Minor hockey players are urged to register

EATON — In loving memory of a beloved husband and father, Owen Richard Eaton, who passed away Sept. 24th, 1958:

Fifteen years have passed and gone—
Since Owen left us here alone,
We who loved you sadly miss you
As there dawns another year;
In the lonely hours of thinking
Thoughts of you are always near,
Sweet memories linger forever,
Time does not change them it is true;
Years that come will not sever
Our loving thoughts of you

Ever remembered and sadly missed by his loving wife, Ellen; two sons, Walter and Evelyn Eaton and family, Leroy and Shirley and family; and daughter, Mrs. Rita Niemetz and two girls Linda and Sherry. nc

Tofield School honors '73 graduating class

by Grace Phillips

"A Time to Remember", the theme of the Tofield High School 1973 graduation, was spelled out in large green letters on the wall of the Tofield Community Centre on Saturday, Sept. 22nd, in honor of the 29 graduates. Other symbols of graduation, a diploma and a mortarboard, were also displayed, reminding the graduated of the importance of the occasion.

Ron Taylor of the Tofield High School staff was chairman both for the banquet and for the graduation exercises. Preceding the banquet, he introduced the head table guests, Dick Thiessen said grace, and J. C. Lampitt proposed the toast to the Queen. When the banquet was completed, Mr. Taylor thanked the caterers, Iasie Chapter, OES, Mr. Lampitt for arranging the banquet, and the high school students for decorating the hall.

The toast to the graduates was proposed by Floyd Irwin who wished them continued success. In accepting this toast, Grace Heiberg, on behalf of the grads, thanked the parents and teachers for making graduation possible. Bob Christensen proposed the toast to the parents whose diverse functions as teachers, guidance counsellors, and friends were much appreciated. In reply to this toast, Mrs. John Koop said that this was a happy and proud occasion for the parents who could now see their children taking a major step to independence. Over the years, parents had offered encouragement, advice, and comfort as the occasion demanded, and would continue to do so.

Robert Schabert, in proposing a toast to the County of Beaver School System, praised the School Committee, the Tofield School, and its staff for producing such a fine educational opportunity. Harry Wilkie, on behalf of the School Committee, accepted

Mazankowski heads Conservative caucus

Member of Parliament for Vegreville since he was first elected in 1968, Don Mazankowski was named Chairman of the Official Opposition caucus this week by the Hon. Robert Stanfield, leader of the Conservative party in the House of Commons. The appointment is effective immediately, and is one of four made by Mr. Stanfield.

A 37-year-old businessman from Vegreville, Mr. Mazankowski has served in the past as chairman of the caucus committee on youth and transport.

Other appointments made by Mr. Stanfield include naming Ged Baldwin of Peace River as chairman of a parliamentary strategy committee, after his retiring from the position of house leader he has held since 1968.

Ralph Gorrie addresses Holden High graduates

The Holden Community was filled to capacity for the graduation exercises held on Saturday evening, September 22. Miss Cheryl Grosland was at the organ for the processional as the thirty-five Holden High school graduates filed down the aisle and took their places on the platform. The invocation was given by Reverend S. Bessey of the Holden United Church, William Ogrodnick, Principal of Holden School, acted as chairman.

The guest speaker for the evening was Ralph Gorrie, M.Ed., the Superintendent of Schools for the County of Minburn who had himself graduated from Holden 21 years before. His description of the Holden School in his high school days was quite unlike the school this graduating class has known; his humorous account of some of the activities were enjoyed by all.

Entertainment for the evening was provided by Miss Lorna Grinde at the piano and Miss Anita Erickson, who rendered a solo, "To Sir With Love".

Miss Sandra Koppel very ably delivered the valedictory

Armed man robs truck

Police are conducting a search for a man who robbed a mail truck and apparently took the truck and driver for a ride

The robbery took place yesterday (Wednesday) morning on Highway 14 near Bruce when the truck stopped so that the driver, John Fray of Edmonton, could make a routine mail pick-up.

According to reports, a masked man, holding a sawed off .22 calibre rifle held up the driver, tied him up and gagged him and then put him in the back of the truck and drove to Two Hills where he abandoned the vehicle. The driver worked his way out of the ropes and got to a farmhouse where he notified the RCMP.

It was estimated that approximately $15,000 was taken in the robbery. Police are on the lookout for a man 5' 7" weighing 150 pounds. Anyone having any information that might help are asked to call the nearest detachment of the RCMP.

Hockey players should register

Boys wishing to play hockey in the County of Beaver this winter should get their registrations in as soon as possible.

The Highway 14 Minor Hockey League is planning on drafting the 1973-74 schedule on Sunday and must know how many players are available by that time.

Names may be submitted to John Baergen in Tofield, Tom Kerlee in Ryley and either Bob McKay or Dennis Cooper in Holden.

A referees' clinic is being planned for Tofield in early November and, anyone wishing to participate should get in touch with the Regional Recreation Office in Ryley by telephoning 663-3733.

A taste of haste, waste

By Peter Ward

OTTAWA — Certainly no one could accuse the Trudeau Government of pandering to the West in search of votes in the solution offered in early September to slow down inflation.

I'm speaking particularly about the wheat policy and the oil policy, of course, and not the increases which are coming for both pensions and baby bonuses.

You'll recall that a recent column in this space written before the policy change talked about the coming price crisis for petroleum products, offering a possible solution the suggestion of the Energy Report early in the year. Well, instead of taking the advice of the report and forming that government-owned oil company to keep the big private petroleum empires honest, the government opted for a price freeze and expansion of the domestic use of Canadian oil.

The intent is excellent, but I'd question the effectiveness of the action chosen.

The price freeze has brought complaints from oil companies about government removal of the incentive to spend money on exploration. Formation of a competitive company could have created no such stir.

If the government could operate a national oil company efficiently, it would have achieved the same goal, and perhaps made a few bucks for the taxpayer as well. How could the oil companies complain about "honest competition"?

So much for the philosophical argument. There are other pitfalls to the government move on the practical side. Canadian oil used in Ontario comes via the U.S. To provide 500,000 barrels a day for a Toronto-to-Montreal pipeline, the lines through the U.S. will have to be "looped" - expanded by laying parallel pipe on the same right-of-way.

But the existing rights-of-way are not wide enough for such looping. Will the U.S. allow wider rights of way, to enable Canada to divert oil from the energy-starved Mid-West, and send it instead to Quebec?

While you are at it, you might ask yourself if Quebec is going to like a policy which kills the proposal to build a deep-water tanker port on the St. Lawrence.

Yes, the goals are the right ones; but the method shows evidence of a policy constructed in haste, to be repented at leisure. In the long run, a national oil company would have been more effective, and safer politically.

Not a police state

An Ontario woman recently won a two year fight to have her police record and her fingerprints destroyed, after being found not guilty on a charge, which seems in the first place to have arisen from a misunderstanding. The problem is that it took her so long to get the simple justice she sought.

Authorities who probably could have helped, and who probably were in a much better position to understand how help could be obtained, all turned a deaf ear of officialdom, preferring not to become involved.

Charged for shoplifting, the woman was fingerprinted, and a file opened and circulated throughout other police centres, according to the record, before she was able to convince the magistrate, when her case came up, that she did have a valid receipt, and was at no time involved in any infraction.

Though the magistrate dismissed the case, he could not order her fingerprints destroyed, as she requested, nor the file thrown out. No could any of the other officials she contacted. There is distinct legislation covering the opening of files and the taking of fingerprints, but there is nothing covering their elimination.

There may be many times in court room work when a judgment of not guilty means simply the prosecution hasn't adduced enough evidence to prove their point beyond a reasonable doubt, even though everyone in the court is convinced of the guilt of the accused. But when the charges are easily and cleanly refuted and overthrown, surely it is only common justice to destroy the file at the same time, on request.

We have often argued that there are many good reasons for the fingerprinting of all people, providing irrefutable proof in time of accident or death, for instance. But for so long as fingerprinting is associated almost entirely only with crime, then in the absence of crime, the fingerprints should not be needed, nor retained.

Want their cake

In a brief to the provincial government recently, the Alberta Teachers' Association has submitted a strong complaint that teachers are being denied basic rights in some instances in that they are not permitted to run for public office, and if successful, to be guaranteed they can return to the same position [illegible] on election.

HELP SOUGHT

This letter was received by the editor and is being printed in hope that some of our readers might be of some assistance.

Dear Mr Clinton:

I have been referred to you by Mr. E.J. Holngrem, Provincial Librarian, in connection with a copyright problem. I have already written to the Historical Society of Beaver Hills Lake but have received no reply.

The Society published a history of the area by Ragna Stein entitled Pioneer Days in Bardo, Alberta. I have used the book in my research and would like to quote passages from it in a school text I am writing. I would be grateful if you could provide any leads to people who might be, or have been, members of the Society.

I am also interested in some recent history (the last 20 years) of the Bardo area for comparison with its early beginnings. Has your paper published any articles that would be useful in assessing the present State of Bardo?

Sincerely yours,
Ben Bramble

Dear Sir,

I wish to pass this information on to your readers.

Lyndon Wayne Patterson was born in Tofield April 30, 1955. He was laid to rest in Oshawa Ontario September 20 1973. Lyndon met his death in a car accident near Cornwall Ontario on the morning of September 17th.

Surviving are his parents Ruby and Cliff Patterson, and sister, Sandra all of 11 Darwin Drive, Point Park, Cunningsville, N.B. (not N.S. as previously stated), his sister, Mrs Lewis Gibson (Judy Ann) of Apison, Tennessee, and sister Kathy at Atlantic Union College, South Lancaster, Mass.

Ruby and Cliff wish to assure their many friends that their courage is strong, and that they are greatly comforted by the knowledge that Lyndon was a dedicated young Christian. They send their fond regards to all their friends in this area.

— Mrs. Roland Booth

Beef consumers surveyed

Canadian palates savor roasts from young bulls as well as those from steers according to a survey conducted in central Alberta by Agriculture Canada scientists.

Bull carcasses yield more lean meat but consumers involved in the survey found bull roasts less tender.

A distinction is made between the two types of roasts in the United States but at least one Agriculture Canada scientist feels the difference between the two is too small to warrant a distinction in supermarket labeling.

Bombs assist foresters in air pollution tests

The Department of National Defence is assisting a Federal-Provincial-Industry air pollution research study by supplying smoke bomb generators to determine the effects, if any, on Forested areas; by sulphur dioxide gas emissions from natural gas processing plants.

Foresters from the Northern Forest Research Centre in Edmonton, the Alberta Departments of Lands and Forests and Environment, and with the co-operation of Acquitaine of Canada Limited will conduct the tests. Of prime interest will be mapping the movement and dispersal of the SO2 from smoke stacks. Because the SO2 is invisible the smoke bombs will be released with the gas adding a coloring agent to allow the plume to be seen and it's movement recorded.

Contrary to popular belief gases under certain weather conditions do not disperse evenly as they leave the stack but are inclined to travel with the wind as if they were in a flexible tube that falls to the ground and bounces back again and again. Particularly close study of possible vegetation changes will be made by scientists from the Northern Forest Research Centre when the areas of most frequent plume impingement have been determined. Results from the studies will provide technical data for future detection and impact appraisal surveys. By studies such as this damage to vegetation from Fumes can be kept to a minimum.

The "Bug Test"

Have you ever noticed the shapes and size of the bug-smears on your windshield after a trip to [illegible] Well [illegible] find some [illegible] wash job.

W[illegible] about this possibility [illegible] the law enforcement establishment but because these bugs [illegible] pretty well the same amount of entrails on the car window at a certain speed they could be measured to gauge the speed of your car. Try it. Drive your car at 60 mph for a while and have a look and compare it with 60 mph. You'll find quite a difference.

Of course there's the problem of winter but for the summer when the traffic is higher and a lot of accidents occur, a person could be subjected to the "Bug Test" and found to be going 90 mph rather than the 60 mph that was posted.

Who knows, maybe we've opened up a whole new concept in speed detection and think of all the jobs it would create when each different bug would have to be measured and recorded.

Cross-Helgeland vows are exchanged in Ryley

The wedding of Debra Lynn Helgeland, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Helgeland of Ryley to Robert Cross, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Cross of Ryley took place August 25th at Calvin United Church in Ryley with Rev. Stanley R Bessey officiating at the double ring ceremony.

Holden and district news items

(Mrs. G. H. Taylor)

Don Allan, a patient at the University Hospital, is making very good progress from his recent operation, doing extensive walking therapy and is now starting to get around with crutches. He had his son, Dennie of Ottawa, who was passing through Edmonton on business to Vancouver, visit with him Sunday evening of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Kuchman were attending the Requiem Mass on Tuesday morning at St. John the Baptist Ukrainian Catholic Church in Borschiw, for Mike Hrabec who passed away Saturday, Sept. 22nd.

A longtime resident of the Ryley district, Mike Hrabec, brother of Peter and John Hrabec of Holden passed away on September 22nd at the age of 77 years. He is survived by his loving wife, Anne of Ryley, four sons, Martin, Steve and Danny, all of Ryley, and Bill of Edmonton; three daughters, Mrs. Nick (Nancy) Stuart of Vegreville, Mrs. Sam (Elsie) Mictak of Bruce, and Mrs. Charles (Pearl) Olesek of Edmonton; great-grandchild, three brothers, John of Vegreville, Peter and Harry of Holden, three sisters, Mary, Domka and Eudokia of the Ukraine. He was predeceased by two brothers. Prayers service was held on Monday evening at the Borschiw Parish Hall and Requiem Mass was held on Tuesday, September 25th at St. John the Baptist Ukranian Catholic Church in Borschiw with interment in te church cemetery.

Mrs. Lyle Grosland is a patient at the hospital in Viking. Venrie is having treatment and rest for a pulled muscle in her hip.

Mrs. Ethel Brekstad learned Monday evening the Mrs. Mabel Suer had surgery on her back on Monday and has made a satisfactory recovery from the operation.

Mrs. Mary Hardy and Mrs. Beth Campbell were Monday evening visitors at Tofield Hospital, calling on Mrs. Olive Good Mrs. Kennie McLennan and also with Mr. Chris Christensen.

Mr and Mrs. Earl Hardy were Sunday visitors in Edmonton to attend the christening of their little granddaughter, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Douglas Hardy.

Mr. and Mrs. William Shyba were attending the funeral of Mike Hrabec on Tuesday morning at St. John the Baptist Ukrainian Church in Borschiw.

Mrs. Maud Corliss, Mrs. Carrie Olson and Mrs. Rosie Raeder were Monday afternoon guests with Mrs. Campbell. Mrs. Mae Budd was also a guest with her in the morning.

Mrs. Pearl Allan was in Edmonton Sunday to visit her husband, Don who is in hospital there.

The doctor straightens up from his examination of the dead girl's body on the floor. "The bullet entered just a few inches above her heart and lodges in the heart," he states. Death was instantaneous.

After gazing for a few minutes longer at the body of the young debutante, Sharon Hastings, lying beside the door in study of her wealthy father, you walk over towards the desk where the girl's fiance, Tom Selby, sits sobbing. A gun lies on the desk in front of him.

"A horrible, horrible accident," he cries. "Sharon and I were going out to dinner this evening. I had arrived rather early, sauntered into the study here to wait for Sharon, and I was seated at her father's desk. Then finally Sharon put in an appearance. But just as she entered the study, a big man with a stocking mask over his head and face came in behind her holding a gun. He told Sharon to open the safe, and when she screamed it distracted him, and I grabbed for the gun lying in the open drawer of this desk in front of me.

"Just as I pulled the trigger, Sharon rushed toward me into my line of fire. When she fell to the floor, the man rushed from the room. I was too stunned and too grief-stricken to follow him."

"How did the desk drawer happen to be open?" you ask.

"Well, as I already told you, I was seated here at the desk waiting for Sharon. I just happened to slide the drawer open. Idle curiosity, I guess you might call it."

"I'm sure I would call it something else if someone happened to be prying into my desk," you retort. "And I don't think your fiancee's death was an accident!"

What has aroused your suspicions?

SOLUTION

If Tom Selby, as he stated, had shot at the "intruder" from a sitting position at the desk, his bullet could not have entered Sharon's body "a few inches above her heart," and taken a downward course as it did.

COLD WATER CAN SAVE FROSTED PLANTS

An application of cold water, just before the sun rises, can save many perennials and bedding plants caught by an early fall frost.

The head of the Alberta Department of Agriculture's Horticultural Branch, P.D. McCalla, explains that when cold water is applied before the sun comes up, it freezes on the outside of the plants. As the heat from the sun melts this water, it maintains their moisture level thereby preserving the plant tissue. If the plants are not watered before the sun's heat starts to thaw them out, they become dehydrated.

County's Agricultural News

NEW TREE APPLICATION

Applications for Shelterbelt Trees for planting in 1974 must be submitted to the District Agricultural's Office not later than November 1st of this year.

In the past the cut-off date for these applications was Mar. 1st of the year in which the trees were planted. The main reason for advancing the cut-off date to November 1st is that the earlier date enables Agriculture Officers to inspect the proposed planting site before approving the applications. When applications could be submitted during the winter months, it was not possible to carry out this site inspection if there was a lot of snow.

The Tree Planting Program stipulates that to be eligible for Shelterbelt Trees the applicant must have summerfallowed the proposed planting site the previous summer.

The lists of the trees and the shrubs varieties available can be obtained from either the District Agriculturist's of the Agricultural Fieldman's Office.

AVOID RAPESEED STRAW TOXICITY

Use a good straw spreader on the combine when spreading rapeseed to avoid the adverse affects to cereal and oilseed crop. Past experience has shown that the damage done to the cereal crop is mainly confined to area beneath the windrow. The toxic material in the straw taints the growth of the cereal or oilseed crop. When the straw is spread evenly over the field at harvest time there is usually no problem with toxicity.

It is important to spread the straw in the fall for the following spring as the toxic substance will already have leached into the soil. There are a number of crop varieties that are resistant to the toxic substance in rape straw. If you are wondering about these varieties, please contact the District Agriculturist's Office.

1973 GRASSLAND INCENTIVE PROGRAM APPLICATIONS

Farmers and ranchers who wish to apply for payment under the Grassland Incentive Program for perennial forage seeded in 1973 will be assisted by Grassland Incentive Program Personnel from the Federal Department of Agriculture in completing their applications.

Elevator agents and District Agricultural's have been instructed to advise farmers to wait until these people make arrangements to come to their districts to complete the application forms. Time and designated places where these applications may be completed will be announced at a later date.

Farmers and Ranchers who did not complete the LIFT application at previous Grassland Incentive Program application are requested to have their '69 - '70, '70 - '71 and current Permit Books with them when calling at the designated places to complete their applications.

HOW MUCH WILD OATS IN 1974

The amount of wild oats that is growing in a field in 1974 will be directly related to the amount of seed in the soil. How does one determine this? The U. G. G. recently outlined a method of determining the amount of wild oat seeds in the soil. Try this on your own land and maybe it will convince you of the need for wild oat control.

Take a common number 10 vegetable can (remove the lid and punch holes in the bottom), a shovel and a screen. Press the open end of the can in the soil to the depth of the can, you may then run the shovel under the can and tip it upright full of soil, run the sod from the can through the screen that is small enough to keep the wild oat seeds in the top but large enough to let the soil particles fall through. If the soil is too wet to go through the screen, spread it out to dry before screening. Count the number of wild oat seeds you find. One wild oat seed per can is equal to half a bushel per acre, thus 20 seeds in a can means a field is infested at about 10 bushels per acre.

To be more accurate run a germination test on the seeds found. It is usually necessary to run a germination test in the spring because any seeds in a new crop of wild oats are dormant in the fall. In this case store the seeds in a dry place for testing in the spring.

Have you a wild oat problem?

CATTLE RUSTLING

Cattle rustling is not a new problem to the cattleman. Each fall there seems to be surge in the number of reports of missing livestock. There are, however, many ways that a farmer can take precautions to prevent the lurking rustler. By the use of a good brand every animal can easily be identified. The old method of the fire and the hot iron is still the most common, but newer methods such as electric acid and freeze branding are all acceptable.

Another precaution is to take a daily count of all farm stock. The earlier an animal is discovered missing the better the chances are of recovering it. This third precaution could be very important in most farming and ranching areas. Good traffic at night is not heavy. If a farmer spots an unfamiliar vehicle travelling his back roads, especially twice, he should make a note of the license number. Take much of the should also advise the local R.C.M.P. and let them know. Lastly, do not boast on them that you have a good brand. Most rustlers prefer to be handed opportunities that can be made by the public.

MARBLE CONTROL

September, October and November are the months in Alberta when beef cattle and non-milking dairy cattle weighing over 200 pounds should be treated for warble grub control.

The Alberta Department of Agriculture Warble Control Programme has shown definite signs of success. Results of a study carried out last spring by the Alberta Department of Agriculture, in co-operation with members of the Meat Packers Council, show that cattle warble grub infestation in the province is down by almost 50 percent as compared with 1968 survey results. This decrease of warble grubs has been achieved by an increased awareness by the farmer and his increased usage of systemic chemicals.

The following is a list of systemics and some information about them.

PRODUCT	Method of Applicator	Withholding Slaughter	Milk Period Before Processing	COMMENT
Co-Ral	Spray	7	14	Unusable through the year.
EPCO				Not by Dec., Jan. or Feb.
Trichlorfon	Pour-on	21	7	"
Neguvon	Pour-on	21	7	"
Ruelene 12R	Pour-on	7	3	"
Ruelene 25E	Pour-on or Spray	7	3	"

NOTE: Read and follow label instructions for proper use and safety precautions

Systemics that are applied in spray form provide very good louse control. If necessary they can be used during a mild spell in the spring, which is the time that louse infestations are usually at their worst. A pour-on is not as effective because it lacks the residual effect of the spray.

Mrs. G. H. Taylor

Chris Christensen, a patient in Tofield Hospital, is making very good progress from his recent illness and is able to be up and around the hospital. Miss Vivian Carlson visited him for an evening last week to show him pictures of Denmark which she had taken while there on her recent holiday trip.

Mrs. Blanche Olson is home after being a patient in Tofield Hospital for several days.

Mrs. Dorothy Good and Debbie of Edmonton with Mabel Hooper of Wetaskiwin were recent Sunday visitors with Lars Rikland while visiting with the girls' mother, Mrs. Mary Hooper and sister, Mrs. Beatrice Dinsdyk of Edmonton, who is staying with her mother for a while. They brought Lars back to Holden with them where he visited for a couple of days.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Taylor heard from their son Brian, who was making a three day business trip last week to Ft. Simpson, that he was on the FWA Flight 871 on Monday afternoon of last week, which had to return to Edmonton when its indicator light showed its landing gear had locked, while intending to land at Fort Smith. The pilot decided to return to Edmonton to the Canadian Forces Base, Namao, where they had prepared the runway for an emergency "belly" landing, but it seemed the indicator light was malfunctioning and the plane made a normal landing, making several low passes over the field until the wheels made a proper lock. The passengers then landed and waited until the next day for another flight. There were about 80 passengers and a crew of six aboard.

Mrs. Maud Corbin returned home a few days ago after a stay with her daughter, Edith at Red Deer for three weeks, her daughter driving her back.

Mrs. Mabel Starr is a patient in the Royal Alex Hospital in Edmonton, having had extensive tests and X-Rays on her hip which has been troubling her for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Heinse of Calgary called on her sister, Gwen and family, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hooper recently while visiting with their mother, Mrs. Evans at Vista Lodge.

Frank Stardko is again a patient in Tofield Hospital having a check-up and treatment.

The Friendship Club met for their regular monthly meeting after a two month summer recess, at the home of Miss June Clark with 19 ladies present. Mrs. Rosie Raeder in charge of devotions opened the meeting with a hymn, prayers, and a scripture reading. The roll call was then taken with each lady responding with a verse of scripture. A letter from Hong Kong and receipt for the money sent to sponsor the Groups' little protege girl was received and also a thank-you letter from her written in Chinese and translated into English. A study chapter was then taken and discussed. The meeting closed with a hymn and the Mizpah Benediction repeated in unison. A social hour and lunch was enjoyed. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Blanche Olson. Mrs. Edith Carlson in charge of devotions.

Mrs. Chester Wright, son Jack and daughter Laura of Calgary, former Holden residents were Saturday and overnight visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Budd. Laura attended the graduation exercises and dance of Holden High School on Saturday night as the Holden Community Hall. Barbara was also a Sunday morning guest with Mr. and Mrs. Robert MacKay before leaving on her trip back to Calgary.

Mrs. Robert MacKay and the children were Tuesday afternoon business visitors in Edmonton, also calling on Christine's parents in Edmonton, before driving home.

Mrs. Bruce Budd was a visitor from Monday of last week until Friday evening with her mother, Mrs. Prestage, and helped her celebrate her birthday on the Thursday when Mae entertained several friends at her mother at afternoon coffee.

Nick Hajdu was a hospital patient for a few days over the weekend, having a check-up following a severe cold.

Bruce Budd was a business visitor in Edmonton on Monday.

PARENTAL SUPPORT

Do you as a parent encourage your son or daughter to participate as "active members of the organizations to which they belong? Or do you merely let them join, then criticize when junior needs the car to attend a meeting or a game, or to drive his sister to a function which her club is sponsoring?

No club is successful without survey conducted in the state of Wisconsin spanning seventeen years confirmed the fact that parent interest has a great deal of influence on how long members remain in club work. Results indicated that of the members who remained in the club for four years or more, over 90 percent received parent support; while members of one year or less fostered parents who showed interest only 33 percent of the time.

The same holds true for any club, organization, or league. Part of the process of growing up is searching, experimenting, and learning. Parental support encourages this, parental pampering shuts this off as effectively as damming a stream.

Each club, league, or organization is an individualistic school of learning. That is, each of the previously mentioned offers something different in view of developing our habits, ideas, and mannerisms.

United, they all offer an opportunity to develop character, a chance to learn honesty, and thoroughness, and co-operation, and to achieve largely through one's personal efforts. It is these opportunities that can enable your sons or daughters to develop their minds, to become useful citizens as they form habits that develop "healthy" living.

Thus, if you are a parent, encourage, praise and assist your child in any worthwhile club, organization, or league, then you are to be heartily commended. If not, remember, it is your turn as parents, to see to the education and the development of this country's future citizens — and now is the time to fulfill your task.

the tonsel, saying that it was a pleasure to represent Tofield on the School Committee. He spoke of the frustrations caused by government regulations when building programs were necessary; he expressed appreciation of the help given by K. R. Eastlick and M. S. Bruce in securing the addition to the Tofield school.

Mr Wilkie said that he was proud of the teachers, the students, the bus drivers, and the custodial staff of the Tofield school. He foresaw a fine future for the graduates and for Canada as these students took their places in society.

Dr. Walter Buck, MLA, thanked the students for their invitation to the banquet. He said that in the game of education, the students were the quarterbacks; the teachers the linemen; and the parents, general managers.

Following the banquet, the graduation exercises, open to the public, began with the prerecorded in the music played by Ruth Quiring, as the graduates took their places on the stage. The invocation was given by Dick Thiessen, and in harmony with the theme, Mrs. Melita Wall sang "Try to Remember."

The salutatory address was given by Eileen Fairbrother who, comparing school life to a stage production, said that while the curtain was going down on one phase of the grads' lives it was going up on the large stage of adult life.

On behalf of the School Committee of the County of Beaver, Charles Sears presented the Tofield School with a picture by A. Y. Jackson, the only living member of the Canadian Group of Seven. This picture, Moon River Falls, will be hung in the library of the Tofield School in remembrance of the graduating class of '73.

Lois Koop, the student with the highest average, gave the valedictorian address. Lois recalled the initial anxiety of every grade one student on taking the first step to quiescence on entering school, the adjustments necessary as junior high school and then senior high school became part of the students' lives. She reminded the class of all the work and fun, of all the achievements and disappointments they had shared; she felt that life would be richer for these shared experiences. The demands of school life had been met; now a new and larger challenge was being offered and accepted.

On behalf of the Beaver Isreal of the ATA, Mrs. Florence Ingram, president of the Tofield sub-local, presented Lois with the annual award given by the Beaver Local to the student with the highest standing in each of the four high schools in the county. She congratulated Lois and wished her continuing success.

Harold Ferguson, principal of Kinsella School and a former Tofielder, was the guest speaker. His theme was taken from "The Salutation of the Dawn", a poem which has come down to us from the ancient Sanskrit language of India. He stressed the importance of the words "Look to this day! For it is life, the very life of life. In its brief course lie all the verities and realities of our existence." He urged the students to love learning for learning's sake, to conquer each hour that they may conquer life

In his remarks, Mr. Eastlick, principal of the Tofield School, recalled the many events good or bad, happy or sad, successful or disappointing, have formed the background which will always be part of the students' lives, and which will guide them in the future. Mr. Eastlick congratulated the students and wished them every success in the future as he presented the diplomas, assisted by Linda Eastlick. At the same time, David Schultz presented each graduate with the Tofield High School pin. The evening closed with "God Save The Queen" played by Ruth Quiring.

The graduating class of 1973 is composed of:

Alice Baerg, Robert Christenson; Karen Dafoe; Alvin Dueck; Eileen Fairbrother; Lois Ferguson; Larry Hardy; Grace Heiberg; Lowell Hostetler; Brenda Huebert; Douglas Jones; Edward Kallal; Ronald Kallal; Lois Koop; Carl Mazur; Linda McLeod; Lorna McMann; Ken Nachtigall; Debbie Neufeld; James Osmen; JoAnne Riediger; Linda Rude; Sharon Rudnicki; Robert Schacher; Irene Schmidt; Betty Ann Scott; Louise Shewchuk; Ken Thelasen; Linda Tiedemann.

Special program opens in elementary reading

The School Committe of the County of Beaver had implemented a special program in its schools designed to up-grade the reading skills of those elementary pupils who are having difficulties in learning to read adequately.

This program, designed to upgrade elementary education, is being provided under provision of the Educational Opportunities Fund of the Department of Education. It is a three year program funded at twenty dollars per year for each elementary pupil earned in school. The School Committee of the County of Beaver will contribute approximately the same amount of funds to the program for each of the three years.

The equivalent of three full-time teachers known as skills-deficiency teachers, will instruct pupils on an individual and a small group basis. It is planned that after extensive diagnosis of each pupil's special weaknesses, that a learning program will be developed that will attempt to up-grade the pupil's level of reading. These teachers will instruct these pupils during the school day in special rooms using a large variety of learning materials and many varied teaching methods. The regular homeroom teacher and skills-deficiency teacher will work cooperatively so that they each will reinforce with the pupil what each is doing independently.

It is planned that parents of these pupils will be consulted with frequently to gain insights into the youngster's problems, to discover probable ways of attacking the problems, and to solicit their support and encouragement for the efforts that the pupils will be making.

Teachers assigned to this program are Mrs. Patricia Andrushow at Viking and Kinsella Schools, Mrs. Elsie Miciak at Breton School, Mr. Keith Robson at Holden School, Mrs. Harriett Reddy at Ryley School, and Mr. William Taylor at Tofield School. Mr. Keith Robson, Supervisor of Instruction, has been assigned as Project Coordinator by the School Committee.

THOUGHT: "If you stand for nothing, you will fall for everything".

Meet Dale Hrechuk ...he's proud.

Dale's an Albertan. That means that he's a part of a colourful tapestry of history one hundred years old. There are all sorts of colours in that tapestry, but next year two are going to stand out . . . scarlet and gold. These are the colours traditionally associated with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and just as Dale is doing now, they grew as a force here in Alberta. Next year, we're going to celebrate the anniversary of their arrival here and our start as a province. So make it your anniversary, too. Make it your reason to say "I'm proud". As proud as Dale Hrechuk . . . and everyone else who boasts of being an Albertan.

From our proud past, the promise of our future.

World demand for meat increases

World demand for meat has increased steadily during the past two decades. The growth of meat production has not kept pace with consumption in most of the developed countries, with the result that the volume of international trade in meat has more than doubled in the last 10 years and now accounts for about 6 per cent of world supplies.

Recent studies by F.A.O. indicate world demand for beef and veal, mutton and lamb, pork and poultry, will grow from 88 million tons in 1970 to 131 million tons in 1985. In North America and Western Europe, the demand for beef and veal will continue to predominate, while in the U.S.S.R., Eastern Europe, China and Japan, the demand for pig meat is expected to remain high.

BE WARE OF CON MEN WHEN SELLING HAY

When selling hay to somebody you do not know ask for cash or a certified cheque and be cautious any stories regarding government subsidies or assistance with which you are not familiar, advises C.C. Robinson, district agriculturist at Ponoka.

Mr. Robinson recommends the above procedure because of an experience that occured recently in the Rimbey district in this case a "con" man misled a number of farmers into thinking that the government would subsidize them for selling their hay cheaply. He apparently planned to buy hay at a low price and then to sell it at a good profit in southern Alberta, where the shortage has created an ideal opportunity for this type of unethical practice. It appears that the cheques he used to pay for the hay were "a bit rubbery."

But what if it's in the water?

"Find a need and then fill it" is the classic marketing technique on which many successful businesses have been founded. Now applying the technique is a Scottish company responding to the cry for help from irate golfers who spend most of their time on the course searching for golf balls lost in the rough. It's simple: The Blowpor electronic golf ball. The Blowpor, now being introduced to Canada by Tracom Systems, Toronto, is a standard golfball with a tiny transmitter in its centre. When the Blowpor disappears into the rough, the golfer follows it, turns on a receiver, and sweeps the area of rough like a waterdiviner until he picks up a bleep. Where the bleeps are loudest, that's where the ball is. Perhaps the real success of the system lies in the fact it costs about $25 a set. With that kind of money, losing in the rough, no one will leave until he finds his ball.

Drifting poison Hundreds of residents of the New Norway - Duhamel - Gwynne area were evacuated from their homes on Tuesday as a cloud of poisonous sulphur dioxide gas rolled across the countryside, from an oil well which sprung a leak during rehabilitation work, under Sun Oil. The entire Camrose area was put on an alert, and emergency plans were made by thousands as they waited for the leak to be repaired. - Mercury Staff Newsphoto.

Gary MacDonald named as curling club prexy

At the Annual Meeting of the Tofield Curling Club Gary MacDonald was elected president for the 1973-74 season.

Don McKennan accepted the position of vice-president. Re-elected as treasurer and secretary were Walter Neufield and Marvin Bruce respectively.

The meeting appointed Keith Williams, William Taylor, John Thiessen and Ronald Smith as directors for three-year terms. Mrs. Rita Halverson was appointed for a two-year term.

The treasurer's report showed total revenue of $6863.48 and total expenditures of $5,926.07 leaving a surplus on operations of $260.51. During the year, the outstanding loans were reduced by $1300. A donation of $500 from the Ladies Curling Club to be applied toward the loan was gratefully acknowledged. At present $11,200 remains to be paid on the original loans.

Plans were made to begin the 1973-74 curling season with a "Friendship Spiel" on Monday, October 29th. The bonspiel would be curled during evenings. Entry fee would be ten dollars per rink for a guaranteed three eight-end games. Family rinks were to be encouraged to enter.

It was also agreed that the Fourth Annual Tofield Satellite Cash Spiel would be held during November 9-12. This has been a major spiel limited to 32 rinks at an entry fee of $50 per rink. A total of $1,400 prize money will be awarded with the first place team getting $600.00.

Regular curling will be organized on a league basis. Men's, Mixed and Organizations leagues will be organized. The Ladies Curling Club will organize an evening league. In addition, the Farmer's League will curl on two afternoons per week. In order to stimulate interest and competition, it was agreed that trophies would be awarded to the champions of each league.

In expressing his appreciation to the out-going executive, newly elected president, Gary MacDonald, asked for the continued support of the membership in making 73-74 a banner year for curling in Tofield.

Poison gas scare ends as old oil well blows

A poison gas scare in the New Norway-Camrose area ended late Wednesday afternoon when officials of Sun Oil managed to seal the oil well from which the gas was escaping.

The well, inactive for a number of years, was being reactivated on Tuesday afternoon when it "blew". People in a ten mile radius around the well, located about eight miles west and four miles north of Ferintosh were evacuated and, later, residents of New Norway and Gwynne were evacuated to either Wetaskiwin or Camrose.

The gas, containing deadly hydrogen sulphide drifted towards Camrose during the early part of the night, sparking the E.M.O. to order into action as the possibility loomed that the city might have to be evacuated. Some centers north and east of the city were reported to have been able to smell the escaping gas.

However, a shift in the wind avoided evacuation of the city, although the villages of Edberg and Ferintosh were in constant danger throughout the night as the gas passed directly over both communities. RCMP, from various Central Alberta centres toured the area constantly monitering the gas in the air and were fully prepared to evacuate both communities if it became necessary.

Sun Oil moved men and equipment to the well site early Wednesday morning and were able to bring the well under control early in the afternoon and, late in the afternoon, stopped all gas from escaping.

Many residents of Camrose took no chance on a wind shift and spent the night in Tofield, Kingman, Minnick, Ryley, Holden and Viking while a few went up to Edmonton to visit relatives until the danger was over.

Man charged with robbery

A Manitoba man has been remanded to Alberta Hospital for a psychiatric examination after being charged in last week's $15,000 mail truck robbery.

Michael John Tokar, 33, will again appear in court on October 15th in connection with the hold up after an appearance before Provincial Judge John Coughlan in Edmonton.

The man had to be helped into court by two police officers because of his weak condition, and instead of standing before the court, was allowed to sit on a chair.

The hold up is reported to have taken place last week at Bruce when a masked man using a sawed off .22 rifle tied up the mail truck driver and then took the driver and truck to Two Hills before abandoning the vehicle. The driver then worked his way free and called RCMP.

Community League has profit on sports day

(by Grace Phillips)

The Tofield Annual July 1 Sports Day was the most successful financially, as Hans Christensen reported at the regular October meeting of the Tofield Community League held last Tuesday with president Bob Moos in the chair.

The total profit was $2,117; each of the eleven participating organizations received $192.13.

It was reported that the supplies of dishes and cutlery in the Community Centre kitchen are again badly depleted. It was only two years ago that the supply of dishes and cutlery were brought up to enough to serve two hundred people.

Mrs. Bill Davison has agreed to make an accurate check on the number of place settings remaining and will report to the next League meeting at which time appropriate action will be discussed.

A cash bingo was decided on for October 17 with arrangements being made by H. E. Christensen and J. C. Lampitt.

Winners of the Tofield Community League's 106club draws for 1973 up until present are:

1. Anna Kingerud
2. Mrs. Carlson and Mrs. Soetart
3. Red Adair
4. Robert Moos
5. Mrs. Hosler
6. Bryce Astley

The next draw will be made on Friday, October 5th.

'SAY ... THAT REMINDS ME. .. DOES THIS MODEL HAVE ENERGY ABSORBING BUMPERS?'

A real Thanksgiving

Thanksgiving seems to have degenerated somewhat from the holy day set aside by the Pilgrim Fathers to thank the Almighty for their safe passage across the ocean, deliverance from the Indians, and bountiful crops. Generally these days it has come to mean the last week-end fling for the family before the onset of deep winter, possibly the gathering of family members who have moved to other areas, and for some of us, a church decorated with the fruits of the harvest fields and gardens.

How much more it really should mean to us in this country, who are so outstandingly affluent in terms of this world's good things. Poverty is not unknown among us, of course, not by any means, and this is to be deplored, as well as to be relieved wherever possible. But in the main, poverty is a relative thing. For instance, we find it hard to accept the new "poverty level" established in the industrial areas of Ontario at somewhere around seven thousand dollars a year, because we know there are a number of families in this area living on a great deal less than this level of income, and while they would love to have more, many of them don't even consider themselves poverty-stricken. More than this, just consider how much better off are these families than most of the world's poor.

The weather isn't all we'd like it to be these past few weeks, but the season has been pretty good overall, and gave most farmers a chance to get the bulk, if by no means all, of their crops in, and those crops tended to be above average. Tie that to the improved outlook for agricultural prices at all levels, some of the other indicators pointing to a slight brightening of the economic front generally, and you come up with a fairly bright picture for the long run in this part of the country.

There are so many things in this country that we really should be thankful for it's hard not to be able to take time, or the trouble, to think about them from time to time, especially at Thanksgiving. But then, it's so easy to take for granted the things we have, and to dwell on the shortcomings, the things we don't have to wish for, that we tend to lose sight of the more important things in life.

Farm credit soars

We're indebted to Battle River Member of Parliament Harry Kuntz for a report tabled a little while ago in the House of Commons which indicates a dramatic increase in farm mortgage lending during the 1972 fiscal year, as compared with the year before. Increased lending, both in dollars and in loans approved, featured the report.

Dollar-wise, business jumped a dramatic 62.3 percent, from less than $115,000,000 to more than $186,000,000, while the number of loans approved jumped by nearly a third.

Net farm income was one of the major factors accountable for the major increase in loan demand, reported the corporation, indicating that net farm income had increased 13 percent during the same period. The same factor is responsible for more of the loans being in good condition.

Interestingly enough, the corporation expected the same sort of performance to be recorded at least during the early months of 1973, largely as a result of the same high income levels of the year before. It will be interesting to see how this works out by year end.

NDP is strife stricken

By Peter Ward

OTTAWA —One of the political consequences of the events in Canada during late summer and early fall has been a growing danger to the New Democratic Party.

More and more obvious has become the enmity between the New Democrats and the Conservatives; more and more patent the NDP-Liberal alliance. For the first few months of this minority Trudeau government, NDP claims that the government was being pushed into enlightened legislative measures by socialist pressure could be sold to grass roots supporters easily.

Even in late summer, pundits were writing witty pieces about David Lewis calling the government tune. But now the NDP has become so firmly identified with the Liberal cause - and the desires to avoid an election - that rumbles of discontent are being heard within the party caucus.

The fact is that the New Democrats are badly split several ways. Lewis is still not pleased about how the caucus pulled his threatening fangs before parliament's recall in late August. Further divisions exist between rural NDPers and the new urban breed, because each sees his or her own proposals as the true way to social justice, the method depending largely upon the constituents represented.

Such divisions are not new, but today they are amplified by the varying degrees of desire to avoid an election. The consensus which has emerged - to continue support of the Trudeau government in crunch votes no matter what - has badly narrowed the NDP's path of political identity, merging them in many minds with the Liberals.

Circumstances and human nature are not the only factors which have brought this about. It's been Tory strategy. Robert Stanfield makes no secret of the fact that he aims at tying the Liberals and the NDP firmly together in the nation's mind, so that when the next election comes, the undecided vote will not split between Tory and NDP candidates, but swing in bulk to the Tory camp.

Some Ottawa observers are now saying it's time the Tories switched their tactics, and instead of continuing to tie the NDP to the Liberals, begin blaming the Liberals for taking a socialist path for reasons of political expediency.

Whether the charge is true or not, it certainly makes a sound political argument.

"LETTER TO TOFIELD"

Tofield, Alberta
October 2, 1973

Dear Sir,

Small town with small minded people! My, how nice to sit back and whine about improving and expanding our little town.

But, first thing, remember, put both feet in the middle of all constructive action. Any new families moving in don't make them welcome, squeeze them, maybe they'll move back to the city! The families that stick it out [illegible] about the money they spend in Edmonton and not in our town. Just because our town doesn't have late night shopping so who said anything about [illegible]

I know if they spend that money at your place they can do it at your time and pleasure. Right? So what if they work all week and only have Saturday and Sunday to shop and get work done? That is not your problem [illegible] You deserve your time off.

And you, the shoppers, don't support your own stores in town that are trying to serve you, that item is 50c cheaper in the city. (Just because they have to pay extra shipping fees.) So, that isn't your problem, now is it? Besides it is only 80 miles roundtrip to the city and that takes gas and, of course, your time, but that isn't worth anything, now is it? besides, you are going to save 50c.

Have you taken a good look at your kids lately? We have some good kids in our town but do we support them in anyway? Don't be silly!

Why not help them have [illegible] dances or support them with a teen club? They would have something to do and a place to be. But no, don't help them, sit back and complain about the drinking and fast driving.

When Tofield becomes smaller instead of larger and when a couple of carloads of our kids are killed on the highway, what then Tofield? Hey, what then?"

Barging through year 'round

[illegible] Quebec to Lake [illegible] to break open the [illegible] ships to pass through. Each [illegible] would be made up of a [illegible] of square logs [illegible] half the length of a telephone pole, fastened end to end about two feet apart by a steel cable across the channel, and floating on the river surface to stabilize ice flow. The centre section of each boom would act as a gate which could be opened by barge to allow a ship to pass through, then closed again to seal off the open water from ice flow.

Two barges, equipped with powerful motorized winches and solidly anchored in place, would be situated on either side of the gate to open and close it as needed. When a ship wanted to pass through the opening barge would swing the gate section of the boom open by the chain attached, the ship would pass through the opening, then the closing barge would use its winch to pull the boom back in place by an underwater chain. - 30

Race to the bottom

The latest "sport" at Camrose Lutheran College was initiated last Friday when the CLC Ice Cream Team raced to set a record for eating the Big Scoop Sundae Palace's Gourmet Extravaganza. Team captain Roger Fritz, seated right, and Doug Roszmann, seated left, had been in training for the previous three days, and devoured the giant sundae in 25 minutes and two seconds. Coaches Ron, extreme left, and Don Zimmer, right, stand by the give a helping hand, with referee Janet Braum, centre, and a panel of six judges overseeing to keep things fair. CLC hopes to challenge other colleges and high schools in the future.

UPHOLSTERY WORKSHOP

I am tentatively planning to have two upholstery workshops after January 1974 - one in the County of Minburn and one in the County of Beaver. The exact location of the course will depend on where the most interest is - and facilities available.

There will be a meeting two weeks to a month prior to the workshop.

The participants must come to the pre-planning meeting with a $5.00 fee plus a snap shot of the item that they plan to reupholster so the material selection and quality can be determined. For those that can't come with the prerequisites, they are out because they will be behind on the first day of the workshop using up valuable time in being reinstructed.

The length of the course will be determined by the upholsterer depending on the type of items to be reupholstered and the number of people.

Ag Development Corporation accepting loan applicants

The Agricultural Development Corporation is now accepting applications for loans at their new headquarters in Camrose.

Applications for loans were temporarily suspended at the beginning of July until pending applications were processed. The backlog was caused, says the chairman, Lorne Ordze, by the large number of applications and by the delay in obtaining legal documentation of them.

Mr. Ordze recommends that farmers interested in the $50,000 Guaranteed Loan Program apply directly to the lender of his choice. The loan will be guaranteed to a maximum of $50,000 at one per cent above prime for a maximum of 10 years, except in the case of machinery and equipment.

The loan can be used for purchasing land, constructing and repairing buildings, making permanent improvements, purchasing machinery and implements, purchasing livestock, and for operating capital.

It is available to primary producers of agricultural products who farm or intend to farm, and who obtain the approval of the lender. For further information on this program contact your nearest bank.

The Agricultural Development Corporation is located at 4910 - 52 Street, Camrose (the former John Russell School). The phone number is 672-3346.

Plans are completed for natural gas line

Plans for the construction of a natural gas line system to serve the Ankerton Natural Gas Co-op have been completed and only need government approval before actual construction of the system gets underway.

Palmer Engineering of Edmonton notified directors of the gas co-op yesterday (Tuesday) that the plans were complete and would be turned over to the Provincial Government for approval, which is expected to take about a week.

Directors of the Ankerton Natural Gas Co-op are meeting tonight (Wednesday) with representatives from Palmer Engineering and are expected to give their approval to the proposed construction.

Should the plan meet with the approval of the directors and the government, actual construction of the gas system is expected to get underway towards the end of next week or early in the following week.

The deadline for signing contracts to hook up to the gas system was Sunday, and while an actual count wasn't available, directors feel that over 600 urban and rural customers have signed contracts.

It was not known where actual construction would commence, although this information was expected to be revealed at tonight's meeting. It had earlier been decided that the area with the heaviest density of contracts would be the first to be served by the system.

Snow mold prevention

If snow mold has been a problem on your lawn, you can help to prevent it next spring by applying a mercurial fungicide in October and by removing heavy concentrations of snow prior to the spring thaw.

Dr. Jack Horricks, plant pathologist with the Alberta Department of Agriculture, says a typical sign of snow mold is a mass of whitish-grey cobweb-like material which is seen on the turf as the snow melts. It is caused by four different fungi that kill the turf in irregular patches and thrive at low temperatures. Three of the fungi kill the turf during late winter and early spring, while the fourth can also kill it in the fall.

Dr. Horricks recommends the following fungicides for fall application. The rates of application given are for 1,000 square feet of turf. Calocior (mercuric and mercurous chloride) 73 per cent powder - five ounces. Terraclor (pentachloro nitrobenzene) - five ounces. Tersan SP (chloroneb) - nine ounces. Vitaflo - 10 ounces.

If you have not yet planted your lawn, use resistant grass varieties like Sydport, Newport, Nugget or Kentucky bluegrass. These varieties are also recommended for golf fairways Bardot and Bore Colonial bent-grasses and Northland creeping bent grass are recommended for golf and bowling greens.

The Yukon Territory includes 207,076 square miles, most of which is still virgin wilderness. Named for the famed Yukon River, the Territory is federally administered from Ottawa and has a population of about [illegible] of plus 3.1 degrees; lowest recorded, minus 81.6 degrees, was in January, 1947. Mean summer temperature is 54.7 degrees; highest recorded temperature was 94 degrees in June 1969.

Canada's highest peak, Mt. Logan (19,850 feet), is located in the St. Elias Range of the Yukon Territory. It was named after Sir William Edmond Logan (1798-1875), founder and for many years Director of the Geological Survey of Canada.

The Yukon Territory is named after the Indian name for the river "Yukon". This Indian name means 'greatest river' as does the Eskimo name 'Kweek Pak'.

In the spring of 1898 more than 1500 men and 3,000 horses set out for the Klondike in the Yukon Territory in their search for gold from Ashcroft in southern British Columbia. Only six men and none of the horses reached the gold fields.

MANPOWER AND LABOUR

Cold work

White some men manned radios and others rode in patrol cars, still other members of the RCMP had to stand out on the highways in below 40 deg. weather on Tuesday night and early Wednesday morning as they prevented people from entering the danger zone caused by the escaping gas from the oil well, west of New Norway. Constable Rick Smiyski of the Camrose Detachment had the cold duty at the junctions of Highways 13 and 21.

Bees do it

You've probably noticed that domestic prices for honey have shot up in the last year. Retail prices collected by Statistics Canada for the Consumer Price Index show that Canada No. 1 white honey increased by 24.4 per cent from July 1971 to July 1972. Prices surveyed in Toronto last July for the 1-pound size ranged from 89 cents to $1.15.

Here's what happened: The domestic price rise coincided with sharp increases in foreign demands for our honey. The Japanese, it seems, have really caught on to honey. In 1970 we exported 10 million pounds; a year later we sold 34 million pounds of honey abroad. Most of it went to Japan. This occurred at a time when deficiencies in the supply of honey were noted elsewhere in the world.

At the time these factors existed, our own consumption increased, because of the increased use of honey as a health food. So competition increased between domestic suppliers and exporters or Canadian stocks. Producers too are increasingly exporting direct and their average price per pound or white honey packed in large drums increased in the last year from about 13 cents to 38 cents, where it has started to level off.

Retailers are free to raise prices without restraint if they consider that their costs have risen sufficiently to warrant the increase. Consumers are naturally annoyed at these price increases as it places an additional strain on the family budget. Consumers is to shop wisely for less expensive products and to take advantage of weekly price specials.

Give Your Heating System a Safety Check-up
Normally, your natural gas appliances and heating system operate with little care or maintenance. However, an annual check-up will ensure full efficient operation and complete comfort. To help you inspect your heating system, use this handy guide.
CHECK YOUR CHIMNEY: Loose mortar, soot, and other debris may accumulate at the base of the chimney obstructing free passage of the products of combustion. Watch that ice and snow on top of the chimney do not cause blockage RANGES SHOULD NOT BE USED TO HEAT A ROOM: Do not use your kitchen range to heat a room. Use a proper heater designed for the purpose.
CHECK ALL VENT PIPES: Examine an appliance vent pipes. A dislodged vent may block the end of the pipe, or permit exhaust to enter the room
BE ALERT TO DANGER SIGNALS: Smarting of the eyes, nose irritation and unpleasant odors are indications of fumes in your home.
FRESH AIR SOURCE: Be sure there is a source of fresh air in your home. Do not keep your house "air-tight". Your gas appliances, like you, need air.
DIRTY FURNACE FILTERS WILL ROB YOUR HOME OF HEAT THIS WINTER
Now's the time to check filters on your natural gas furnace. Filters that are clogged with dust and dirt cause heat loss, and can cause damage to your furnace. Furnace filters should be replaced or cleaned at least twice a year.

Reduce pension age for teachers

Rylaws enabling teachers to retire on full pension at age 55 are now being phased in.

This year, a teacher who retires at age 55 or more with an age plus service index of 90 will receive a pension without reduction for age. This could be a teacher who is 50 years old and has had 35 years of service

By 1975 a teacher retiring at age 55 with 25 years of service will receive a maximum pension. This would be an index number of 80. Just three years ago this index number was 100.

According to Education Minister Lou Hyndman, one important benefit of the new bylaw amendments under the teachers retirement fund act, is that a teacher with 10 years or more service, is now eligible for an immediate pension if he or she retires on or after his 55th birthday.

Teachers retiring before age 55 will now be eligible for a deferred pension beginning age 65, providing he or she has had 10 years of service and has left his pension contributions in the fund.

The new bylaw amendments also free teachers to claim as pensionable service, portions of their time which have been devoted to Department of Education, Alberta Teachers Association or Canadian Teachers Federation Work.

Mr Hyndman does not expect that the new regulations will mean a mass exodus of teachers at age 55. "People who enjoy their work are always reluctant to retire, and the pressure of our inflationary economy will tend to keep teachers in their classroom well past the early retirement age," Mr. Hyndman believes.

CWL answers queries about Marian Centre

The Tofield CWL has sponsored spring and fall drives for donations of food and clothing for the Marian Centre in Edmonton for several years. We have had numerous enquiries about the functions of the Marion Centre. This will give the readers an idea of a few of them.

The Marian Centre is primarily dedicated to year round service to men in need. These men are usually unemployed or under-employed. The Centre provides one meal a day for anywhere from 200 men, during the summer and early fall, to 600 during the winter and early spring. Men's clothing is always scarce. The most needed articles are outdoor work clothes — windbreaker jackets, parkas, mitts, and gloves, heavy socks, underwear, heavy shirts and work pants. Many of the men rent housekeeping rooms and therefore need bedding, cooking utensils, furniture, etc.

The Centre has recently been renovated and provides a limited recreation program. The men and staff have organized a co-operative employment service which has aided many in finding part-time work and some full-time employment. The telephone number of this service is 424-1695. There are several meeting rooms used by such groups as Alcoholics Anonymous, etc. A handicraft area has been enlarged and classes for the fall and winter are now being organized. Many of the crafts made here are sold in the gift shop to help support other missions.

Women's and children's clothes are either sold at a nominal cost or given to needy families.

The fall drive for this worthwhile endeavor is being held until October 10. Donations may be left at Stan Voltner's garage.

Native son to native son

Past president of the Battle River Tourism Association, Bill Fowler, right, congratulated Dennis Pedersen on his election to the presidency at last Friday's annual meeting. Both are natives of Camrose, although Mr. Pedersen now represents Wetaskiwin. Watching intently at left is Mrs. George MacDonald of Edmonton, while Lieutenant Governor Dr. J. W. Grant MacEwan, who was guest speaker for the occasion, also follows the proceedings closely.

"Self Help" program is run by Mennonites

For those who are not familiar with "Self Help", it is a program run by the Mennonite Central Committee.

The purpose of Self Help is to help needy people help themselves. It is good to give clothing, food, shelter, but it is even better to help them support themselves.

At the moment we are helping needy people in Kenya, India, Israel, Haiti, Tiawan, Thailand, Bolivia and also in parts of Appalachia region in the U.S. and our own native Indian people in Canada.

In India, Self Help gives employment to refugee or displaced persons. Their work is embroidered articles. Another group of people who are disabled are trying to make a livelihood by doing leather crafts.

In Haiti the mother is often the sole supporter of herself and family. The MCC staff in charge visits the homes of the workers which gives them an extra opportunity to get to know the people.

Articles made in the middle East by refugee women are also distributed by the MCC Self Help includes jewellery, olivewood, needlework, candleholders, camels, etc

In Tiawan, plastic bags are woven by handicapped children and widowed mothers who are the sole support of large families. Many people carve wooden figures as a side-home industry along with farming.

In Thailand, we give help to a resettlement program that is sponsored by the Church of Christ.

Through the trading post in Saskatchewan, we sell items made by native Indians.

On October 20th, at 2 p.m., we are fortunate to have a display and sale of some of these home crafted articles in the lobby of the community hall. Coffee and cookies will be served free of charge and a representative will be there to answer any questions you may ask. All proceeds go directly to further this work.

Winter activities are getting well organized

A hockey referees' clinic, sponsored by the Regional Recreation Department, is set for November 3rd and 4th in Tofield, beginning at 9 a.m on Saturday. This clinic will have an examination at the conclusion and certificates will be given to successful participants.

Those candidates attending the clinic and receiving a certificate, will be subsidized $3.00 per game that they referee in the county. It is hoped that possible referees from within the County of Beaver will be interested in this, so that the quality and quantity of referees can be increased.

A minimum of 15 candidates must register or the clinic will be cancelled. Registration deadline is Friday, October 26th, 1973 Send $2 registration fee to Regional Recreation Office, Box 5, Ryley, Alta.

ART CLASSES

Art classes will be offered by the Beaver Regional Recreation Department beginning in Tofield Monday, Nov. 12, and in Viking Tuesday, Nov. 13. Classes will be three hours long, beginning at 7:00 p.m. and will continue for a duration of ten weeks.

Mrs. Maria Yaciuk, a teacher for the Department of Extension of the University, who has recently moved into the Tofield area, has consented to teach this class. For those who wish to pursue art, this class is a Department of Extension certificate program, involving Drawing I or Composition and Design I.

The registration fee is $20. The registration deadline is Wednesday, Nov. 7th. A minimum of 15 must register by November 7th, or classes will be cancelled. Send registrations, with name, address and phone number, along with registration fee to Box 5, Ryley. Make cheques or money orders payable to Beaver Regional Recreation Department.

RINGETTE

There is a new exciting winter team sport for girls, "Ringette". Do girls in the County of Beaver need an active winter-time sport? What is ringette? Ringette is a new exciting sport for girls, played on ice. Ringette is played by many communities in Ontario, involving some 5,000 girls in over 40 communities.

Ringette can be played in any arena or outdoor ice surface. It is a team sport with 11 to 15 girls on a team, with six on the ice at a time. Two forwards, one centre, two defencement and a goalie constitute a team, and the object of the game is to simply score more goals than the other team.

A straight stick (cut off hockey stick) is used to pass, carry and shoot the ring (deck-tennis ring).

There can be no body contact of any kind, and all the rules are designed with the safety of the participants in mind. The girls wear skates, must wear a helmet, should wear heavy gloves, slacks and a warm sweater. No other equipment is necessary.

In order for the game to be fast-moving and wide open, the forwards cannot enter their own defensive zone, and defencemen cannot enter their own offensive zone. The centre can go anywhere.

Offside rules differ greatly from hockey, in that a player cannot skate across either blue line while in possession of the ring. She must pass the ring to a teammate across each blue line.

Well, girls, there is a general outline of the game. Does it sound fun and exciting? If you think so, get in touch with your local recreation board or the Regional Recreation Office at Box 5, Ryley or by phoning 663-3730. If there is enough interest, perhaps a league could be set up.

WATCH OUT

FOR FISHH HOOKS

Nelson Shorrock of Dryden, Ontario, claims to have overcome the problems of fish hooks which, when not in use, present a danger to the fisherman and often become entangled in other gear. He has devised an original two part float or bobber which can also be used as a book guard when desired. The invention is covered by Canadian Patent No. 923,702, issued on April 3, 1973.

The Empty Desk

It's October. Hunting season. Ducks and geese are flocking in fields of golden grain. It's October and there's an empty desk in my classroom this morning. Empty because a boy went hunting yesterday and did not know the rules of hunting safety.

Does your son know them? Do his friends? Or will there be more empty desks in other classrooms this fall?

You protect him by making sure that he does know that every gun must be treated with the respect due a loaded weapon. He must never take it for granted that a gun is empty, because that attitude invites accidents.

He must be taught that he must never point his gun at anything he does not want to shoot. Guns are not toys and must not be used for horseplay.

Your son must never carry a loaded gun unless the safety catch is on. Even then, he must not climb a tree, cross a fence, or jump a ditch with a loaded gun. The safety catch could get caught on something, clicking it off and making the gun a lethal weapon.

Does he check the barrel of his gun to see that it is clear of obstructions before he uses it? A plugged barrel or improper ammunition can cause a gun to explode, killing the user.

Teach your son to be sure of his target before he pulls the trigger. Shooting at something because it moves can mean death to a person or a pet.

Make sure that your son knows that a bullet shot at a hard, flat surface or a body of water can ricochet and kill some one else.

Warn him that alcohol and guns are a deadly combination. He must never drink and hunt.

Remind him that his gun must be unloaded when not in use, whether he stores it in his car, his camp or his house. Then no one can accidently bump the trigger and lose his life.

When he brings the gun home, make sure he stores the weapon and the ammunition separately and puts them out of reach of smaller children.

If your son knows and practises these rules, he can hunt in safety. No teacher will have to face his empty desk in her class room.

It takes a woman

For years responsible citizens have been urging that something should be done to crack down on the drinking drivers, and for years, seemingly not much has been done except dismiss it with a shrug and say nothing can be done.

But only days after her appointment as Solicitor General for Alberta, Hon. Helen Hunley is "doing something about it", and has launched a program aimed at spotting and dissuading more drivers who may be under the influence BEFORE they get into serious trouble, or BEFORE they maim or kill someone else.

A program of spot checking cars throughout the province, with as many as 120 spotcheck units, is being instituted, and drivers can expect to see the spot check sign just about anywhere in the province. Many people feel a little queasy about the business of forecasting the number of people who will be killed over a particular holiday weekend, or during a full year, as if the forecast were putting some sort of "hex" on people. But when you accept police estimates that liquor is involved in fully fifty percent of accidents, and when you realize that elimination of liquor-caused accidents next year would save 300 dead and about 7,500 injured, many of them miamed for life, you realizes this means saving the equivalent of one whole community just a little smaller than Camrose.

It'll take a little time to stop for the check, and we may grumble about the delay a bit, but we'll bet that most of the drivers on the road, and more especially their families, will really welcome the move. It's doing something really constructive to head off trouble.

A lesser benefit will undoubtedly accrue from all the other information police will turn up, such as stolen vehicles, lack of driver's license, suspicious behavior, possession of stolen goods, and the host of things police say turn up in every such sweep.

In fairness to Attorney General Merv Leitch, Miss Hunley has probably not been in office long enough to have worked this out all herself, but appearances tend to indicate that it took the woman's touch.

$1,400,000 cost tag set for gas system

Directors of the Ankerton Natural Gas Co-op approved plans for the construction of a natural gas system costing $1,100,000 at a meeting in Bawlf on Wednesday evening.

The plans were to be submitted to the Provincial Government today (Wednesday) by representatives of Palmer Engineering of Edmonton who drafted the plans for installation of the system. Government approval of the plans was expected to be forthcoming within a week.

Should the government approve the plan, Palmer Engineering will seek bids from constructing firms for the installation of the system. Directors of the cooperative were hopeful that actual digging for the gas lines would get underway during the next two weeks.

Palmer Engineering have estimated that total construction cost of the natural gas system will be $1,400,000. Of this amount [illegible]ovincial government gran[illegible] will pay for approximately [illegible]00,000. The balance needed will come from Co-op members' payments and bank [illegible]rrowing with the money b[illegible]wed being backed by the provincial government.

LAKE DEMAY STA'

It was recommended by Palmer Engineering that actual construction of the gas system be started south of Round Hill in the Lake Demay area as this region has the heaviest density of signed contracts. This area would extend south to the Correction Line from which it would then go both east and west.

The second area recommended for service would be immediately north of the first region while Bawlf and surrounding area is third on the list. The actual amount of construction to take place in 1973 will depend solely on the weather.

Although the aforementioned were the areas recommended for construction by the engineers, directors of the co-op will meet prior to the start of construction to determine which areas will receive priority.

YOU GOTTA LEARN

TO TALK PROPER

Our language is in for some big changes during the next 30 to 40 years. It could mean anything from changing your accent to learning an entirely new language all in the cause of better communication. Among the agents of change already at work, are international travel and communications, pop vocabularies, public practices, watered down accents and technological jargon. The result may not be a hybrid, but it could increase pressure for a single international language or for diglossia - - one language for the boardroom and another for the backyard. If you think this sounds somewhat futuristic, you're wrong. German-speaking Swiss already practice diglossia.

Pedersen elected by tourism zone

A native of Camrose, now in business in Wetaskiwin, Dennis Pedersen was elected president of the Battle River Tourism Zone at their annual meeting, held in the Legion Hall here last Friday. He succeeds Bill Fowler, who has held the post on two occasions.

The meeting enjoyed a thoroughly dynamic talk on the potential of tourism in Canada from Alberta's lieutenant-governor, Hon. J. W. Grant MacEwan, who repeatedly declared his feelings that Canadians just don't know their own country well enough. Easterners are the worst offenders, he said, but Westerners still don't know as much about the East as they should.

"Oh, they know a little about Toronto and Montreal" he said, but once get them off onto the side roads, and they are in unknown territory."

Dr. MacEwan thrilled to the beauties and the interest, and the history of the badlands of Alberta, from the Red Deer Valley all the way south to Milk River. There is a hundred million years of history written in the erosion, he said, going back to the time when the world consisted mainly of ferns, with a few primitive animals slowly crawling out of the swamps, to emerge into the huge dinosaurs of the past.

Moving on to other areas, Dr. MacEwan said he took nothing from Niagara Falls, but felt far too few Canadians had ever seen the majestic Virginia Falls, west of Fort Simpson in the North West Territories which are twice as high as Niagara, and which pour out far bigger volumes of water. Remote at the present, new developments in the Nahanni area are making the falls much more accessible to tourists.

Dr. MacEwan referred to numbers of other centres, including the fabulous old fort at Prince of Wales, near Churchill, which took forty years in the building, and which boasts three walls twenty-five feet in thickness over a 300 foot square, while the fourth wall, built for guns, is forty feet thick, and which stands today just as solid as when it was built, between 1732 and 1771, foursquare, immense . . . a symbol of Western Canada.

Too many of us don't know our own country as we should, he declared, and even then we forget that forty per cent of our country lies in the Northwest Territories.

Commenting on the year's work, Mr. Fowler said the zone has endeavored to make visitors feel welcome through establishment of more tourist booths, and hopes to vastly extend this program.

The same thought was echoed by Past President Lloyd Anderson of Forestburg, in presenting a budget which projected heavy increases in revenue from the Travel Alberta Zone Assistance Program, matched by corresponding major increases in tourist promotion in the zone.

Elections were conducted by Past President Leon D'Albertanson of Wainwright, resulting in the election of Ken Ince of Stettler as vice president. Directors are named by the various participating community representatives.

Mr. Fowler's report showed activity had continued at at high level throughout the year, with a number of continuing projects commanding repetition because of their success, while increased emphasis and attention is continually being focussed on new areas of endeavor as the support and acceptance of their work grows.

This is Angie Pollard ...she's proud.

Angie's an Albertan. That means that she's a part of a colourful tapestry of history one hundred years old. There are all sorts of colours in that tapestry, but next year two are going to stand out . . . scarlet and gold. These are the colours traditionally associated with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and just as Angie is doing now, they grew as a force here in Alberta. Next year, we're going to celebrate the anniversary of their arrival here and our start as a province. So make it your anniversary, too. Make it your reason to say, "I'm proud". As proud as Angie Pollard . . . and everyone else who boasts of being an Albertan.

Hundreds of items were sold in about one hour at the Rosehaven craft bazaar last Friday, Oct. 5th, when over 200 people attended the bazaar and tea. Around 100 patients in the occupational therapy department had spent about three months making many beautiful and durable products in wood-working and handicrafts. Pictured above is a collection of some of the well-made articles in the wood-working section, while the larger recreation room held leather-craft, knitting and crocheting, sewing, rugs, stuffed toys, and novelty items.

Consumers' news and views

by Consumers Association of Canada

Clothes that wrinkle while drying on a line or after tumbling about in the automatic dryer leave most of us with the discouraging task of spending a few hours with iron in hand to smooth out those annoying creases says the Consumers Association of Canada. Until permanent press materials become universal and truly permanent, the iron will continue to play an important role in every household.

Although its basic shape has remained unchanged for centuries, the iron has acquired a certain sophistication. Today it comes with a bewildering array of features and prices liable to confuse the uninitiated. More and more shoppers turn to the steam iron rather than to their former favourite, the dry iron. The steam iron's higher price is far outweighed by its many advantages. Today's homemaker need no longer dampen clothes before ironing.

The basic principle involved in steam ironing is that water, in the form of steam, is applied to a fabric to relax wrinkles which are then more easily removed by heat and pressure. To be effective the steam must be converted to water. This happens when the steam hits a cold fabric. The water is then removed by the hot soleplate.

A fabric can absorb only a certain amount of steam before it gets too hot to absorb any more. Any steam applied to the fabric after that point passes through the fabric to the ironing board pad.

That is why an ironed in wrinkle is difficult to remove with a steam iron. The fabric is already too hot from the ironing to condense the steam required to dampen and relax the new wrinkle. To combat this problem, many manufacturers have introduced the feature of a spray which provides instant moistening for stubborn creases. The spray enables you to use water - - and not steam - - to help iron out a stubborn wrinkle.

Irons marketed today may have one of three types of sole plates - - stainless steel, Teflon or Teflon-coated or aluminium. A stainless steel soleplate will last considerably longer than either a Teflon coated or aluminium soleplate. It does not scratch as easily and there is less chance of starch or lint build up than on plain aluminium. A Teflon or Teflon-coated soleplate is really an aluminium soleplate to which a coating of Teflon is applied. Like stainless steel lint and starch do not build up easily. Scratches on the coating do not leave rough edges. Also synthetic fabrics which may melt because the iron is too hot will not stick to the Teflon. Although a Teflon coating will wear out after some time, the iron will still be useable.

Introducing the Alberta CHECK STOP

Solicitor General Helen Hunley announces a new life-saving program on Alberta's streets and highways. Why? Because more than half of all fatal accidents are caused by drivers who drink too much.

These grim projections for the next twelve months should make every Albertan stop and think.

- When drinking drivers in Alberta fill their glasses that "one more time" they will also fill the equivalent of a 300-grave cemetery.
- In addition, these impaired drivers will fill 7,500 casualty-ward beds with injured men, women and children — many of them maimed for life.
- A population larger than that of Fort McMurray killed or injured in just one year!

Drivers who drink too much are responsible for more than half of all traffic fatalities and injuries in our province. And behind the cold statistics are scenes of horror and heartache. Orphaned children. Grief-stricken parents. A whole family can be wiped out in one disastrous alcohol-induced collision.

In just one year these grim predictions will become reality unless something is done — and done now. There's only one answer. Dangerous drinking drivers must be kept off the road. This is why all thinking drivers will support the ALBERTA CHECK STOP PROGRAM.

Local programs will now be co-ordinated on a province-wide basis, with more Check Stops than ever before. This all-Alberta program will involve a routine check of insurance pink cards, which all drivers must carry as proof of financial responsibility in the event of an accident.

To keep impaired drivers off our streets and highways, we must stop safe ones as well. But the only driver who need worry at the Check Stop is the driver whose social drink after work didn't stop at just one or two. Or the driver whose "one for the road" was one too many.

That may be the driver behind you or the one ahead. You don't want him on the same road that you're using. Neither do we! He's a potential disaster to you and your family.

Alberta Check Stops can keep him off the road. With your co-operation the Check Stops can reduce that deplorable, tragic fifty per cent.

ALBERTA CHECK STOPS BECOME EFFECTIVE THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1973

IT'S ENOUGH TO MAKE YOU BURN

Never smoke in bed

No one ever thinks they're going to fall asleep while smoking in bed! Those who do fall asleep generally aren't around to tell about it. Not only is it dangerous for you, it just isn't fair to others in your home or in nearby dwellings.

There's a safer way

Don't smoke when you are tired, when you've had something to drink, or when you've taken medication of any kind — even a cold tablet. And wait overnight to empty ashtrays. They could contain enough hot embers to start a fire.

This message is brought to you in the interest of fire prevention by the Fire Commissioner's Office of the Province of Alberta.

F-A-S-T action from the want ads

Sixty cents for the first issue, ninety cents for two issues, or three for $1.20. Four cents a word for anything over fifteen words the first issue, two cents a word in succeeding issues. Check your exhaust system

The motorist can keep right on driving a car with a faulty exhaust system, but he's risking his life to do so .. especially in the winter.

Contrary to safety rules, many people drive with closed windows. Thus, without proper ventilation, a motorist would breath poisonous fumes, which might seep into the passenger compartment .. should an exhaust pipe on the muffler be defective.

Muffler manufacturers estimate that over 75 per cent of cars over one year old should have some kind of exhaust system parts replacement. It may be only a clamp, but a loose clamp near a joint can be crucial.

It takes only a few minutes to have the exhaust system checked, which can be done while a car is on the lift for lubrication or other winterizing service.

When a car is raised, ruptures or weak spots in the exhaust pipes can be seen and your service man can check the muffler for clogging. Deterioration of the exhaust system is mainly caused by condensation of the noxious vapors within the pipes.

Unfortunately, few persons ask to have the system inspected until a rusted tail pipe starts rattling .. or the noise of a ruptured muffler cannot be ignored.

Noise caused by holes in exhaust parts may be slight at first. The person who drives in heavy traffic with closed windows may not recognize that the sound is coming from his own car. Meanwhile, he is a candidate for CO poisoning.

Only by a thorough check of the exhaust system can the motorist be sure he is not being exposed to the deadly fumes. The great danger is that carbon monoxide is colorless, odorless, and tasteless. It creeps up on its victims. The body can collect it over a period of time therefore, a fatal dose is not necessarily a single large dose.

Exhaust gases also cause poor engine performance. When not fully cleared from the manifold, these fumes tend to dilute the fresh charges of air and fuel, cutting down on engine efficiency and gas mileage.

The muffler handles a certain flow rate of exhaust gases. As these gases pass through a series of holes, baffles and resonance chambers the muffler reduces the pressure and cools the waste gases before they're passed into the atmosphere.

Any restriction in the exhaust system will cause the engine to perform poorly and carbon and corrosive matter will accumulate. This clogging also hastens deterioration of the muffler and pipes.

The engine trouble caused by excessive exhaust gases in addition to the possible harmful effects on the car's occupants, makes it easy to understand why one should keep the exhaust system in good condition.

(Mrs. G. H. Taylor)

Mr. and Mrs. John Albrecht and boys visited last week with his father Mr. George Albrecht at the Lodge in Viking.

H.R.L. Hurum gave a report of the Chamber of Commerce supper served on October 2nd. Thirty-nine plates were served and it was a successful endeavor. She also advised that she had presented the 1973 Scholarship Award to Sanda Mae Koppel at the Graduation Exercises on Sept. 22nd. The Sunshine committee report was given by Lady Carlson, who advised she had sent cards and gifts to members in hospital and also sympathy cards to members of other lodges.

The Lodge had been asked to cater to the November Chamber of Commerce supper in November and a committee was appointed to look after this. A donation was given to the C.N.I.B. Arrangements were made for the ladies to visit Hardisty Lodge on October 18th taking the Travelling Gavel along. Lady Semotuk then pinned a corsage on H.R.L. Hurum who thanked all for the kindness. H.R.L. Hurum then asked the conductress and drill tem to conduct Lady Taylor to her station and on behalf of all the lodge members presented Lady Taylor with a corsage a gift and card, remarking that she and Br. Taylor would shortly be celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary both being good and faithful members of the O.O.R.P. and B.P.O. Elks.

A former Holden district resident, Walter Trohimchuk of Edmonton, passed away suddenly on October 11th at the age of 56 years. He is survived by his loving wife, Anne of Edmonton; three sons, Don, Chris, and Terry all of Edmonton; one daughter, Mrs. Allan (Diane) Kirkland of Edmonton; father and stepmother, Mr. and Mrs. George Trohimchuk of Edmonton; two grandchildren; five sisters, Mrs. Rose Archuk, Mrs. Ann Hendrickson, Mrs. Estelle Anderson, Mrs. Kay Ward, all of Edmonton and Mrs. Helen McNamee of Vancouver.

Prayer service was on October 14th at Park Memorial Chapel and Requiem Mass was held on Monday morning, October 15th at St. Basil's Ukrainian Catholic Church in Edmonton, with Rev. B. Drihaenky being the celebrant, and interment was in the Holy Cross Cemetery.

LONG TIME RESIDENT PASSES

A long-time and well-known resident of Holden, Joseph Herbert Alexander, passed away suddenly on Thursday morning, October 11th, in Glendon Hospital at the age of 79 years. Joe, who was staying at his summer cottage at Franchere Beach, was found unconscious on the floor, and was taken to hospital where he passed away shortly afterwards. He is survived by his wife, Elsie in Edmonton, and one brother, John Alexander of Campbellton, New Brunswick. The funeral service was held on Saturday, October 13th in Bonnyville, with the Legion Branch and Masonic Lodge there.

"Honest Joe", as he was called around Holden, had lived here since the early 1930's, being agent at one of the elevators for several years, then running the rural mail routes for some forced his retirement. He was an enthusiastic fisherman and the last few years he had a cottage at Franchere Beach, spending the months from May until winter set in, then coming back to his home in Holden for the winter. He was a life member of Holden Branch Royal Canadian Legion and a member of the Holden Masonic Lodge.

Mr. and Mrs. Nick Pasnak had Mrs. Pasnak's sister from Edmonton visiting with them over the weekend, and was also visiting with other relatives in the district.

Mrs. Evan Olsen of Edmonton a former old-time resident of Holden, arrived Tuesday evening to visit for several days with her son and wife, Hilmer and Margaret Olsen. Mrs. Olsen had been spending about five months visiting with her daughter and family in Kamloops and visiting other points in B. C.

Mr. and Mrs. John Umrysh and Christine, with Mr. and Mrs. Peter Chrvatian and Annette, motored to Calgary on the Thanksgiving weekend to attend the wedding and reception of Corporal Arnold Rokas the Sarcee Barracks. Corporal Rokas is a nephew of Mrs. Umrysh.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Mason and Mrs. Annie Komarnisky returned home at the weekend from their ten-day holiday trip to Hawaii and other points and enjoyed the warm weather, sun and scenery.

The Bob MacKay's and William Laskes' were Sunday afternoon visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tiedemann.

Jerry Schissler, postmaster, is back in the office after being away the past couple of weeks on holiday.

Holden Lodge B.P.O. Elks held their monthly meeting on Monday evening, October 15th. Exalted Ruler Ralph Mason chaired the meeting. A nominating committee was appointed to bring a list of officers for the ensuing year to the next meeting. Tentative arrangements were discussed for the New Year's eve supper and dance which they sponsor each year, with a committee appointed to look after it.

Lloyd Lell, Cecil Hooper and Ernie Good drove over to Bonnyville last Saturday to attend the funeral of Mr. Joe Alexander.

Members of the Senior Citizens Group are reminded that their monthly meeting will be held in the Club Room at the Holden School on Thursday evening, October 25th. This should be an interesting evening as Miss Vivian Carlson will be showing her collection of slides of her recent summer holiday in the Scandinavian countries and other places in Europe.

HANDLE WITH CARE

Consumer Association of Canada reminds homemakers that most foods can safely be re-frozen if still cold - about 40 degrees F. But AC urges caution in refreezing commercial soups, thawed vegetables, shell-fish and vacuum packaged foods.

IT'S ENOUGH TO MAKE YOU BURN

Never put stove oil in a container that's held gasoline

Fuel oil by itself is slow to burn. But only a few drops of gasoline left in a container to which oil is added creates a highly combustible situation. Resulting fumes can easily be ignited when any oil-gas combination is put in burner or is exposed to any flame, spark, or hot surface of machinery.

There's a safer way

Mark your containers clearly. "GASOLINE ONLY" and "FUEL OIL ONLY". Be present when fuel oil or gasoline is delivered to supervise storage. Advise others of these safety precautions.

Gas line contractor to be chosen Monday

The contract for the construction and installation of a gas system for the Ankerton Natural Gas Co-op is expected to be let Monday night when the Board of Directors meet in Bawlf.

A spokesman for the board said yesterday that the directors were of the understanding that some of the contractors bidding for the job would be ready to swing into action later next week if their tender was accepted.

The co-op approved the plan submitted by Palmer Engineering at their last meeting, with actual construction of the line to commence in the Lake Demay area. Earlier this week, the directors approached the provincial government for an order-in-council which would get government backing amounting to 85% of a loan of $942,000 from the Camrose Savings & Credit Union.

Palmer Engineering expect to have at least two men in the Lake Demay area by Monday whose job it will be to establish meter sites, pipe sites, amount of probable gas consumption, and cost estimate for installation in that area.

Although only one area might get serviced this year, because of the late start, directors are hopeful that, with co-operation of the weatherman, other areas might be started before cold weather grinds construction of the new system to a halt.

At Monday's meeting, directors also hope to make plans for an official ceremony for the first ground-breaking. Involved would be provincial government officials, representatives from the Counties of Camrose, Beaver and Flagstaff, local government representatives, and members from the co-op.

Most important meal of day missed by too many

At a time when nutrition has become one of the most over-worked and misunderstood words in the language and food fads, many of them dangerous, abound by the dozen, hundreds of thousands of Canadians miss the most important meal of the day breakfast.

An equally large number including 20 percent of all school children in Canada don't eat an adequate breakfast.

These findings are distressing because the nutritional need for breakfast is acute. The blood sugar (glucose) is below the fasting levels after a period of fasting for 8-10 hours so the metabolic need for breakfast is nutritionally critical.

This fact was established more than 20 years ago by a series of controlled metabolic studies conducted at the University of Iowa and has been well documented in scientific literature.

Nutrition Canada, which has been investigating the eating habits of the nation is expected to confirm what many of us have believed for years, that as a nation we are nutritionally illiterate.

A study of 2,400 grade nine students showed that 30 percent of boys and 70 percent of girls had a poor or very poor diet, and in Metro Toronto 80 percent of women in pre-natal classes followed diets low in essential nutrients.

In the midst of a booming economy we face a mass problem of malnutrition not because there is not enough to eat, but because we don't know how we have a bigger choice of foods than at any time in our history, but we still eat badly. Why?

Most nutritionists agree that still not enough is known about basic human requirements. We know more about feeding pigs than we do about humans, but then we can't put humans into a laboratory. But we do know that balanced eating is important, not too much or too little of basic foods.

The blame for our woeful eating habits has been placed, by some, on convenience foods, but, according to Dr. G.H. Anderson of the School of Hygiene University of Toronto, the criticism is unwarranted.

Dr. Anderson says it's high time we recognized that these foods are now a way of life and help provide enjoyable eating the year round.

But people need to be careful in their choice, remembering that balanced eating is the key.

Says Dr. Anderson: "People will have to take more responsibility for their eating habits. Convenience foods can be of great benefit, if we know how to use them properly. No living thing, whether it's a rat or human, can exist on a steady diet of just one food. It's up to people to exercise judgement in their use of convenience foods, otherwise they suffer a nutritional deficiency in their diet."

So what about breakfast? Those of us who skip breakfast usually do not make up all the nutrients later in the day. The quality of our total diet is related to the quality of our breakfast. A poor diet, partly the result of missing breakfast can lead to increased stress.

A study reported in the Journal of the American Dietetic Association showed that factory workers perform poorly, and do less work when breakfast is omitted, and the compromise that many of us make by having a mid-morning snack helped only 50 percent do their job.

Teachers too are concerned about breakfast to needy children or to those whose parents don't fully recognize the need for a good nutritional start to the day.

Des Dixon, a staff member of the Ontario Teachers' Federation is involved in one such scheme. He believes that the hungry or poorly nourished child has a low energy level and is likely to lack concentration and be a poor learner. Most nutritionists would agree with him.

So what should you serve your child for breakfast? Central to a balanced breakfast for Canadian school children aged 4-12 is cereal with milk.

The milk and the cereal complement each other. Each is a good source of certain food nutrients; together they are far better than either alone.

Milk is an excellent source of calcium, phosphorus and protein and a moderate source of vitamins A and D and riboflavin, but is a relatively poor source of other essential nutrients. Cereal on the other hand, is an excellent source of niacinamide, thiamine, riboflavin and iron.

So breakfast cereal and milk (say four ounces) are a good start to a balanced breakfast. It should be complemented according to Canada's Food Guide, with fruit or juice toast and spread, eggs, bacon or cheese and milk, tea or coffee.

Later in the day lunch could include salad or raw vegetable, a protein food such as beef, fish, poultry or cheese; bread and butter or margarine; fruit and milk, tea or coffee.

For dinner: soup or juice; beef, poultry or fish; potato, rice or pasta; vegetable, bread, butter or margarine; dessert and milk, tea or coffee.

Snacks can be fresh or dried fruit, cheese and crackers, yogurt; muffin, and beverage; nuts cereal and milk.

But remember, breakfast is the most important meal of the day.

The vitality and enthusiasm displayed Saturday evening at the Camrose College's Homecoming dinner by Dr. Edwin A. Hetland belied the fact that he graduated from the college in 1918. Presented with the distinguished alumnus award he is holding, Dr. Hetland has established highly successful careers in the fields of law, medicine and finance, as well as maintaining a keen interest in his church, and in the college over all these years. – Camrose Canadian Newsphoto.

Lawyers need moral training says 'distinguished alumnus'

The time has come when the great universities, particularly in the United States will have to start teaching morals and ethics, right and wrong, to their classes of law students, said Dr. Edwin A. Hetlund Saturday evening as he spoke to the Homecoming Banquet at Camrose Lutheran College. A graduate of the class of 1918, Dr. Hetlund had just received the College's Distinguished Alumnus award.

The universities have been training men in the legal field to be very shrewd, to be highly technical, and very clever in their application of the law, he siad, but they have not bothered to emphasize ethics and morals.

In the years ahead, he declared, the profession must come to a new emphasis of moral and ethical questions in order to win the continuing respect and support of the people. It was a humbling experience, he said, to realize that following the Watergate hearings the legal profession as a group are carrying far less respect and prestige with the public generally. Their image has been badly tarnished, he said.

Notwithstanding this, Dr. Hetlund urged young people who were undecided to get into the field of law, now. Because of the disrepute of the society, he said, there can be no way to go but up...like buying on the fallen stock market. "Where the greatest problem lies," said Dr. Hetlund, there also lies the greatest chance.

He also urged both young men and women not only to get into law, but into politics. Citing a number of instances, he said that for years women have been getting a raw deal in the business world, and declared that they should get into the field and fight for a better deal.

Currently the dean of the Metropolitan College in Minneapolis, Dr. Hetlund has had a distinguished career in several fields. With three degrees, he has taught at three universities, and after practicing law for several years has been both judge and arbitrator, and a member of the National Panel of Arbitrators and the American Arbitration Association.

A pioneer in the field of para-medical education, he has owned three successful schools of medical technology, to which students came from around the world.

Widely known as a successful financier, both in Canada and the United States, he has also been a world traveller, and has taken part in several African safaris.

Throughout all this activity, Dr. Hetlund has always been keenly interested in the Lutheran church, and maintained an active interest in continuing development at Camrose Lutheran College. All of these points were mentioned in citation read by president of the college, Glen Johnson, as he introduced Dr. Hetlund to the crowd of alumni members gathered for the banquet. The actual presentation of the scroll to Dr. Hetlund was made by John R. Hunter, president of the alumni association.

CFCW's power output goes to 50,000 watts

CFCW in Camrose will boost its power output from 10,000 watts to 50,000 watts on Friday afternoon.

The change in power has been due for some time, but has been delayed because of difficulties ... obtaining equipment. Because of the uncertainty of obtaining this equipment, CFCW does not plan any special ceremonies when the change-over is made. The new equipment was installed by the station's engineer, Lindy Olson, in consultation with the firm's consulting engineers in Vancouver.

At 2:55 p.m. on Friday afternoon, Curly Gurlock will announce to CFCW's listeners that the switch-over is going to take place, and approximately two minutes later, Mr. Olson will pull the switch and CFCW will be using 50,000 watts.

Hal Yerxa, president of CFCW, said today that when the switch is made, there will be a noticeable difference in reception especially in fringe reception areas such as St. Paul and Westlock.

Two other changes for CFCW were announced in the past weeks. At the beginning of next month, CFCW will open a news room in Edmonton with sports director and newsman Bill Tuele moving to Edmonton to take charge.

CFCW recently acquired the LaBarge property at 50th Avenue and 51st Street where they will erect new studios and a commercial development. No date has been set for the construction of these facilities.

Tofield, Alberta

Dear Mr. Clinton:

I have just received a letter from Mrs. Becky Strilchuk of Edmonton, who learned through the Tofield Mercury that I desired information regarding Bardo, Alberta. She is the niece of Mrs. Magda Hendrickson who co-authored Pioneer Days in Bardo, Alberta. She too is writing a history of her own people who homesteaded in Bardo.

I have writen her and I wish to thank you for the effort you have made on my behalf in publicizing this matter.

In today's mail I received your note with Mrs. Stauffer's letter enclosed. Many thanks.

Could you send me a recent copy of the Mercury that shows any pictures of the area and also gives a flavour of the present day happenings?

Yours sincerely,

Ionic Chapter is host to Eastern Star heads

by Grace Phillips

Ionic Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, was host to Mrs. Lillian French and Ernie Williams, Worthy Grand Matron and Worthy Grand Patron, respectively, of the Grand Chapter of Alberta, on October 19, the occasion of their official visit to Tofield.

A banquet, served by the United Set in the social room of the Tofield United Church, honored Mrs. French and Mr. Williams. Mrs. French's chosen colors of pink and purple were featured in the table decorations, the candles and the beautiful bouquet of carnations and mums, the gift of J.E. Stinson to the chapter. Officers of the Chapter wore corsages of pansies in compliment to Mrs. French.

Preceding the banquet, Neil Phillips acting Worthy Patron, called on Mrs. Elizabeth Davison for the grace and on Mrs. Zelda Hallet for the toast to the Queen.

Following the banquet, the official visit of the Worthy Grand Matron took place in the Masonic Hall under the direction of Mrs. Joyce Swift, Worthy Matron of Ionic, and Neil Phillips. The Hall was decorated for the occasion with symbols of time in keeping with the Worthy Grand Matron's theme of "Take Time to be Kind."

During the evening, Mrs. Melita Wall sang "In the Garden of Tomorrow" and "I Shall Not Pass Again This Way," the favorite songs of Mrs. French and Mr. Williams. Mrs. Karen Bruce, on behalf of the Chapter, presented Mrs. French with a gift of money to be used for her chosen project.

Distinguished guests and Grand Officers included Keith French, MLA, Mrs. Anne LaFleche, Past Grand Matron; Mrs. Mitchell, Grand Electa; Mrs. Joy MacDonnell, member of the Board of General Purposes; Mrs. Georgia Christensen, Grand Representative of Puerto Rico.

Guests were present from Hanna, Edmonton, Killam, Bawlf and Camrose.

During the lunch hour, arranged by the social committee Mrs. Mabel Boyles, Mrs. Yvonne Borton and Mrs. Karen Bruce and Mrs French entertained the Chapter with several readings given in the Scandanavian dialect.

Holden's fall carnival goes Nov. 16 and 17

The Fall Sportex Carnival sponsered by the Holden and District Agricultural Society, will be held on November 16 and 17, in the Community Hall. Plans are taking shape and all committees are busily preparing for the gala event.

The festivities will begin on Friday, November 16, with a turkey supper, followed by bingo, and games of chance. Advance tickets for the supper will be sold with a lucky ticket holder receiving a door prize. Admission tickets will also be sold at the door.

Seven young ladies are competing for the honor of being crowned "Carnival Queen." They are: Susan Cooper, Anita Erickson, Cheryl Grosland, Darlene Helfrich, Debbie Koetke, Debbie Semotuik and Bernice Tymchak. All are from the Holden and Bruce districts, and are presently attending or have attended Holden High School.

The contestants are busy selling tickets, as each ticket sold means one vote, and every vote brings them closer to that special honor.

On Saturday, November 17, an evening of dancing will be enjoyed, with the crowning of the Carnival Queen to be the highlight of the evening.

All the proceeds of the carnival will go to the Holden and District Agricultural Society, for the building of the Recreation Complex.

Gas officials to visit Holden

Representatives of the Alberta Gas Trunk Line Company Limited will be in Holden on November 7 to review the company's activities in this area and to answer any questions district residents may have about AGTL or related industry activities

An informal discussion session is scheduled for 8 p.m. in the Community Hall. District and head office representatives of AGTL will be present and refreshments will be served.

The Holden meeting is one of a continuing series of visits AGTL representatives are making to areas of the province where the company has operations. One of the main objects of the community relations program is to introduce to local residents the closest district supervisors of the company.

In Holden's case, the district superintendent is Chuck Woollam. He and district landman, Don Henley will be at the Holden meeting to help answer questions. They work out of district headquarters in Edson.

Services held for late Hans Huseby, 95

Funeral services were held September 17th for the late Hans Huseby, who died September 13th at the age of 95.

Born in Norway, he came as a young man to the United States, and in 1904 homesteaded in the Palmer area south of Holden, where he used oxen, then horses before tractors and combines ever appeared on the scene. A leader in the community as well as on the farm scene, he served many years on various public bodies, including fifty consecutive years on the Holden Drainage District. The first drainage district in the province, he sat on the original board, and continued in office until his resignation half a century later. At various times he was also active in school board, Red Cross, Health Unit, and many other community groups, especially his church, Zion Lutheran at Earling.

He is survived by a son, Conrad of Holden South; two daughters, Lillian, Mrs. Alf Lefarud of Edmonton, and Irene, Mrs. Paddy Francoeur of Camrose, 17 grandchildren and 22 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted by the Rev. Begalke in Messiah Lutheran Church, interment following in Camrose Cemetery, with Hoveland's Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

The soloist was Ralph Dahl. Pallbearers were grandsons.

CHECK STOP

The Check Stop officer who looks at your pink card is concerned about your life.
To stop dangerous drinking drivers we have to stop safe drivers as well.

In just one year, drivers who drink too much can kill enough people in Alberta to fill the equivalent of a 300-grave cemetery. They can also fill 7,500 casualty-ward beds with injured and maimed victims.

Concerned Albertans want to stop this slaughter. That's what Alberta Check Stops are all about.

When you are stopped show the officer your pink card. Your delay will be kept as brief as possible.

The driver we want to keep off the road may be the one behind you, or the one ahead. The bigtime drinker with death on his breath.

A TRIBUTE TO MOTHER

Two lips I loved to kiss
Are closed in silence now:
Her love I keenly miss,
With gratitude I bow.

A voice so dear to me
Shall no more reach my ear;
No sweeter melody
Could gladden me, while here.

Two eyes are closed in death,
That watched by day and night,
I seem to see them yet,
So tender, kind and bright.

Two hands, whose gentle touch
No more my cheek shall feel;
I prized them, O so much,
When by her side I'd kneel.

Two feet are now at rest,
That served and never tired
On errands heaven-blest,
By heaven - love inspired.

That heart of mother love
No more shall beat for me;
She rests in peace above
God bless her memory!

Like old times again

It was just like old times again for a number of alumnae of Camrose Lutheran College when the annual Homecoming was held about ten days ago. One portion of the banquet program consisted of Ed Markon leading two numbers by the choir, which was hastily assembled from the audience and which ran from current members to graduates of many years standing. And what observers joyfully noted was that the older graduates were just as strong in recalling their roles as the current members.

Mr and Mrs. Mike Chupka daughter, Betty of Edmonton was down at the weekend, helping in the store. Mrs. Chupka had a nasty fall on the steps on Friday afternoon, outside the store when taking out a large carton of groceries. Betty drove down on Friday evening, and Kay was taken to Tofield Hospital in the evening and is there with a cast on her ankle and leg.

(Mrs. Ellen Eaton)

October 25 — Dale and Rita Campbell and three girls of Fort Saskatchewan spent Sunday, Oct 14th at the farm home of Dale's aunt Ellen Eaton.

Visitors at the home of Howard and Mae Ferguson on Oct 14th were their daughter, Doris and Howard Brown and family, Mae's sister, Phyllis and Don Fitzpatrick of Calgary; and Mae's and Phyllis's mother, Mrs Roberts of Tofield, who were all guests at a belated Thanksgiving turkey supper.

Don and Brenda Jackman and son Vincent and Don's brother, Rick Jackman, all of Fort McMurray, were visitors at the home of Brenda's grandmother on Thursday afternoon, Oct. 11th.

Don Rudzcki and his fiance, Diane Zukiwsky of Edmonton, were Sunday visitors at the home of Don's parents, Rod and Isabel Rudzcki.

Mrs. Leroy (Shirley) Eaton of Seba Beach was a visitor at the home of her mother-in-law, Ellen Eaton, on Wednesday Oct 17th forenoon, leaving for home again shortly after dinner.

Friends of Lorimer Hunter of Calgary were shocked on Monday to hear of his sudden death during the early hours of Monday morning. Lorimer and his wife Bessie and family were former residents of the McKenzie district and later of Tofield where Lorimer had the U.F.A. oil and gas station until his retirement to Calgary. Bessie and family and other relatives are receiving the sympathy of their friends, and neighbours.

A shower is to be held in the Tofield United Church basement this Friday, Oct. 26th, for Diane Zukiwsky whose marriage to Don Rudzcki, son of Rod and Isabel Rudzcki of this district, takes place November 10th.

There will be a 40th anniversary open house for Russell and Mabel Ferguson in the Legion Hall from 2 to 5 p.m. on Sunday, November 4th.

Maurice Wellborn of Lalner, B.C., who is at present in Edmonton, was a Sunday visitor at the home of his brother-in-law, Charlie and Mickey Niemetz. Later in the day he accompanied Charlie and Mickey to the home of their daughter, Patsy and Geo. Bekker and girls of Ryley.

Charlie and Mickey Niemetz were Monday afternoon visitors at the home of Mickey's brother Russell and Mabel Ferguson.

Clarice and Peter Anderson of Ft McMurray spent the weekend at the home of Clarice's parents, Carl and Mavis Jacobson.

Mrs. Carol Derksen left Saturday for her home in Prince George, B.C., after spending some time at the home of her brother, Arnold and Deanna Nelson.

Rain and fog on Tuesday morning have left the grain fields wet once again, stopping combining and threshing that was just getting started after the showers of last week. This will take some time before the grain will be dry enough to harvest again.

Albert and Ida Koenig and son Barry, and Ida's grandfather, Dominik Berland, all of Edmonton, were Sunday afternoon visitors at the home of Mrs. Ellen Eaton.

Ministik

Mr and Mrs. Don Cheshire and Melvin George and Kim Pearce of Edmonton were Sunday afternoon guests of Mrs. S. George. Mr. and Mrs. Poul Wiens and children of Sherwood Park called in later in the day.

With the weather still being uncertain, farmers are struggling little by little to harvest their grain crops.

Granddaddy of the pumpkins?

It took 64 inches on the tape measure to circle this giant pumpkin grown by Margaret Bowthorpe at the Diamond E Ranch a few miles northeast of Camrose. Even though it weighed in at 86 pounds, Bill Bowthorpe says he knows of some specially grown specimens that more than doubled that. Big as it is, the flavor is still packed in, and Mrs. Bowthorpe was busy early this week stacking up a number of pumpkin pies.

Recreation programs are being scheduled

Fall and winter programs under the Beaver Regional Recreation Department are proceeding smoothly in the planning stages with many being finalized.

There will be a hockey referees' clinic in Tofield with registrations at the school at 9:00 a.m. on Saturday. This is a two-day clinic and referees are asked to take their skates with them.

Chorus sing will begin in the Tofield School on Thursday, November 8th with grades 3 to 6 scheduled for 1 p.m. and grades 7 to 9 at 1:30 p.m.

Figure and power skating will commence in the Tofield Arena on Monday at four o'clock. More information may be obtained by contacting Karen Bruce at 662-3101.

A cake decorating class will be held in the Haight School in Ryley on November 8th starting at 10:30 a.m. Those attending should bring a lunch as well as styrofoam cake form, 8-10 inches in diameter and 2-3 inches deep. This will be a three-day course.

It would appear that art classes will be held in Viking but, to date, only six inquiries have been received from Tofield. The deadline for registrations is November 7th and a minimum of 15 people are required to hold the course. Registrations should be forwarded to the department in Ryley.

Other courses may be announced later.

Gas co-op still hopes to install some lines

Directors of the Ankerton Natural Gas Co-op are still hopeful of having some gas lines installed before winter sets in.

Surveying for two taps to serve approximately 15 customers in the Lake Demay area has been completed and Palmer Engineering is now in the process of finalizing plans for installation service.

If government approval is granted, directors could give the green light to having gas installed at a meeting in Rawlf on Tuesday night if the needed pipe becomes available.

Directors were rocked last week with the news that no pipe was available. Since then however, directors have learned that it might be possible to obtain some pipe from other co-ops who are finishing up and could have pipe left over.

If this pipe is available, a start on construction of the lines could start in the latter part of next week.

As well, a representative from a pipe supplier in Eastern Canada will be arriving here early next week to arrange for the balance of the pipe needed. It will be stockpiled over the winter months and installed as soon as the frost leaves the ground.

Surveying for the system will continue and is expected to be completed sometime in December. Engineers will then draft plans for installations and directors are predicting that the system will be completely installed by the end of June.

Mazankowski flays Liberals for no solutions on railways

Don Mazankowski, M.P. (Vegreville), Progressive Conservative transport critic says he is "totally fed up with transportation tie-ups in Canada and even more so with the Trudeau government's demonstrated inability to devise long-term plans to cope with the situation."

Today, in the House of Commons, Mazankowski and a number of other Progressive Conservative Members of Parliament levelled a barrage of questions at Transport Minister Jean Marchand to, as Mazankowski put it, "determine what plans, if any, the federal government has to use Department of Transport resources to clear up existing problems and to prevent future ones."

The questions ranged from the difficulties being experienced by the Digby-St. John ferry service, to a backlog of 500 freight cars at North Sydney, Nova Scotia that are waiting to transport goods to Newfoundland, to box car shortages for B.C. lumber and western grain which the Minister was supposed to at least partially resolve in a meeting with CN and CPR officials on October 25th.

"The Minister," said Mr. Mazankowski, "was as evasive as ever in the answers he gave and failed to present any long-term solutions, or in fact, any solutions at all to the House."

"This," he said, "only confirms my opinion that this is a government that moves in an ad hoc fashion to solve problems going from crisis to crisis and securing answers which only turn out to be window-dressing in the final result."

"Last year," he said, "it took an election campaign to force improvements in the western hopper-car situation. I am beginning to think, in the absence of any Trudeau government initiative that an election might be the best solution to this year's problems too."

Hitchhikers welcome at Spokane world fair

Planning to hitchhike to the Expo '74 World's Fair with a sleeping bag on your back?

If you are, rest assured the city of Spokane is making an effort to find a place for you to unroll it and get a good night's sleep - among friends, thousands of them.

The Spokane Park Board has authorized a group of youngsters here to look into the feasibility of setting up a "Youth Hostel" in Glover Field, an open area in Peaceful Valley on the Spokane river near the fairgrounds.

"We want to provide a central place for the thousands of kids we know will ride their thumbs to Expo '74," said Roger Jones, head of the youth committee.

He said the hostel will have food, health and security services, and backpackers will probably be charged a small fee.

Spokane's problem between now and fair time (it opens May 4, closes Nov. 3) is to figure out ways to raise funds to finance the hostel.

Proportional representation

The somewhat startling disparity in the percentage of votes gained by Quebec Premier Bourassa and his Liberal party and the number of seats won by the party has produced a good deal of comment that some form of proportional representation should be introduced. The comment isn't new by any means, and in fact, it's usually heard when a minority party manages to poll a fairly substantial portion of votes, but winds up with only a smattering of seats.

There are some obviously logical arguments in favor of, say, a third of the voters, as in the case of Quebec's Parti Quebecois, gaining a third of the seats, but on the other hand, it would seem to do away completely with the concept of a constituency race, wherein a number of candidates vie for the opportunity to "represent" a constituency. And where only one wins.

In a way, it's like a horse race or a football game. It doesn't much matter how close the second horse or the second team ran behind the winner, there's only one Queen's Plate or one Grey Cup to be won.

It may be that the [illegible] of governing the country, [illegible] a province, doesn't [illegible] football game, or and maybe some modifications should be introduced. After all, it would be foolish to say that the system is perfect under every circumstance ... probably no system is.

But yet, on the other hand, there must be great concern that any attempt to be "fair" to minorities doesn't entirely negate the principle of democracy, and the responsibility of the individual member to his individual constituency. To whom would a representative chosen to balance out his or her party's proportion of seats be answerable, for instance.

Just as an instance of this sort of "arranged" representation, Edmonton used to have a system whereby a specific number of elected representatives had to be South Side residents, and often found a fierce contest going on on the North Side, which necessarily eliminated a number of good candidates while some of possibly [illegible] contribution faced [illegible] because there was little contest from their area.

A [illegible] better than none. In any case, Edmonton voters put [illegible] only [illegible]

"LOVE NEEDED"

Dear Sir:

Thinking of news today and all hideous things going on, if printed, many eyes would be opened to such things as all these break-ins, vandalism and what have you.

I have lived maybe longer than most people in this community and never have I heard of crime and ugly doings among our people as today.

What has happened to our society? Is this what education is giving to our people? Can it be when we were more ignorant, nobody thought of violence and meanness. All were friends and neighborly, think about it.

There is so many good things, that can be done forget about drugs and drink, stay sober and find jobs of value, help society to become great and the people will look up to you and our Community will be a grand place to live in.

Many times we wonder, as older people, where did we fail that so many turn to the evil things in life instead of doing good. Love your neighbor as yourself and fulfill the Love of God. Try it and see. This is my thought for the day.

IMPRESSIONS

Dear Sir:

On Saturday October 6th, I had the privelege of taking a bus of students from the Tofield School, grades IV to VII to the Jubilee Auditorium in Edmonton to attend "Adventure in Music" along with students from other N.A. Schools.

As there has been no report of this musical project in the Tofield Mercury to date, I felt moved to share my impressions of this experience.

Our trip to Edmonton and back was trouble free — no flats or breakdowns. The students seemed to enjoy the trip visiting and chatting with each other.

At the Jubilee the ushers with large posters bearing the names of the different schools [illegible]

tion contained so many instruments — nor that they added so much to the total musical effect of the performance. I don't remember the names of all the instruments in this section as it was the least familiar to me — but do remember the cymbal, triangle and drum. The conductor himself introduced this section and explained that some instruments in this section were musical, while some, like the drum were just for volume background or accent.

The orchestra then presented some classical preludes by well known composers and then for contrast some modern compositions e.g. "Chickens in their Shell"

I was impressed by the beautiful tones of the musicians — near perfection? I don't know, but to me it sounded great. They played with feeling, their crescendos were stirring, their pps. were barely audible. Was warmed by the enthusiasm they demonstrated while performing for us. During one selection they had the front section of stage, where strings were seated, gradually lower and finally disappear from view, then again rise to stage level, the younger students were quite awed by this scene of [illegible] rising in their seats for a better view.

Sorry I lost my notes and can not remember the names of the selections played for us, nor their composers. Also forgot the names of the conductor and the men introducing and explaining the various instruments; however their method of presenting them was excellent and they kept the attention of the students.

In conclusion, I felt that it was a very worthwhile project, educational, enlightening and entertaining. It seemed to me there was enough offered for more mature students, especially if interested in music and that I personally learned more from this experience than a good percentage of the students.

Thank you for this opportunity

Sincerely,

Henry Schroeder

A hog producer's viewpoint

By Elmer Schultz

The Saskatchewan Government has announced a policy which may be of interest to Alberta hog producers. The Program will guarantee $57.00 per hundred weight for 100 index hogs produced in that province. The purpose of this program is to create an incentive to hog producers to continue raising hogs when the costs of production have made it more profitable not to.

The system of supply and demand lags behind considerably (in respect to demand reflecting prices). It seems that because of this lag that we sometimes get the extremes in our market prices. Our Government seems to be aware of this and that is why they are concerned when hog producers start cutting back their production or if anything interferes with the natural supply and demand. A good example of this is the recent charges made by some hog producers that the packing plants are working in collusion to lower the price of slaughter hogs in Alberta. The Department of Consumer and Corporate Affairs responded almost immediately to these charges and it is hoped that more can be said in this regard at a later date.

According to the "experts" the present break-even prices in the Hog Industry won't last for more than a few months which isn't until the slack is taken out of our present market. It is unfortunate that in the meantime many established herds are being disposed of in Alberta.

From some of the rumors coming from the Department of Agriculture Dr. Horner has some plans of his own in regard to incentive policies and we should be hearing about them in the near future.

The Homemaker

HOME SEWING

The upward swing in home sewing affected the textile industry considerably. Previously, a textile mill selected a few of it's fabrics for over-the-counter sale. Today, the trend is to manufacture primarily for direct sale to the consumer, with a few fabric lines being made exclusively for garment manufacturers.

Everybody's doing it! Why?
1 Self-Expression - the "do-your own-thing" psychology has really caught on. "Creativity", and "satisfying" were expressive words used - an indication of counter attack on the mass-produced mechanized era we live in.
2 Economy - important, but not of utmost concern. The home sewer figures she saves 60 - 70 percent of retail cost.
3. Poor quality - women feel they can make clothing better than the poor quality ready mades available
4. More Leisure - more time to sew, and more travelling and varied occasions allow her more time to wear her clothes.
5. Simpler Fashions - the home sewing craze began in the early '60's with the shift dress fashions Pattern companies have upgraded pattern styles, and have cooperation of leading fashion designers.
6. Promotion - every pattern company has promoted their wares, and have kept the home sewer on the front lines.
7 Education - Sewing is included in many high school programs Fun fashions and encouragement of individuality provide a catalyst One survey showed that sewing was the most important hobby of 13 - 18 year olds in the U S Every company selling items for the seamstress has tons of educational material readily available to schools night classes and consumers.

POWER OUT

The unseasonable snow storm on Thursday dumped 6 inches of soft heavy snow, crippling power lines with some being without power for as many as 17 hours. However, linemen working overtime had things in good order in less than 24 hours Telephone wires snapped in many areas with phones still out of order. Good weather is promised which could enable farmers with several acres of uncombined crops still lying under snow to be finished this season.

Facts about the Carpet Business

A CARPET CAN BE ADVERTISED ON THE RADIO OR TELEVISION AT $7.50 A YARD.

It sounds like a very low price. But when they add $2.00 for cushion, $2.00 for labor — that's $4.00 a yard more that you don't expect. So you are really paying $11.50 a yard. Some companies also charge for mileage.

CFCW jumps output 200 times since 1954

A week ago Friday, with the push of a button, Camrose Radio CFCW increased its power output 200 times over its original beginning back in 1954.

The station's engineer, Lindy Olson pushed a button and CFCW was suddenly broadcasting with an output of 50,000 watts During the brief ceremony, Hal Yerxa, president of Camrose Broadcasting, looked on proudly.

CFCW started with 250 watts on November 2nd, 1954 with an approximate broadcasting range of 50 miles. In October of 1958, the range increased to about 75 miles as the station began using 1,000 watts. During this time, CFCW was located at 1280 on the dial.

January 31st, 1961 was a big day in the station's brief history as they moved to the now familiar 790 spot on the dial and increased their output to 10,000 watts. Then last Friday, the station moved to the maximum possible output allowed to any radio station in Canada.

Only five other radio stations in Alberta are broadcasting with 50,000 watts and CFCW has the distinction of being the first non-metro station in the entire country to be granted use of maximum output.

The cost of the new broadcasting power was approximately $350,000 and, while it does increase the station's range somewhat, the main purpose for the increase was to strengthen the signal already being sent, in fringe areas. In effect this makes CFCW more of a regional station rather than a community station.

The new transmitter is the first of its kind to be used in Canada and is the newest model used in this broadcasting range anywhere in the world. Installation of the new transmitter was done by the station's engineer, Lindy Olson, in consultation with Hoyles Niblock Associates in Vancouver.

Mr. Olson joined CFCW in 1956 as a writer and later moved into the control as an assistant engineer and assumed the post of engineer in 1960 and, at that time, installed the station's 10,000 watt system.

Besides the installation of the transmitter, Mr. Olson had the job of overseeing the construction of the six new towers (each 200 feet high) and the laying of about 35 miles of copper wiring for the antenna system at the station's 75 acre tower site, about four miles south of the junction on Highway 21.

Originally, CFCW had aimed at switching to 50,000 watts on October 1st, but, were delayed by bad weather and slow arrival of the new equipment. As a result of the delay, no official ceremonies were held to mark the occasion, although something might be planned for a later date.

Viking appears on tv program

Viking is just one example of the many Alberta towns that exist mainly as service centres for the surrounding farm community.

Located at the crossroads of Highways 14 and 36, Viking exhibits steady progress and a healthy business attitude. Sunday, November 11th at 1:00 p.m. on CFRN TV, Edmonton, THE MARKET PLACE introduces town officials, businessmen and farmers who talk about their home. You'll meet Mayor Selmer Hatso, Chamber of Commerce President and Farmer Laurie Rozmahel and Clem Loughlin who coached and managed the Chicago Blackhawks from 1934 - 1936.

The Viking attitude seems to assure a strong future for this thriving eastern Alberta town.

YEA! YEA! YOUTH LEADER

Somewhere between the sternness of a parent and the comradeship of a pal is the mysterious creature we call a "Youth Leader." Individuals of all sizes, and shapes, male or female, they all have one common characteristic a twinkle in their eyes.

Youth leaders are found everywhere - at rallies, exhibits, square dances and talent shows. They are always preparing for, sitting through, participating in, or recuperating from a meeting of some kind.

They are the tireless consumers of coffee and doughnuts, the experts at taking knots out of thread, the peerless coaches, and the avid fans of Thomas Edison's invention.

But even more than this, they are often someone to turn to - someone who will listen, who will share, who will give you a hankie when you cry. They are the ones who will see the individuality in you - the uniqueness not coloured by parental love, friendly loyalty, nor by who your parents, brothers, or sisters are.

Nobody else is so early to rise and so late to get home at night. Nobody else has so much fun with so many boys and girls, while influencing them to use and give their best.

We often forget them, but we cannot do without them. They are angels in aprons, saints in straw hats. They receive no salary their reward is the love of the kids, and the respect of the community. Have we realized all they do? Have we said "thank you" lately? If not, it's time that we do.

LIKING YOURSELF

When Jill is chairman, the bazaar makes a profit. If she gives a party, it's a success. And when things go wrong she has the knack for converting misfortune to advantage. But she's not beautiful or brilliant or unusually gifted. "Jill?" her friends say. "Oh, she's lucky!"

This central explanation doesn't touch the truth about Jill and others like her. The fact is, people make their own luck.

One woman seems to have a talent for failure, casting gloom over the bazaar committee, blighting any party with her apologies and nervous anxiety. Another can create, with a smile or a word, an atmosphere of happy expectation in which things naturally flow well.

The source of this magic is the "lucky" woman's picture of herself. How we respond to the world around us, and how it reacts to us, is largely a matter of self-image.

An individual's self-concept is the core of his personality. It affects every aspect of human behavior choice of friends, mates and careers. It is no exaggeration to say that a strong positive self-image is the best possible preparation for success in life.

In the first place, self-esteem determines one's expectations - and so, often, one's actual performance. The person who expects to succeed will likely succeed the person who expects to fail will almost certainly fail. So a self-perpetuating pattern develops - and his poor performance lowers his self-esteem.

Low self-esteem also inhibits an individual from expressing himself freely, entering new situations, taking risks. A man who feels himself inferior keeps his career sights low - and, indeed, if offered a promotion, may find reasons to refuse it. He's afraid to risk failure. A woman reacts the same way.

But these people can develop self-esteem if they set their minds to it. Of course, you can't decide to improve your self-esteem and wake up the next morning with a changed personality. But every small effort you make can produce a gradual change, and also make you aware of yourself. As you grow to know your-self better, you are bound to like yourself better, too.

Good work, Jill!!

who'd ever guess these fellows are creating stability?

WHO'S to say what the price of anything really is?

When buyers and sellers come together in a free market system, the price is set by the man prepared to pay the most. He becomes the buyer and the price he pays is clearly posted for everyone to see.

It's called "Open Market Price Discovery" and it goes on every week at the Winnipeg Commodity Exchange. What makes it work is competition.

This method of marketing agricultural products results in two advantages to the producer. In the short term the current price is always the highest price. And, what's more important, from a long term point of view, is that the prices made here are real prices. They're not artificially established by a group of civil servants. They reflect the hard cash that responsible buyers are willing to pay for the farmers' products—which is, of course, the most solid foundation upon which to build a self-sufficient Western Canadian agricultural economy.

Before you cast your ballot in the rapeseed poll, we suggest you give the matter plenty of thought.

After all, once you surrender freedom of choice, you never get it back.

Don't pass stopped school bus

Insp. T. J. Collins, Officer in Charge of the R.C.M.P. Headquarters Traffic branch in Edmonton, Alberta, states:

Another school term has commenced, and we can expect the usual increase in pedestrians, cyclists, and school bus traffic on the streets and highways.

I am sure that all of us, as motorists, have at one time or another encountered hazards created by youngsters who give little or no warning of their actions. Drivers must, therefore be prepared for the unexpected, to prevent serious accidents which might occur as a result of a child's lack of judgement and inability to realize the possible consequences of his or her actions. By driving defensively at all times, motorists can reduce the possibility of tragedy

Motorists are reminded that it is unlawful to pass a school bus while it is displaying alternately flashing red lights. This applies outside of urban areas when approaching a school bus from either direction on a two lane highway, or from the rear of the bus on a divided highway.

Our members will be patrolling school bus routes and school crossings regularly in an effort to prevent accidents involving school buses, pedestrians, etc., and we ask that every motorist help make our roads safer by obeying traffic laws.

Armyworm forecast: lighter next year

Only three small areas of the province are likely to suffer from Bertha armyworm infestations next summer, and even these infestations will be light, according to The Alberta Plant Industry Laboratory's fall pupal survey results.

Most Camrose and Tofield areas should not be hit by damaging Bertha armyworm infestations. In north-central Alberta, the predicted area extends from north and west of Morinville around the Legal and Bon Accord areas, to south of Edmonton around the Leduc area, and up to the Fort Saskatchewan - Bruderheim areas. Another light patch is predicted to extend around the Lacombe to Buffalo Lake area.

Another survey will be carried out in the spring to assess winter pupal survival and to update the forecast if necessary.

The other two areas are the Bluesky - Fairview - Wanham districts in the Peace River region, and the Strathmore-Vulcan regions in the south. Hugh Philip, one of the entomologists who conducted the survey, points out that even these predicted light infestations may not materialize if the Bertha armyworm population is further reduced by disease and parasites over the winter or adverse weather next summer.

According to the survey results, there was a higher incidence of parasitism in the fall-collected pupal than was the case in those collected last spring. "It seems," says Mr. Philip, "that two years of a high armyworm population are required before parasites and disease build up to the point where they can significantly reduce Bertha armyworm populations."

Formulas used in the manufacture of processed meat products such as wieners, bologna, luncheon meat, pork sausage, must meet the standard specified in federal government regulations. In the processing departments of meat plants, inspectors check the meat being used and ascertain that the addition of other ingredients such as spices and preservatives are within the allowable level. Packages, containers, labels and markings on inspected products are all subject to approval from the government.

Parent-teacher day is planned

by
Grace Phillips

Parent-teacher day will be Friday, November 23, in the Tofield School.

This semi-annual conference gives parents and teachers an opportunity to discuss the progress of each student. Requests for special appointment times will be sent out in advance of Parent-teacher day and, later, parents will be notified of their scheduled appointments.

As usual, report cards will be issued immediately preceeding the conference day. Attendance of students in grades will be marked on the report cards as usual but high school students will receive an attendance slip showing every class missed during the grading period. In September, only those students who had been absent received an attendance slip, but in October all students will receive a record of their attendance. Every absence will be recorded.

As in former years, lunch will be served by Mrs. Foshaug in the library, providing a social hour for parents between or after appointments.

Community League has cost schedules changed

(By Grace Phillips)

Mrs Audrey McHeffey was the October winner of the $100 club draw sponsored by the Tofield Community League

At the regular November meeting of the League held Tuesday in the Community Centre with president Bob Moos in the chair, action was taken in several areas to bring prices in line with those charged elsewhere and in line with the rising prices of supplies.

The new price schedule for shows is as follows: A Family show: Adults $1.50; Students $1.00, Children $.50.

B. Adult Show: Adults $1.50, (not suitable for children) unless accompanied by an adult in which case they pay $1.00

C. All Road Shows Adults $1.75, Under 12 $1.25

D Senior Citizens: A book of 10 tickets can be purchased for $10.00 The tickets in the Senior Citizens book will be stamped for their use only.

Popcorn supplies have doubled in cost so popcorn will now sell for 15 cents for a 1 pound bag and 25 cents for a 2 pound bag

The losses of cutlery from the Community Centre kitchen are heavy 4 dozen spoons, 4 dozen forks and 4 dozen cups and saucers are required to bring the place settings up to the 200 felt to be the necessary number for serving banquets.

It was deemed necessary, due to losses and damage, to keep the League's bingo equipment in the centre

A turkey bingo will be held December 12 with Arnold Swift and John Baergen in charge of arrangements

Plans for the annual New Year's dance were left in the hands of the dance committee, Bob Moos Bill Davison Joe Laarhuis

As in the past few years a community Christmas card will be featured in the large window of the Community Centre. Donations for the card may be left at the Tofield Co-op or Everet's Foodland.

YES, BUT WHAT IS IT WE,RE SUPPOSED TO REMEMBER?

Derelict cars

Alberta Environment Minister W. J. Yurko a couple of months ago announced cabinet approval of a program to reclaim car bodies collected by municipalities outside of Calgary and Edmonton. Such cars have not in the past been recycled, pointed out Mr. Yurko, because of the cost of collecting them and transporting them to a recycling plant

Early in May, during Littercheck Week, his department and the department of highways co-operated to gather 14,000 vehicles into storage groups throughout the province, with some 9,000 of them in larger groups, which might enable reclamation at to a recycling plant was so high.

The minister points out this will not only provide an immediate supply of old cars for recycling, but help to clean up the landscape. He hopes arrangements can be made in future to encourage municipalities to establish legal dumps for old cars rather than having them abandoned, and is working on future action of a more permanent nature to remove the vast number of abandoned and derelict hulks from all over the province.

We have no idea of what costs are involved, but surely the problem could be vastly reduced with the legal car dumps Mr. Yurko mentions. It's just as much an offense to litter with old cars as with other forms of rubbish, and in this case, it shouldn't be hard to trace the registered owner through the serial number on the vehicle. Probably most of them are still mobile when they're abandoned, at least enough to be towed to a dump site, even if they're past driving. Under such circumstances, it shouldn't be hard to attach responsibility, at least in most instances, and for the individual, it shouldn't be too hard to get his derelict to a dump.

Out of balance

Things have to be out of balance somewhere in the employment and unemployment picture, and people we have talked to can't get away from the feeling that welfare, unemployment insurance, call it what you will, is too easy to obtain, and too attractive as compared with working.

Only yesterday, in two widely separated areas, we heard of needs being unfilled, for months on end. One comment concerned a number of drilling crews in the region "every one of which could use five men", and can't get them. It was agreed the work can be dirty, but the feeling was also expressed that the pay is good, the work is dependable, and working conditions are lots worse in some other jobs.

Another comment came from a sixty-year-old man recently returned from a holiday trip who found jobs being offered him practically everywhere he went. "There's no end of work if you go looking for it," he commented, adding that there's no way he'll ever look at assistance under these condition.

Granted, all these comments came from men who are accustomed to work, and hard work, who expect to work and want to work, and even take pride in work. Working just long enough and hard enough to get Unemployment Insurance doesn't even figure in their thinking.

Cubans healthy, but . . .

by Peter Ward

HAVANA (CEF)

Spending a few weeks in Fidel Castro's Cuba is certainly one of the better ways to while away a Parliamentary recess in Ottawa, and when the American newspapers I write for suggested a series on Cuba, an instant decision was made.

The trip took considerable groundwork, because the Cuban government is careful about allowing any journalist into the country, let alone one who is reporting for American audiences. In the end, they took a chance, and here I am.

It's been mixed bag, admiration and amazement at how far and how fast the Cubans have moved in upgrading services for the poor, and the economic performance of the country; impatience verging on anger over some of the workings of a communist bureaucracy.

From the people, there is an overwhelming, crusading sense of support for the Castro government, and small wonder.

In the bad old days, more than a million of the country's 6.5 million population starved while United Fruit and the other big companies waited for sugar to ripen. It was the good life for city entrepreneurs; no schooling, very little food, and no health services for a sizeable chunk of the people.

Today with 8.5 million people there is no unemployment, but if you disagree with government policies, it can be a tough life.

There are free schools loaded with ideological content and there are hospitals, clinics and pharmacies available no matter where you live. If you can pay, you do so, but modestly; if you can't, the doctor will endorse your prescription and it's filled free.

School children from grade seven to 10 work three hours and study five hours daily. They are away from their families six days a week, learning not only their lessons, but a dedication to the revolution. Next the work-and-learn system will be introduced in primary school.

Food is tightly rationed to subsistence scales of Canadian standards - but the prices are low and the same ration scale applies to everyone. You never see green vegetables and seldom fruit. Meat is held to three quarters of a pound per person every nine days, but eggs are relatively plentiful, and both bread and milk are available.

Most things which are produced on the island are saved for the export trade, primarily Russian and Eastern Europe, because although Cubans produce much more than they consume, the excess is being hoarded by the government and turned into capital investment which will finance the eventual good life, as defined by the leaders of the State.

But the government owns virtually everything, controls all media, and all citizen movement within the country, and that's what I'd like to talk about next week.

Ladies club to host zones

The Tofield Ladies Curling Club held a meeting on Wednesday October 28th, with president Verna Watson in the chair.

Mrs. Millie Sorken was elected as vice president for the 1973-74 season.

The Ladies Curling Club accepted an invitation to host the Zone play downs the first week of January.

Considerable discussion took place as to what night of the week to curl. A vote determined that Tuesday evening was most convenient providing that the mens' club draws will permit ladies curling on that particular night. Before closing the meeting, the 8 appointed skips drew up their rinks.

The president advised the meeting that all arrangements for the opening dance to be held on November 10th are completed.

Former Holdenite gains promotion

Technical Services Manager, Rodger Salander, announced that as of September 1st, Robert Kondrat was promoted to Supervisor of the Logistical Support operation, in Minneapolis.

Bob, son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Kondrat, a native of Calgary, received his first twelve years of education in Holden. He furthered his education as a electronic technician, at Debry Technology in Toronto. Coming back to Alberta, he worked his way up to a senior technician for Friden Business machines. Here, Bob had supervisory responsibilities and when hired by E.M.R. Computors in 1969, he was made group leader responsible for Digitech, Gulf, Geodiget 6000 and 6130 installations in Calgary.

The move from the field to headquarters operations is viewed as a real challenge by Bob. His experience in the field provides him with extensive knowledge of Series 60 hardware, an understanding of field problems, and supervisory abilities - - all important tools for his new position.

The Bob Kondrat family, (wife Linda, former resident of Viking and three children) are anxiously awaiting the relocation to Minneapolis. Bob has purchased a new home in suburban Minneapolis and moved in the end of October.

But will little boys like them?

R. J. Hansen, vice president of CN Rail's Prairie region, has announced the approval of a $18-million concrete-tie project, which may spell the end of the day of steel rails on wooden ties. Hansen says a 12-year search for a substitute for the wooden ties has now ended and that concrete was chosen "almost by a process of elimination" since other materials were too weak or costly. Next summer, CN will begin installing concrete ties on a 45-mile stretch of line between Winnipeg and Portage la Prairie. The distance requires about 100,000 ties and could lead to new industry and jobs for Winnipeg. The initial contract will be awarded to the lowest bidder, but Winnipeg firms will be able to offer lower transportation costs for materials for the three year project. Hansen says a substitute tie is needed because of escalating wood costs. With the intoduction of concrete, the railway hopes to save on maintenance costs, though installation costs will be higher. A previous experiment on a fully integrated concrete track in Jasper has shown that concrete ties can stand up to Canada's harsh winters.

JUST A HOUSEWIFE!

Hello, Mrs. Jones, I've just called to say I'm sorry I cried when you phoned me today. No I didn't get angry when your call came at four. Just as eight Cub Scouts burst through the front door: It's just that today I've taken a beating Made ten phone calls for the Home and School Meeting The washing, the ironing, and scrubbing the floor, Were chores I'd finished not too long before. I'd sewn up a drum my daughter needs it this Sunday. And prepared for a meeting with 4-H'ers on Monday. No, the reason I cried, and gave that great yelp Was not cause you'd phoned, and asked for my help The comment that threw me nearly drove me berserk Was - "I'm sure you'll have time, because YOU DON'T WORK!"

Apples . . . keep the doctor away

"The contribution that apples make to the proper functioning of the human system is being confirmed today, hundreds of years after the English coined the well known proverb "an apple a day keeps the doctor away," the original version of which was "ate an apel avore gwain to bed, an' make doctor beg his bread.' "

Newspapers are today carrying one report after another announcing some benefit to the human system caused by apple eating.

The B.C. Dental Association endorses apples as an aid to combating tooth decay, says apples are an excellent substitute for sweet foods between meals.

Michigan State University researchers conducted an experiment in which 500 students each year for three years ate two apples daily. When compared to the non-apple eating student body, it was found the apple eaters had one-third fewer respiratory infections, and only one sixth as many pressure and tension troubles.

A Russian researcher, Dr. B.S Levin found from a study of 180 persons suffering from progressive hypertension in various states, that a diet of raw apples six times a day for three days at a stretch brought sharply reduced blood pressure to 119 of the 180, and two-thirds of the 119 were restored to normal; 80 percent of all the 180 benefitted by the apple diet.

A British dentist writing in the British Dental Journal says the best way for children to keep their teeth clean is to eat plenty of apples and other fruit.

School children in West Lothian County, in Scotland have been getting one-eighth of an apple every day after lunch as part of a tooth cleaning campaign conducted by a Glasgow education committee.

In explaining some of the "secrets of charm" to women, John Robert Powers says that eating apples firms the jaw muscles and is an incomparable aid to skin beauty. "It's a remarkable strong building-block in your resistance against colds and other infections. It makes a capital toothbrush and gum massager".

Experiments conducted by Dr. Ancel Keyes in Minneapolis showed that adding pectin to the diet lowered the levels of cholesterol in the blood, and it was thought therefore to be an aid in combating a heart condition. Apples are one of the best food sources of pectin.

Meet Jamie Littlefeather ...he's proud.

He's eight years old, and one hundred years proud. Proud to be an Albertan. Proud to be a part of the tapestry of people and places and events that make up Alberta. Jamie's ancestors were here in the beginning; they helped make our province what it is today. His heritage forms an important part of the tapestry, but next year two colours really stand out. They're the colours of scarlet and gold, the colours traditionally associated with the R.C.M.P., who have been growing with Alberta for one hundred years. So next year, do yourself proud. Be a part of that centenary. Join the celebrations with Jamie Littlefeather . . . and everyone else who boasts of being an Albertan.

From our proud [illegible] the promise of our [illegible].

The rush of canning and freezing is over. The children are settled into the routine of school. The activities on the home front have slowed down. It's time to catch your breath! Time to do some of the things you enjoy doing — sewing, baking and redecorating. Or you may find that now you have time to set up that record keeping system for keeping track of family living expense. Or maybe it's the time you've been waiting for to sit down with a good book. Whatever activity you had in mind, take time out to do it.

Present were: Crs. Johnston, Knudslien, Laube, Roddick, Sears. Representing towns and villages K. Field, N. Semotiuk, H. Wilkie. Also present: M.S. Bruce, Superintendent of Schools, A. R. Cross, Secretary-Treasurer, R. G. Pepper, Administrative Assistant.

Mr Shihinski felt with moderate renovations to the schools a first class maintenance shop could be built for an approximate cost of $10,000.00.

Moved that the School Committee approve the expenditure of $2,000.00 for the moving of the two outside Viking schools to the Holden maintenance yard and that the two school buildings be renovated to provide a maintenance shop for the School Committee of the County of Beaver.

Eight or nine Grade 11 students at Tofield School would likely register in German 30. However, due to D. Thiessen's leave of absence no instructor was available for teaching the course. It was felt that the School Committee had an obligation to provide for the completion of this sequential program by the students. It was moved that the School Committee pay the cost of correspondence school lessons and also engage D. Thiessen for eighty minutes per week to provide tutorial assistance at an hourly rate to be negotiated by the Superintendent of Schools.

Moved tha the Beaver Regional Recreation and Parks Board be contacted in regard to their intended use of the McKenzie school on the Tofield School Site.

Moved that the School Committee receive and file a letter of appreciation received from Mrs. Helen Piscia for the School Committee gift of a mantel clock upon Mrs. Piscia's retirement from the County of Beaver teaching staff.

Moved that the School Committee adopt Policy 5000 - Confidentiality of Student Records, which states as follows: "It shall be the policy of the School Committee of the County of Beaver that all information in pupil records shall be treated as confidential to the pupil, his parents or legal guardians, and to school district staff and shall be used solely to promote the educational welfare of the student." And that the accompanying regulations be also adopted and the policy and regulations be incorporated into the Handbook of Policies and Regulations.

Moved that the School Committee adopt Policy 80-91 — Teacher Release Time for General Staff Meetings which states as follows:

"It shall be the policy of the School Committee of the County of Beaver to have scheduled for the teaching staff of each of its schools, commencing with the month of October in each school year, release time of forty minutes per month for the purpose of holding a portion of the once monthly general staff meeting to be called by the principal of each school as directed in Policy 8000."

And that the accompanying regulations be also adopted and the policy and regulations be incorporated into the Handbook of Policies and Regulations.

Moved that the School Committee approve the 1973-74 sports calendar.

Correspondence was received from the Director of Special Educational Services of the Department of Education advising that the use of Correspondence School lessons by school age children does not constitute a legal reason for excusing such children from attendance at school.

Moved that the School Committee permit the Vegreville Health unit to use school facilities to conduct the 1973-74 Dental Preventive Program.

Moved that the School Committee table the matter of non-resident student fees to the next regular meeting of the School Committee.

The Operation Report - September 7th was 2083 students. Superintendent of Schools revealed that enrolment on September 7th was 2083 students compared with 2187 in 1972 - a reduction of 104 pupils. Budget and staff planning had been done on a projected enrolment of 2108 pupils. The equivalent of 107.2 teachers were on staff with an overall pupil:teacher ratio of 1:19.5.

Moved that Mrs. Patricia Andrukow be assigned one tenth time to Kinsella staff for the Educational Opportunities Fund program.

Moved that the School Committee approve the expenditure for the supply of an automatic washer and dryer for the Viking Home Economics Room.

Miss Diane Young and Miss Beverely Lawrence were the bride's attendants and wore identical floor length gowns of orange floral polyester sheer. They each carried a bouquet of a large yellow mum surrounded by small orange mums.

Their charming ring bearer was Christopher Bloom of Edmonton.

Granskou Day is declared in Minnesota

A former president of Camrose Lutheran College was honored with his own "day" in the State of Minnesota yesterday (Tuesday).

Dr. Clemens M. Granskou, interim president of CLC for a one-year term seven years ago was honored by the State for his contribution to education and the church over a long period.

In appreciation for his contributions, the Governor of the State of Minnesota declared Tuesday, November 6th as "Clemens Granskou Day".

Dr. Granskou had been president of St. Olaf College for nearly twenty years and the college named the building complex of the administration and students center as the Clemens Granskou Center.

Yesterday was Founders' Day at the college and, during special ceremonies, Mrs. Granskou received the Regents' Award for her assistance through the years.

HE'S an export salesman for Canadian agricultural products like rapeseed.

He has contacts—buyers who know him and have demonstrated their preference for doing business with him.

He has helped to make rapeseed a significant Canadian crop by competing effectively in a difficult world market where there are many substitute sources and substitute products.

Some days he might choose between spending his time at the shops along the Ginza or at selling your grain.

Aren't you glad he works on commission?

Before you cast your ballot in the rapeseed poll, we suggest you give the matter plenty of thought.

Gas co-op gets pipe

The Anderton Natural Gas Co-op has obtained a supply of pipe for installation of their gas lines.

The pipe will be delivered and stock piled during the winter with installation of the lines to commence as soon as the frost leaves the ground.

Some pipe has already arrived and more is expected within the next few days and, directors are still hopeful of installing two taps, serving 45 customers before winter really sets in.

Plans have been finalized for such an installation and governmental approval is expected before the end of the week. If the government approves the plans, and the needed pipe arrives, the directors expect to meet later this week to award a contract for the installation of the two taps.

Calling a spade a "spade"

Exactly what was the question?

By WAYNE HOWELL

And Heeeeeeeeere . . . here's Johnny! (applause)

"Thanks Ed. O we've got a swell group out there tonight. And I'd like you all to give a big welcome to my first guest, Dr. E. R. Bottomsworthy, the medical scientist who's created quite a stir in the press by openly advocating the legalization of marijuana." (applause)

"It's a pleasure to have you on our show doctor - may I call you E.R. A lot of people think your courageous stand on cannabis makes sense E. R. But there are still some who say we don't know all the long term effects of steady cannabis use. "What do you say to those people E.R.?"

"Well Johnny, I usually point out the study they did down at U.C.L.A. where they took one thousand, three hundred and . . . and, well it was quite a few regular cannabis users, and after studying them for . . . for . . . say, what was the question you asked me Johnny?"

"I said E.R., 'What do you say to people who worry about the long term effects of cannabis?"

"Sure Johnny. I'll go along with you there. I couldn't disagree with you on that one."

"No, No. E. R. We seem to be getting our wries crossed here. I said, "What do you say to people who worry about the long term effects of cannabis"

"Oh . . . what do I say to them? Well Johnny, I say there is no clear cut evidence one way or the other. There are those who claim heavy users have some loss of memory and difficulty in concentration but let's face it Johnny, there is a lot of research in this field that is heavily biased. For instance, just the other day I read a paper in the Journal of . . . the Journal of . . the point is Johnny it was a scientific journal of great repute. The name escapes me for the moment, now what was the question Johnny?"

"I said E.R., 'What do you say to people who worry about the long term effects of cannabis?'"

"Ho Ho . . . you're some comedian Johnny. You asked me that question already! (laughter and applause).

"Well let's move along then E.R. Aren't you worried we might end up with a cannabis problem similar to the alcohol problem. Might we not get 3 or 4 percent of the population going around stoned on cannabis all the time just like the 3 per cent of the population that become alcoholics?"

"You can't compare the two drugs Johnny. That's where people make their mistake. Alcohol causes debilitation, you know it leads to cirrhosis of the . . . the . . . what's that big organ, you know, the one that grows under the ribs. . . "

"That's the liver E.R."

"Right. Well cannabis doesn't cause cirrhosis of the liver and it doesn't cause gastritis or bursitis of the elbow joint or any of those nasty things alcoholics get.

"So as far as you are concerned, cannabis is safe and ought to be legalized."

"I can't remember reading anything to the contrary Johnny."

Rapeseed for feed

In his presentation to the Alberta High Energy Grain and Oilseed Conference recently, Dr. Don Clandinin of the university of Alberta outlined some of the attributes of rapeseed meal. about the same time a statement by Gordon Jack, a nutritionist at the Alberta Soil and Feed Laboratory, pointed out the danger of feeding unprocessed rapeseed.

The two statements are compatible: one speaks of a meal, processed in such a way that the enzyme myrosinase is deactivated, the other speaks of rapeseed screenings and whole rapeseed, raw and unprocessed.

Even then Mr. Jack points out that ruminant animals render myrosinase harmless through the fremenlation in the rumen. Unprocessed rapeseed should be used with care in feeding swine and poultry, however, rapeseed meal is juite suitable for feeding all classes of livestock.

Dr. Clandinin pointed out that rapeseed meal contains about 38 percent protein. When one examines the amino acid composition of this protein it is found to compare quite favorably with soybean meal. While rapeseed meal protein contains slightly less lysine than SBM protein it contains appreciably more methionine than SBM protein. Hence, these two protein-rich feedstuffs tend to complement each other in ration formulations.

The metabolizable energy value of RSM for poultry is somewhat lower in energy content than SBM and rations containing RSM should have the energy level increased by adding an ingredient of high energy content, such as stabilized tallow.

RSM contains about double the amount of total phosphorus found in SBM.

Tofield students plan a yearbook

By Heather Appleby

The Tofield High School Student's Union has been looking into the possibilities of publishing a 1973 - 74 school yearbook.

Ideally, it would include pictures of elementary, junior high and senior high students, staff members, student organizations, sports groups, group pictures of recent graduating classes and if possible, pictorial advertising. Included in pictorial advertising would be pictures of the different business places, their respective managements, employees or owners.

A school yearbook has not been published since the 1967 Centennial edition and students feel that, like the last one, another yearbook would be of considerable historical value in future years as a pictorial of the community in 1973. Of course, the length of the year book and the number of organizations and activities that can be included is entirely dependent upon the number of books people will order and the amount of advertising subscribed to.

Buck demands "drug" removed from stores

A Social Credit Opposition MLA Friday demanded immediate provincial action to have a non-prescription asthma drug removed from pharmacy shelves.

Dr. Walter Buck, a Fort Saskatchewan dentist and the MLA for Clover Bar, said the action should be taken following the disclosure that the drug isoproterenol hydrochloride was regarded as "very suspect" in the death of a Calgary man who collapsed Tuesday.

Dr. Buck reminded Health and Social Development Minister Neil Crawford and Consumer Affairs Minister Bob Dowling that he had asked about the drug in the legislature.

He proposed the drugs should be taken off the market until their effects are fully studied but "both ministers neglected their responsibilities when they sluffed it off as a federal matter in response to my questions and suggestions.

A Social Credit spokesman said the provincial government has the power within provincial statutes to restrict the distribution of the drug.

Doctors have said the drug is not dangerous when taken in correct doses, and is effective in relieving asthmatic symptoms.

Federal government experts have been reported as being concerned about the drug for six years, and federal Health Minister Marc Lalonde has said the drug may be restricted to prescription in "a couple of weeks."

Fingerprinting oil spills . . .

By PETER WARD

OTTAWA (CE) A few years ago when the U.S. supertanker Manhattan was butting her way through Canada's arctic ice fields, pollution of the seas by oil tankers was a big issue in the country.

During the past year the sea pollution issue seems to have died. But given what we know, the assumption that something has been done about this danger is inexcusable.

This fall another maritime pollution story surfaced. This one reported that five million tons of crude oil are dumped into the oceans of the world annually by the international tanker fleet - deliberate pollution in the interests of saving a few bucks. The oil dumping story was presented as a crime because it wasted fuel in these days of energy shortages.

Pollution was mentioned as a side light to the lead of the story.

But such dumping of oil - which increases annually as the world tanker fleet increases in size - is also gradually killing off the micro-organisms in the top few centimeters of sea water which produce the world's oxygen supply. It's difficult to overstate the dangers of bilge-pumping and tank-washing on the high seas. Under present international rules, it's equally difficult to stop it.

Canada could take a lead at next year's Law of the Sea Conference by proposing or backing new international rules to require every tanker to carry chemical coding in cargo and bilges. Chemial additives can simply be added to oil cargoes, which in effect fingerprint the ship.

With such a fingerprinting system for all ships, samples from oil slicks could be definitely traced and owners of the ship responsible prosecuted.

Surely it should be possible for nations of the world to refuse access to their waters to ships which refuse to submit to chemical coding of their cargoes, and surely, too, stiff penalties can be formulated which would end the senseless practice of dumping millions of tons of crude oil into the oceans of the world every year.

Whose oil sands?

A great deal of concern has been stirred up in Alberta over the announcement that Ottawa has been studying the legal possibility of declaring the Alberta Oil Sands to be national fields, under a technicality, apparently, referring to their being worked mechanically. And the disavowals from Honorable Mr. Donald MacDonald have done little to stem the concern . . . . after all, Albertans have heard disavowals from Mr. MacDonald before, haven't we? And the last time, we found out he wasn't proposing to impose a tax of forty cents per barrel on oil after all . . . he was proposing to raise it to a whopping $1.70 per barrel.

Oddly, it seems to us, we haven't heard many sounds from the other provinces, over either Mr. MacDonald's earlier proposal to tax Alberta oil, or over this later suggestion of taking over control of the oilfields, even though ownership would, technically, continue to rest with the province.

Under this reading of the statute, even farm products could be considered to have been recovered by mechanical means. It must be made abundantly clear that no one province can be treated this way without all being imperilled, and this must obviously be highly unacceptable.

In some ways, it appears that Ottawa is trying to find alternative ways to bulldoze Alberta into submitting to the tax imposed . . "or else". Another proposal is the tempting bribe to offer the province forty percent of the revenues from the tax, and any government would have to look twice at such huge amounts of money as would be involved.

Whatever the rights or wrongs of the tax case, we can't help but feel that it's to the credit of the Lougheed government that they've doggedly stuck to their guns and said they want no part of it. If they feel the tax is illegal, dishonest and immoral in the first place, it doesn't become any less so simply because they're sharing in the loot.

Remembrance Day

Bands play, veterans march, crowds watch as wreaths are laid on Cenotaphs to honour the dead of two World Wars. But how few remember the living, confined to veteran's hospitals across Canada!

Are the only ones who care the wives, mother and sisters, mostly older women, who day after day and year after year visit their husbands, sons and brothers? One of these women (God pity her) has been coming to the hospital for the past ten years. Others are obviously prepared to tread the same Via Dolorosa.

Many of the older patients are paralyzed, senile or in a state of near-coma. They do not really know who has visited them, yet their wives make the daily pilgrimage. Love does not recognize these changes, but it cannot abandon the loved one. These are the women who endure as Shakespeare says: "Like patience on a monument smiling at grief".

Others, the wives of younger and physically-disabled patients who require constant nursing care, come daily to provide the companionship all of us need, especially in ill-health or old age. Day after day, you see these women pushing the chairs of their legless, armless, crippled, near-paralyzed men down the hospital's long corridors. Over the heads of their husbands, the eyes of "the Colonel's Lady and Judy O'Grady" meet - - there's a faint smile of recognition for they've grown to know one another. Above all there is a sense of silent communication - - of sympathetic understanding.

They know how to be kindly and encouraging to their men without ever committing themselves. How does one answer a man who he asks, "Am I going to be here for the rest of my life?"

Quite a number of the patients are [illegible]

Unfair ballotting

Mundare, Alberta
November 12, 1973

The Editor:

Next month rapeseed producers will be faced with an important decision. They must decide whether their crop shall be marketed in an orderly way where each producer shall have equal marketing opportunity and share in a pooled price, or whether to allow a system that permits non-producers to profit from the labour, risks, and investment of producers to continue.

These non-producer interests will not give up their profit-making opportunities easily. One can predict that they will mount an extensive campaign of deception through every means available to them, with the object of creating confusion or convincing producers that they are really nice guys in the best interests of the producer.

A great deal of thought has gone into the way the rapeseed marketing poll will be conducted and especially the design of the mailed questionnaire. Every precaution has been taken to ensure that the poll will bring the kind of answer that Otto Lang and his cabinet colleagues, (some of whom are intimately connected with the Winnipeg Commodities Exchange which has been successful in extracting a healthy profit out of dealing in the Rapeseed trade) want.

For example, at least 60% of those returning the "ballot" must mark it as being in favour of orderly marketing of rapeseed through the Canadian Wheat Board, thus making it possible for the minority to rule! . . . but the really dirty trick is that anyone who chooses to mark the ballot "undecided" will really be voting AGAINST orderly marketing whether they realize it or not!

Does Mr. Lang think farmers are so dumb that they won't see through his trickery?

I am,

Yours truly,
Wm. Dascavich

Borosiuk-Appleby vows exchanged in September

The Tofield United Church was the setting of a lovely fall candlelight wedding on September 15, 1973 when Nette Agnes and John Henry were united in marriage.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Appleby and the groom is the son of Mrs. M. Borosuik and the late M. Borosiuk of Edmonton.

Rev. S. Bessey offiaiated at the double ring ceremony. The candle lighter was Master Gregg Kostash of Vegreville nephew of the groom. The ushers were Dennis Borosuik brother of the groom and Arden Ziegler cousin of the bride. Guests pews were marked with flowers which had been brought from Switzerland.

Mrs. J. Kaufman was organist and Mrs. H. Schultz was solist who sang "More" during the ceremony and "The Wedding Prayer" while the registar was being signed. The bride entered the church on the arm of her father. She was radiant in a floor length white crepe gown featuring a long train trimmed with lace, her shoulder length viel was held in place by a pearl and lace head piece, her bouquet was of shrimp colored roses and babies breath.

The bridesmaid were Miss Susan Appleby her sister, Miss Kathy Regehr, and Miss Rose Borosiuk, sister of the groom. They wore shrimp crepe princess style gowns trimmed with lace and carried daisy and babies breath bouquets.

The groom was attended by Ed Borosiuk his brother, L. Wygle and D. Ritchie of Edmonton.

For her daughter's wedding, the bride's mother wore a floor length polyester sheer blue and pink floral patterned gown with pink roses corsage. The groom's mother were a floor length green figured gown with red roses.

A reception for 200 guests was held in the Tofield Community Hall followed by a dance. Kenneth Appleby, brother of the bride, was master of ceremony and introduced Arthur Ziegler of Vegreville who proposed the toast to the bride to which the groom fittingly replied. Miss Sonja Hunchak of Edmonton was in charge of the guest book.

The happy couple spent a three-week honeymoon traveling in the United States. The bride's going away attire was a dark brown pant suit with an orchid corsage.

Take advantage of the handicapped.

If you hire people
And want capable, productive, committed employees, you should be hiring the handicapped worker.

Firstly, the word 'handicapped' is misleading. When a worker is disabled he has many skills remaining that maximize his ability and are not affected by his disability.

In that sense, he is not handicapped at all. He is an equal competitor at his skill. And he asks no favors.

Most disabled people have developed new skills. They show incredibly high standards of productivity.
They appreciate their jobs.
And they are stable and reliable.
They have a little extra to prove.
All they ask for is the chance.

A good businessman can spot a solid investment. Hiring the disabled is smart business. Our case histories prove this. Contact our Vocational Rehabilitation Department and see what we have to offer.
Then take advantage of it.

Don Mazankowski

Report from Parliament Hill

HOUSE OF COMMONS
OTTAWA
November 6, 1973

DON MAZANKOWSKI, M.P.

The subject of energy and oil politics has been very much in vogue, both in the House and in the public forum, since our return to Ottawa on October 15th.

The debate has intensified as a result of developments in the Middle East and has caused a great deal of apprehension and uncertainty concerning crude oil supplies to Canada east of the Ottawa Valley. Eastern requirements are supplied by foreign crude oil sources and the Middle East accounts for approximately 27 per cent of the supply or roughly, 200 thousand barrels per day. With the proposed cutback of 25 per cent production announced by the Arab States this could result in a shortfall of some 50 thousand barrels per day which will have to be met by other sources.

The uncertainty arises from the category under which Canada falls as far as the Arab States are concerned in respect of their oil export policy. They have basically divided their customers into three distinct groups. First the friendly countries which include the U.K., France and other countries in which no cutbacks of supply will take place. Secondly, is the neutral list to which Canada has been assigned. Under this arrangement it entitles us to receive equitable division of the reduced production as a result of general overall cutbacks.

This formula contains many variables and therefore results in difficulty in determining exact figures. The third category is the so-called unfriendly countries which include the U.S. and the Netherlands which are cut off completely from any shipments.

In addition to the 25 per cent cutback in production for the month of November the Arab States have announced a further planned reduction of five per cent per month to be extended to the end of the current winter.

Another major supplier of crude oil to Eastern Canada is Venezuela which accounts for roughly 45 to 50 per cent of the needs. In this case Eastern refiners have been subjected to large price increases in the order of 50 per cent, which has now driven the price beyond the traditional higher price of Western crude. For example, the most common crude imported from Venezuela in January 1973 was priced at $3.09 per barrel, this price has now been increased to $5.24 per barrel and has, consequently, exerted pressure in increasing consumer prices.

Back in September the Government imposed a price freeze on the oil industry as an anti-inflationary measure. However the last round of increases in crude oil prices prompted the Government to lift the freeze on November 1st on all oil products derived from off-shore crude which will generally effect the area east of the Ottawa Valley. We now then, have a two price policy in effect in Canada for domestic use and yet another price for exports.

The November 1st announcement extended the price freeze to February 1st 1974 on Western crude at $4.00 per barrel and increased the Federal Government surtax from 40 cents per barrel to $1.90 per barrel on all oil exports to the U.S.

This unilateral move by the Federal Government has widened the rift between the Governments of Alberta and Ottawa. For the second time in two months, the Federal Government has imposed arbitrary measures against this province without meaningful consultation and negotiation notwithstanding the fact the oil resources are the property owned by the people of Alberta.

The Federal Government has not yet made it clear how the surtax will be distributed, or precisely what it plans to do with the revenue. In addition, the result of the continued price freeze and the lack of consensus concerning royalties and tax application together with the absence of a clear National Energy policy appears to place the Syncrude project in considerable jeopardy.

I am thoroughly convinced that Canada has sufficient reserves available at its disposal to meet its present and future needs provided the resources are developed and provided the climate of Government policies is conducive to such development. Security of supply can best be assured by providing the supplies from within the country.

To me, the lack of an Energy Policy, the uncertainty caused by unilateral Government action has placed the future development of our oil resoures in severe jeopardy and, therefore, immediate steps must be instituted to restore faith and confidence between governments and industry.

The current breakdown of communication between Alberta and Ottawa does not auger well in meeting the emergency situation in Eastern Canada. In any event, contingency plans must be established, among which include:

1) attempts to gain increased supplies from Venezuela to which Venezuela has indicated it would not be interested unless some national petroleum marketing company is established in Canada. This, the Government is currently considering.

2) shipments of western crude to Ontario and Montreal via the Seaway. At this late date the capacity is limited because of the winter freeze-up and the industry is operating currently at near capacity, unless exports are cut further.

3) voluntary conservation measures and, as a final measure mandatory allocation programs, or rationing.

It is noteworthy that in June, 1969, the Independent Petroleum Association of Canada recommended to the Prime Minister, and his Cabinet, the advisability of extension of a pipeline to Montreal to supply some of the eastern market. At this time western oil fields were producing at half capacity. The Government flatly refused and told Western Canada to peddle its crude oil surplus wherever it could and that Government policy was to allow Montreal to be supplied by cheap foreign oil. The West did, and today is being penalized for its actions while the East faces the uncertainty of high prices and a cold winter. Stability of price and assurance of supply could have been provided and should be our goal for the future.

The Government now faces the challenge of meeting the current needs as well as future needs. The future needs will not be met by undue arbitrary Federal Government interference in the industry, which has the effect of reducing exploration and development.

More than 250 sternwheeler riverboats plied the Yukon river from 1896 to 1944. All except for a handful, the big majestic river boats either sank or have been dismantled.

Climbing world food prices

Prospects of hampering the world food price spiral are improving. The European Community nations continue to be plagued by inflation and on June 28th pledged an accelerated fight against this scourge. However, as elsewhere in the world, rising food prices have been a major target in this effort and bringing them in line is largely dependent on supply.

The United Kingdom, with food prices up 16.3 percent in the year ended this May, has posted an especially steep climb.

While beef originally led the EC food price spiral, other meats are now taking the spotlight.

In West Germany, a price survey revealed prospects for slightly reduced beef prices in the months ahead as a result of expanded supplies, but higher prices for increasingly scarce pork and eggs.

In Italy, pork prices in early July declined as consumers were encouraged to eat more pork instead of switching so heavily to poultry from beef.

France through April has managed to keep its retail food price increases below those of most other EC countries with an 8.8 percent gain in its price index from a year earlier.

The Netherlands has experienced soaring prices for good quality beef during the last 2 months. Pork prices also have been climbing in response to expanded domestic and export demand.

In Belgium, food prices continued to rise in June, but at a slower rate than in recent previous months.

Japanese food price problems were further compounded by serious pollution of fish, of which the Japanese consume over 70 pounds per capita annually.

U.S. retail food prices through June were up 13.6 percent from the previous year.

Canadian consumers continued to reel from the steepest price gains in recent history — 16.7 percent for the year ended June 1973.

As these and other countries tighten their belts and reevaluate agricultural policies and dietary habits, they can look forward to some relief in the price spiral. Seasonal declines are now beginning to take place in fresh fruits and vegetables and later, harvests of grains should help alleviate shortages of animal feeds.

Brazil's soybean production in 1972 was 3.34 million metric tons, more than 50 percent above the previous year's level.

SOME of them may be. Others are trying to sell your crop at the highest price they can get. Some of them are trying to buy your crop for export or processing at a competitive price.

This is the "Trading Pit" of The Winnipeg Commodity Exchange. Here, men work on behalf of themselves or their companies—to buy as low as possible—to sell as high as possible. Which makes them no better or no worse than anybody else you deal with.

What makes it work is that they're in competition with each other. Which means that their bidding goes to the highest price. They don't "Negotiate." If they did, they could not continue to deal here.

When there aren't as many trade buyers as sellers, or vice versa, the speculator may enter the market. He thinks he sees a chance to make money. Sometimes he does. Usually he doesn't. But he does add competition to the market on both sides.

The Winnipeg Commodity Exchange's Board of Governors see to it that the open market is truly an open market. Every transaction is reported, immediately, so that you know what prices foreign and domestic buyers are paying.

Is it all in the best interest of the farmer? The only way anybody can buy your crop is to pay a higher price for it than anybody else is willing to pay for it at any particular time. And, what could be more to the farmer's interest than that?

Before you cast your ballot in the rapeseed poll, we suggest you give the matter plenty of thought.

After all, once you surrender freedom of choice, you never get it back.

We recently attended an Alberta Department of Agriculture Conference in Edmonton. The following is an exerpt from one of the speakers presentations. I thought his point was well put and I'd like to share it with you.

As we look at an energy shortage, clean air policy, oil spills and the population explosion, we see for the first time in North America a potential food crises. Not a crisis in the sense of starvation as is prevalent in India or Africa but a crisis that for the first time the consumer is aware that food is a valuable commodity.

Consumers continue to buy their color televisions, stereos, two cars, snowmobiles, campers and many other "necessities" but consider it their God given right that meat should not cost more than $1.00 per pound. Consider today that an hours' wage buys 3.1 pounds of meat. Ten years ago it bought 1.8 pounds. Less than 16 percent of our income goes for food. Ten years ago that figure was 20 percent; twenty years ago it was 22 percent. In England 25 percent of income goes for food, in Japan 35, in Russia 58, in most Asian countries 81. As long as North American governments continue to support a cheap food policy, we will be fighting a losing battle to "Keep the boy down on the farm."

Dewberry cattle sale draws few customers

The Dewberry & District Agricultural Society held its first annual Registered British Breed All-Female Sale in the new arena on Friday, November 2, with J. R. Blacklock of Saskatoon, auctioneering.

The quality of the cattle offered was outstanding. They were well presented to the buyers who were few in numbers. The drop in cattle prices in conjunction with many crops still unharvested in the area, no doubt tended to keep the prices low and all buyers went away very pleased with their purchases.

In the Angus section, 10 head averaged $300 each. 1st and 2nd high selling lots were consigned by Kennedy Bros., Islay and sold to Don Braithwaite, Dewberry for $400 and $390 each. The 3rd High seller consigned by W. H. Warrilow, Mistatim was also bought by Don Braithwaite for $310.

14 lots of Shorthorns averaged $393. High seller was a cow consigned by Milton Hennig, Andrew and going to Ken Stone & Son, Vermilion for $450. 2nd and 3rd high sellers, entered by Jester Elliott & Sons, Dewberry, sold to Rolly Bateman, Vermilion at $440 each.

There was 45 lots of consigned Herefords sold at an average of $585. Top seller from Jester Elliott & Sons sold to David Attfield, Clandonald at $1500. M. S. McKinney, McBride was the successful bidder on the entry of Eric Elliott at $1450 and the 3rd high seller, an entry of David Attfield, Clandonald sold at $1050 to Ray Etherington Family, Clandonald.

In December 1969, Kost & Emily Sorochak, Mundare, entered into the registered Polled Hereford business with the purchase of a number of top young females from the herds of Howard and Ronald Brown of Tofield. These were added to with purchases made at the Western Classic. Illness forced Mr. Sorochak to disperse his herd in the Dewberry Sale.

Top selling animal was a 2 year old heifer, a granddaughter of 4 Square Leonard 25L selling at $850 to Jester & Betty Elliott, Dewberry. Her May 6 heifer calf sold to Arnold Milsap of Lamont for $360. The herdsire, Donhaz Lamp Prince 1A, went to John Fegirchuk, Hairy Hill for $800. Gordon Zeigler, Vegreville, picked up a top Beaver Nook Square 5Z daughter at $760.

Volume buyers at the sale were Margaret Keichinger, Streamstown, who purchased 10 head; C. H. Sampson, Lloydminster, Bruce Craige, Dewberry, and The Ray Etherington Family, Clandonald, who all went home with 9 head each.

Final rites scheduled for late Walli Fisher

Funeral services for the late Brynhild Amanda Fisher, better known as Walli Fisher, will be held tomorrow (Friday) in Tofield.

Services will be held at the Tofield Lutheran Church at 10.30 a.m. with Rev. Lokken officiating. Interment will follow in Provost Eye Hill Cemetery. Burgar Funeral Home is handling all arrangements.

Mrs Fisher passed away suddenly in Fairview on Sunday following a heart attack in her 66th year. She is survived by her husband, Jim; two sisters, Mrs. Ida Clark of Camrose and Mrs. Ray Burke of Galahad, one brother, John in Colinton; five nieces; and a nephew.

Mrs Fisher came to Canada in 1916 and moved to Tofield in 1959 where she was quite active in community affairs, acting as secretary of the Tofield Municipal Board, as well as holding other community posts. She taught school for many years and had been secretary of the Municipality of Grosmont and the secretary-treasurer of the Athabasca Municipal Hospital. In addition, she was the bookkeeper and a partner in the family business.

Pallbearers for the funeral will be Dan Dodds, Bill Davison, Arnold Swift, Ray Hendrickson, Bill Christiansen and Verlyn Moos, all of Tofield, while Mrs. John Wall and Mrs. E. Regehr will sing a duet during the service.

In lieu of flowers, memorial donations should be sent to the Heart Fund, Crippled Children, Provost Eye Cemetery Fund or to any organization of your choice.

Disability fund will help the slow learners

For the next three school years starting in September, 1973 the Department of Education has established the learning Disabilities Fund funded at the rate of ten dollars for each pupil enrolled in grades one to six in a school system. During the 1973-74 school year this assistance to the County of Beaver will amount to approximately ten thousand dollars.

The Learning Disabilities Fund provides financial assistance to school boards to enable them to obtain the services of highly qualified people to diagnose learning disabilities in pupils, prepare remedial learning programs for them, and to teach children with learning disabilities or to provide in-service to teachers in regular classrooms who would then teach these pupils.

Since these specialists are in short supply and because it was felt that a team approach would be preferable to having access to only one specialist, the School Committee of the County of Beaver has signed a one year agreement with the Child Development Centre, Edmonton, to provide services under the Learning Disabilities Fund on a twenty pupils will be serviced during the present school year.

The Child Development Centre is anticipated, will carry out intensive diagnosis and treatment of complex cases. It has available to it the services of psychologists, psychiatrists, pediatricians, neurologists ophthalmologists audiologists speech specialists and other medical specialists. Children referred to medical specialists will have their diagnosis and treatment paid by the Alberta Health Care Insurance Commission and Blue Cross where parents have such coverage Children of parents who do not have such coverage will not be referred since the costs would be prohibitive without such coverage. Educational assessments and treatment will be paid by funds from the Learning Disabilities Fund.

The Child Development Centre a charitable and non-profit research organization is located in St. Stephens College on the Campus of the University of Alberta. President is Ernest Mercoy M.D. Chairman of the Department of Pediatrics University of Alberta Dr. Jane Silvius and Dr Dennis Brannner both specialists in learning disabilities are Clinical Director and Administrative Director respectively

The C.E.L.D.I.C. Report suggests that an estimated 10 - 25 per cent of school children are suffering from a learning disability and or related problem. It adds that one disability is sufficiently pronounced that it

Plugging the loopholes

Consumer Affairs Minister Bob Dowling was given authority to make several needed changes in regulations protecting consumers last week, with the passing of Bill 88 of this session.

While we sometimes think things are moving too fast in trying to prevent the consumer from making an idiot of himself, we do agree there was already a demonstrated need for the protection offered under the provision requiring trust accounts for down payments received under contracts, and more essential information within contracts.

The old days when house purchasers, for instance, dealt fairly directly with the builder of their single house have changed to the point where most purchasers realize they must deal with developers of large blocks of buildings, and the picture changed.

We've been fortunate here, for instance, where there has been little history of development firms going broke before the job was done (one which comes to mind was a cemetery proposal a few years ago) but in other centres it has become a real plague, often victimizing people who have no recourse, and who are past the age when they can stand any loss whatever. Often, it is suspected, the entire development program has been launched with fraud or larceny in mind.

The new regulations will require much more stringent trust accounting, as well as permitting prosecution of the officers or employees of companies which have committed offences, people who were formerly protected all too often, from legal liability as a result of their actions.

It is probably just such people who were most in need of being removed from their secure, free and exempt status.

Tame the wind

Rather interestingly it seems the increasing emphasis on energy shortage has resulted in not one, but two, promotional items crossing our desks recently dealing with the potential energy going to waste in the wind. One comes from Australia, the other from Europe, but both refer to the so-called windmills which dotted the prairies a number of years ago, but which gradually fell into dis-use.

Properly, the studies point out, they should have been called windplants, but this is only a technicality. The point they make is that the older units were comparatively simple in design and operation. The brushes wore out, so did the commutator. They wouldn't put out much power until the wind hit a pretty stiff speed. They interfered, apparently, with radio reception and latterly with television reception, so that when they wore out, and as rural electrification spread, the plants fell into disfavor and dis-use.

All that has changed, say the proponents of these new units. Using newer modes of technology, brushless, alternator-type electricity producers with two sets of blades, mounted on the same shaft with opposing rotors, the new units will work with as little as six to eight miles per hour . . . and on the prairies it's almost never that still. There's no radio interference, either.

But best of all, the new plants are reputed to be able to turn out far heavier loads than the old units, in some instances enough to displace conventional hydro or thermal power. Based on the growing energy shortage, there is increasing interest being shown in plants that might tend to harness the wind, for there seems little likelihood of exhausting the wind, as seems to be the outlook for some of our non-renewable resources.

Probably large storage pools or reservoirs might have to be considered, but these, too, have been made far simpler and far more effective than used to be the case with the developing of new metals, new conductors, and new chemistry.

We don't suppose it's going to affect the engineering studies of Calgary Power very much in the next few years, but who knows . . . wind power may be a factor to reckon with before we're able to justify the cost factors involved in switching to nuclear power, which has been often talked about.

U.S. turns on to energy crisis

By Ralph Novak

NEW YORK (CEF)

"There's an energy crisis!" shouted Lance Sterling, the typical neighbor down the block.

"I can't hear you," shouted back Mrs. Sterling, his typical housewife. "The electric squash blender is making too much noise."

"I said that there's an energy crisis," Sterling repeated, more loudly this time. "I just heard about it on the radio while I was watching the game of the week on TV."

"I still can't hear you," Mrs. Sterling replied, adjusting her hair dryer bonnet. "The dishwasher is still on its wash cycle."

Sterling struggled to his feet and went over to his electric typewriter, where he pecked out, ENERGY CRISIS" and took the piece of paper into the kitchen.

His wife looked at it and nodded.

"Oh, that's all right," she said. "You can cut the grass tomorrow; it should be a nicer day for a ride anyway."

Sterling stuffed the paper down the disposal in a fit of exasperation, then ran over to the wall and defiantly unplugged his wife.

Scowling she deliberately walked over to pick up the microphone from the house intercom system and turned the volume switch to the "alert" level.

"What do you think you're doing?" she boomed. "You know I have my stereo earphones built into my hair dryer and I was just listening to the soundtrack of "Hello, Dolly'."

Sterling got a can of beer from the refrigerator and walked to the electric flip-top flipper to open it. Then he said, "Don't you know there's an energy crisis going on around here?"

"No, I don't," she said huffily. "I do know that I'm freezing, though. Every time I turn up the heat, you turn up the air conditioner."

"That's irrelevent," Sterling screamed.

"Ssshhhh," Mrs. Sterling said. "You'll disturb the children right when they're in the middle of their electric tiddly-winks game."

"You don't understand," he answered. "There's a national energy crisis. We're running out of gas, oil, coal, everything. The government is asking us to make sacrifices. I may even have to give up my electric pencil sharpener."

"I hope this discussion isn't going to take too much longer," she said. "I have to go down to fill the automatic fish feeder. The automatic fish feeder filler is broken, you know."

"Yes, even in a crisis situation, life must go on," Sterling said. "But I want to find out more about this. I think I'll drive down to the corner and buy a paper."

Tofield Nov 21st

Dear Sir:

My first trip to Hesston, Kansas."

Leaving Tofield Friday morning, November 2nd at 5:00 a.m., Douglas Kauffman, Martha Lauber and myself, Petra Stauffer accompanied Milo Stauffer by car on a trip that took us to Omaha Nebraska and Hesston Kansas.

We left Tofield on a snowy morning and drove in the same conditions all day way into North Dakota where we hit [illegible] that almost made us stop as visability was almost nil but, as Canadians we really know how to handle the different road conditions so we continued on, stopping at Jamestown overnight.

Left there at 6:00 a.m. on Saturday morning and arrived at Hesston at 7:30 in the evening. No snow there but clouds and rain.

Here we parted company, Martha went with her sister [illegible] Bretzmann and Milo [illegible] friend's house [illegible] Clara Bren[illegible] a niece [illegible]

We [illegible] in Omaha, Nebraska [illegible] Hesston we [illegible] Tofielders' relatives and friends Joe and [illegible] their [illegible] Stutz [illegible] of Mrs. [illegible] Reil [illegible] met with [illegible] acquaintance.

We visited many places of interest such as the Hesston Bible School the Senior Citizens Home called "The [illegible]" a large Foundation employing 1700 men and women, this is really a big concern, and by getting around like we did with friends, we saw the towns and cities around, also the hospital in Mount ridge where Clara's daughter was confined.

Many new friends did I make at the Senior Citizen Home. So with many new places of interest and along with big meals with friends the time went far too fast.

Leaving Hesston behind, we left for home on Tuesday, November 13th, and arrived home Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. in the evening finding many inches of snow awaiting us.

So, I can say I came home to work, but, I want to say if you want a nice ride take it with the young people, no generation gap.

Thank you again Milo and Doug for the wonderful trip we had.

Sincerely,
Petra Stauffer

Alberta's new drivers licence near foolproof

A new plastic drivers license identification card will contain all information found on the current drivers license along with a color photograph of the licensee and his or her signature both sealed in plastic through a heat treatment process.

Crime Laboratories of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police have made several attempts at license and have assured the Department of Highways and Transport that duplication or forgery or making any changes would be extremely difficult.

Drivers licenses are now issued for a five year period. Just before an individuals drivers license expires, he will be mailed a new application form which he must take to one of some 100 locations in the province. He will sign the drivers license and have a color photograph of himself taken in front of bonded staff. The picture will be attached to the license followed by a heat sealing process to make the license tamper proof. The entire process will occur at one of 100 locations and should take no more than five minutes Mr. Copithorne states.

Generally drivers licenses may be obtained through the government Motor Vehicles Branches in Edmonton, Calgary Lethbridge and Medicine Hat plus all Treasury Branches throughout the Province of Alberta. In addition, the Alberta Motor Association offices will be making the license issuing services available. Local issuing offices have also been established in Banff, Fox Creek, Gleichen, Grand Cache, Hinton, High Level, Jasper, Redwater, Slave Lake, Valleyview, Swan Hills, Fort Chipwyan and Fort McMurray.

The new drivers license will not carry with it an additional charge. The current license fee is $2.00 per year or $10.00 for a five year period and that licensing fee will be maintained, Mr. Copithorne advises.

"We anticipate a rush on the new drivers license identification card in the first year and have, therefore, geared our operations to handle those persons wishing to obtain the new license even though their current drivers license has not expired. Anyone wishing to obtain the new photo-on drivers license need only apply to one of the 100 locations throughout the Province and obtain the necesforms. These forms must then be filled out, at which time the Department of Highways and Transport will forward an application to the individual who will then be required to report for the actual picture taking and signature process."

The Department if Highways and Transport expects to issue approximately 325,000 drivers licenses each year. However, due to the anticipated demand or replacement licenses, the first year distribution could run as high as 400,000, Mr. Copithorne stated.

A five year contract to supply materials, films, equipment, and servicing has been awarded to an Alberta firm, Photo Ident Ltd. of Edmonton, Mr. Copithorne advised that public tenders were called with the Alberta firm receiving the contract award.

Currently there are just over 1,000,000 licensed drivers in the Province of Alberta. It will take approximately five years to hande the complete replacement of the new photo license.

Tofield School has "book week" contest

by Lynn Warner

Farley Mowat, well-known Canadian author, is this year's patron of Young Canada's Book Week.

His message to the Canadian public in support of Young Canada's Book Week is:

"This week, Nov. 15-22, is Young Canada's Book Week, 1973. It is the annual national week sponsored by the Canadian Library Association and the Canadian Book Publishers' Council and supported by many other organizations. It is celebrated to call attention to the special relationship that exists between children and their books.

"In Canada today we face the very real possibility that in less than a decade there will be no Canadian children's books. Each year for the past several years fewer titles have been published. If this trend is not reversed, our children will have no direct written contact with their language and their culture. Something must be done! This year's Young Canada's Book Week ask everyone to buy Canadian and read Canadian."

In Tofield, Mrs. Poshaug, the school librarian has held a poster contest for grades 1 to 9. The posters were to be 18" x 24" and to have the slogan "Read on . . . Canada!" All the lettering and the illustrations were to be original. In each grade a prize was awarded and a special prize for the winner in each division. Prizes were books from "Reader's Choice Catalogue".

Winners of the contest were: best poster in Division I, Roland Warkentin; Division II, Ross Filpula; Division III, Carrie Epp.

The best poster in each grade. Grade 1, Terry Heigh; Grade 2, Loretta Warkentin; Grade 3, Anke Jessen; Grade 4, Byron Roth; Grade 5, Greg McLeod; Grade 6, Debbie Delisle; Grade 7, tie winners, Diana Epp and Rachel Collins; Grade 8, Sheryl Lawrence; Grade 9, Anita Rude.

The judging was done by Mrs. Beatrice Mosby.

Prizes — A book or two books (for division winners) of the winners choice from the Scholastic Readers Choice Catalogue.

In Junior High, the hall bulletin board contains other examples of students' work done in observance of Young Canada's Book Week.

Posters from the contest decorate the halls in readiness for Parent-Teacher day, so please feel welcome to look at them all.

HOUSE OF COMMONS OTTAWA

November 14, 1973
DON MAZANKOWSKI, M.P.

The Government that brought forth a new unemployment insurance scheme based on the squash-saw pay later premium has now reached the pay later stage.

The reservations expressed by members of Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition, that the plan could not possibly be actuarily sound, notwithstanding Mr. Machnesy's assurance, have now been considered well founded. Just recently, Manpower Minister Robert Andras, announced a dramatic increase of 45 per cent in the rate of Unemployment Insurance premium deductions for workers and employers. The new rate, commencing January, 1974, will be $1.40 per $100 of insurable earnings for employees and $1.68 per $100 of insurable earnings for employers.

For 1973, total benefit payments are estimated at $1.21 billion and forty dollars. With administrative costs, and interest payments, the total cash requirement will be $2.2 billion. Of this $622 million will be provided by the Government's share and 1 billion, 388 million will be chargeable to the employee-employer account.

This year, then, the shortfall of charges to the employee-employer account over premium revenue is expected to be $388 million. Adding this figure to the net cash deficit of $174.5 million as of last December 31st, will result in a cumulative deficit of $562.5 million in the employee-employer account by the end of 1973.

Based upon these calculations, the new rates have been prescribed with the intention of breaking even on the operation for 1974.

Since Unemployment Insurance is now considered to be more of a tax, rather than an insurance scheme, the middle and higher income group can look forward to an increase in their taxes of roughly $40.

The recent visit to Vancouver by the Progressive Conservative Party Caucus provided a most useful insight into the problems affecting the province of British Columbia and the West Coast of Canada.

We were reminded of the dominant role which the Port of Vancouver plays in the world of trade and commerce. Mr. Wm Duncan, refering manager of the Port of Vancouver, pointed out that activity at the Port rates very closely to that of the Port of London, handling some 45 million tons of freight annually, compared to London which handles 54 million tons. Montreal, meanwhile, Canada's second busiest Port handles some 22 million tons of freight. Putting it another way, the Vancouver facility accounts for 20 per cent of all the tonnage which moves through Canadian ports.

Another matter which is most significat is the fact that 80 per cent of the cargo handled through Vancouver is bulk cargo, the majority of which is grain and coal from the province of Alberta.

Coal has now exceeded grain in total tonnage throughput, with some 20 million tons per month being shipped to Japan. Grain will probably account for 9 to 10 million tons for the year 1973. Thus it is very clear that the success of the Port of Vancouver is contingent upon the prosperity of the prairies.

The present throughput of grain is very close to its maximum and improved facilities and expansion must be provided should grain exports continue to increase. Mr. Duncan suggested that if grain were to be cleaned or conditioned on the prairies and moved by unit trains to port, the volume of grain handled could be increased by one-third. This should be an important point to consider during the examination of the structure of grain handling and transportation which is currently going on.

Pipe obtained for gas co-op

The Amberton Natural Gas Co-op has obtained enough pipe to completely install their gas system in 1974.

Word was received this week, by the directors, that the needed pipe will be available through Building Products Supplies Ltd. of Edmonton. No date has been set for delivery of the pipe but, it is expected that delivering will be started this winter.

A meeting of the co-op directors, scheduled for this week had to be postponed because of bookings in the Bawlf Community Hall. "The meeting will be held next week."

At least six representatives from the co-op will be attending the annual meeting of the Federation of Gas Co-ops which will be held in Olds on Saturday.

Hog numbers unchanged

The Canadian hog population at June 1 was estimated at 7,622,000 head, practically unchanged from a year earlier, according to Statistics Canada. Western numbers increased 2 percent with the Eastern inventory off 2 percent

By age category it was estimated that numbers of pigs under 3 months were up 2 percent. This was broken down as a 6 percent gain in the West and a modest decline of 1 percent in the East. Western pig numbers in the 3 - 6 month category were placed at a 1 percent increase with the East down 3 percent for a national decline of 1 percent.

Looking ahead producers indicated at June 1 that they would increase June-November farrowings by 3 percent over a year earlier. In Western Canada intentions were to up farrowings by 3 percent, while the Eastern producers reported a possible 2 percent gain.

The big question at the moment revolves around to what extent these estimates have changed since June 1, considering the rapidly altering situation. With relatively high grain prices and open marketing quotas and the recent announcement of substantially higher initial grain payments, it is quite easy to be somewhat pessimistic about any immediate upturn in hog production trends. It is to be hoped that the current high hog prices and advice being offered to producers to maintain diversified production programs will be sufficient to encourage at least steady, but hopefully expanded hog output.

Approximately 360,000 people are directly employed by farm industries in Canada. Many times that number work for service, and related industries.

if your neighbor got more money does that mean you lost money?

YOU can t always sell your products at the peak of the market Although somebody always will Abraham Lincoln frequently said that a man with less gains nothing by taking away from a man with more Bernard Baruch one of the most famous of dancers said that he never bought at the bottom nor sold at the top, but took a profit in between and thanked God for the opportunity to do so These men knew that the greatest overall good was served through freedom of barter.

Today, there are those who believe that the fairest system is the one that brings us all to a single common denominator We disagree We re in the business of providing free trade opportunity for whoever wants to make an honest, responsible bid as either buyer or seller.

We believe that this method of marketing assures producers of the highest available price engines the most active sales force for Canadian agricultural products moves the most grain and provides the most stable economic foundation for farmers sales.

The principal complaint producers have against open marketing is that since prices vary, some producers get more for their products than others But just because you don t happen to sell at the market high doesn t mean you didn t get a better price than you would have under a government monopoly system.

Think it over. Your best interests are not served by eliminating the open market place from Canadian agricultural merchandising.

Before you cast your ballot in the rapeseed poll, we suggest you give the matter plenty of thought.

After all, once you surrender freedom of choice, you never get it back.

"Biggest little church in the world"

Alongside the famed Dinosaur Trail, four miles west of Drumheller, Alberta stands the "biggest little church in the world"

The tiny shrine measures only 12 x 7 feet, yet it is complete in every detail, from 17-foot steeple to miniature stained-glass windows

The quaint little chapel claims to be "the biggest", since it can hold 20,000 people a year — six at a time! Best of all, travellers are provided with their own self service sermons. Just push a button, and representatives of 10 different religious denominations automatically deliver a three minute sermon.

Stepping stones into the church are made from the bizarre hoodoos, mushroom-shaped rocks sculpted by centuries of erosion. The Chapel of Meditation is open day and night, has no collection plate, regular congregation, or resident clergyman.

M.P. seeks crop loss insurance

Don Mazankowski, M.P. for Vegreville, has asked the federal government for Crop Loss Assistance for farmers whose crops are unharvested because of snow and adverse weather conditions.

He urged the federal government to take immediate steps to institute a program which will supplement the program of assistance outlined earlier by the provincial government of Alberta. Specifically, he asked for a cash acreage payment to individual farmers suffering losses. In addition, he recommended changes to the regulations of the Prairie Grain Advance Payments Act to cover advances to unharvested grain as well as programs designed to assist in relieving possible feed shortages and additional costs.

Mr. Whelan, the Minister of Agriculture, stated the matter is currently being investigated and discussed with the province, after which measures will be considered.

FUEY PON PASSES

A long-time resident and business man of Holden and formerly of Bruce Fuey Pon passed away in an Edmonton hospital on Saturday November 17th at the age of 68 years.

He is survived by his wife Susan of Holden; one son George (Gee Gong) of Holden; three daughters Mrs. Chun Young Wong of Hong Kong; Mrs. Kim Mah and Mrs. Joan Wong of Edmonton, eight grandchildren; one brother T. M. Pon of Hong Kong; two sisters Sui Sun Mah and Sui Young of California. The funeral was held on Wednesday November 21st at Park Memorial Chapel in Edmonton with Reverend P. Poon officiating and interment in Beechmount Cemetery.

Mr. Pon had not been in good health for the past year and suffered a severe stroke a couple of weeks ago. He had been a patient in the Royal Alex Hospital in critical condition until his passing.

Johnson re-elected as CLC president

Rev. K Glen Johnson was re-elected to serve a six-year term of office as president of Camrose Lutheran College at a meeting of the CLC Board of Regents on Saturday.

Rev. Johnson will be completing a six-year term as president of the college in January and his new term of office will officially commence on January 15th.

Rev Johnson come to Camrose from Starbuck, Manitoba and was heavily involved in the college's growth of recent years which saw, among other things, a larger student body and the addition of second year university training.

The Board of Regents voted to extend the term of office of the present executive committee to the June, 1974 convention of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Canada. Members of the committee are Geoffrey Saxton and Gordon Rasmussen of Edmonton and Cliff Brager of Camrose.

Approval in principal was given to expansion in the academic program in the areas of music, physical education, mathematics and physics. Final approval will not be forthcoming until February.

Faculty members Dr. David Larson and Rev. Karel Lunde were advanced to the academic ranks of assistant professors at Saturday's meeting.

Due to increased food prices and costs of operations, the Board of Regents decided to increase board fees from $488 to $600 and room fees went to $300 from $222. The board felt that, despite the increases, fees at CLC would still be lower than in most other institutions of higher learning. Increases go into effect in September, 1974.

Approval in principle was given to a ten-year capital development program with addition of men's dormitories being the first priority. Other expanded areas would include facilities in library, faculty offices and music practice rooms. Other priorities would include remodelling of the west dormitory, Old Main, the Convocation Center and of general equipment.

Another priority would be a Faith and Life Building which would include a chapel, student union facilities and offices for the dean of students and chaplain. The total estimated cost for the program is $1,105,000.

Helicopter and baloon logging are now in the operational stage in some inaccessible areas in North America.

interfere with adequate classroom performance.

The hearing disabled child is of normal intelligence or brighter; he is thus not mentally retarded. Because of a basic disorder, however, in the learning process he does not function well in the learning situation in the classroom. He requires specialized diagnostic and remedial help - usually in one or more of the following areas: language, spoken and or written; reading; arithmetic; motor functioning, learning of socially appropriate behaviours; sight, hearing or tactile deficits; difficulties related to time; difficulties related to spatial relations, and disorders of comprehension. Although emotional difficulties can often accompany learning disabilities, the child is not primarily emotionally disturbed.

The program is based on research which suggests that if learning disabilities are detected and treated early in the life of the child, prospects for the child's future are greatly enhanced

HARD, RUST STAINING WATER PROBLEMS SOLVED AT THE TOFIELD HOTEL

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Tessier, pictured above, are the owners of the Tofield Hotel, at Tofield.

Up until one year ago, all of the Hotel rooms and the bar had to be serviced with hard water. At that time, a MARVEL AUTOMATIC WATER CONDITIONER was installed at the Hotel

Upon being asked what they thought of the softener, they commented: "There is no comparison with the water we have now! Before, washing was quite a job. The dishes were always smoky looking and the glasses were cloudy in appearance. We had to use Calgon by the case. The dishwasher wouldn't even work properly. Now the dishes and clothes come out clean and bright! The savings on soap and work is substantial. Our water leaves our sinks, bathtub and dishes sparkling clean"

It is a comforting thought to know that Big Iron Drilling sells top quality equipment supplies dependable FREE service, and also to know that we are dealing with people who know the water business

We would highly recommend a MARVEL AUTOMATIC WATER CONDITIONER to anyone in the area with a water problem."

Ryley community fetes retiring school teacher

by Irena Reil

Harold Edward Parsons, after thirty-eight years of teaching, retired on June 30, 1973, not of his own desire but because of ill health.

Mr. Parsons received his education in Edmonton, Calgary, and Holden, and his teacher-training at the Camrose Normal School. He commenced work on his Bachelor of Education Degree early in his career by attending university evening credit courses and summer sessions, receiving it in 1957.

Of his thirty-eight years of teaching, thirty-two were served in the Ryley School. His first teaching position was at the Fairview School, south of Bruce in 1935. From there he transferred to the Amiak Creek school and in 1946 joined the Ryley staff as the grade seven, eight, nine teacher in the four-room school. During this time he spent one year as high school English teacher in the Ross Shepherd School in Edmonton, but found that he preferred the close relationship of a smaller school and returned to Ryley. Here he became the high school English teacher and the first vice-principal as the school gradually increased in size to its present twenty-four rooms. Later he transferred back to the group with which he has been so successful, the Junior High and resigned from the vice-principalship as he began to fade.

In Ryley, he became invaluable to both school and community with his talent in music and his willingness to help wherever needed. He trained choirs, played the piano in the United Church, entered groups in the musical festivals, had an orchestra for dances, took part in the Little Theatre and the Lather League, and was secretary of the skating rink and curling rink. His job was too small or too large. His record as both school and community is one of service to others.

To this man the school and community paid tribute on Saturday and Sunday, November 17 and 18. The Ryley Lions Club held a special dance where many of his present and former students greeted him upon his entry with a heart-warming "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow". The orchestra was that of a former pupil, Victor Lillo, now of Edmonton, and his wife, an

Parent-teacher day is held in Tofield

by Karen Jacobsen

The Tofield School Parent-Teacher day on Friday, November 23 was very successful

Eighty per cent of the children's parents attended and eighty per cent of the families were represented on the whole, 210 of 262 families were represented. Some parents, who were unable to attend, have already come in since or have appointments to see the teachers

A breakdown of the figures for different divisions show: Grades 1-3 89.3%; Grades 4-6 97.5%; Grades 7-9 75%; Grades 10-12 68%

Mrs. Yvonne Allan, one of the grade four teachers, had a perfect record of attendance with representatives of all 27 families attending.

Mrs. Feschuk and her helpers, who served lunch in the library, reported a very busy day.

Mrs. Puetzker and Mrs. Tuetjmann, the grade one teachers, had an unusual display. The children had drawn each other's outlines on stiff paper; each then painted his own

When the parents arrived, their "children" were sitting up in the desks. The grade one students had not told their parents ahead of time so the display was a surprise.

Crunch, not crisis

Energy Minister Don MacDonald indicated to the country he feels there is no energy crisis in Canada, but just a slowly developing period of uncertainty which could be more or less serious. And the slow-down measures he urged on Canadians reinforce the feeling that there is no conviction yet it is a really pressing problem.

Far from the call from President Nixon for a six day week on the gas pumps, for instance, with the assurance that this will be enforced in the New Year, Mr. MacDonald has merely urged Canadians to drive a little more slowly on the highways, in order to get better mileage. As well, he's expressed a hope that people won't burn up too much energy with their Christmas lights, and they'll set the thermostat a bit lower in the house and office.

The opposition parties have all indicated their feeling the government has goofed, either by asking for more than was necessary, or more likely by not facing up to the problem sufficiently, and really "telling it like it is". Our own feeling is that this is also the way Mr. MacDonald feels . . . that the situation calls for more drastic action, but that he couldn't get his government to agree to it in these uncertain times.

On the other hand, two things really stand out . . . if the situation is really serious, nothing could help the government's teetering chances more than a strong approach to helping the situation, and secondly, it must be a wonderful chance to take some of the searchlight off the negotiations with the Alberta government, and ease the pressures that had been seen to be building up publicly.

Under such circumstances, it could be a highly welcome assistance to any politician's bag of tricks.

No change in sixty years

In Edmonton, Mr. H. D. Pound, Chief Commissioner of the Canadaian Grain Commission really scored a point a couple of weeks ago in addressing the annual meeting of the United Grain Growers, when he told more than three hundred delegates the maximum country elevator storage rates for grain are the same today as they were back in 1912 . . . one thirtieth of a cent per bushel per day.

Probably there aren't many commodities that can make the same boast, or the same complaint, that charges haven't advanced in sixty years.

In Mr. Pound's case, it seems to have been a complaint, since he expressed the feeling that the rates, negotiated each year, may have been good in the short term, but may not be in the best interests of moving grain efficiently over the longer period.

However, it seems only fair to point out that while the storage rates being paid by farmers haven't changed in sixty years, the price they're receiving for their grain hasn't changed all that much either. Back in 1912, for instance, the price was in the two dollar a bushel area for wheat, and the improvement in wheat prices over all those sixty years hasn't really been that noticeable, either. Oh, sure, it reached three dollars and even almost four during the years of the First World War, for a very short period, but then it plummetted back down again to about fifty cents, too. And it's only in very recent weeks that prices have risen to the point where farmers are delighted for a change.

One thing that does come out of some of Mr. Pound's discussion, together with figures from the Alberta Wheat Pool and other sources, is that the better sales picture of the past couple of years, so that grain didn't remain in the elevator, tieing up valuable space, has resulted in a very marked reduction in storage and handling costs, from 15.2 cents in the 1967-8 year to only 4.8 cents in the 1971-2 year, or in other words a chop of fully two thirds occasioned by more frequent turn-over of elevator stocks.

Getting back to Mr. Pound . . . maybe he'd be happier if the price were a fixed percentage of the price the farmer gets. When the farmers get a real break, for instance, the grain commission would profit handsomely, and when the price breaks, the commission might have to tighten its belt. That's not the way the system works, you say? Well, it might be fair to ask why not. It's the way it's always worked for the farmer, and everybody has always thought of that as fair, now, haven't they?

Over reaching

Quite a bit of concern is being expressed in the case of the United Church clergyman facing a prison sentence in the United States for having failed to keep his draft board informed of his mailing address. The charge was advanced when he returned to the States to do post-graduate work, and was immediately faced by his draft board.

By this time he had already been a Canadian citizen for ten years, and if our information is correct, he would have had to spend five years here before applying, so he must have spent fifteen years out of the States when the charge was made. Obviously he was not trying to beat the Viet Nam draft if he left back in 1958, and for that matter, fifteen years later he'd almost be too old to be drafted anyway.

It seems to be one more case of a super-detection system looking out for technicalities on which to base charges, but failing to keep up with such important things as changes of citizenship. The Canadian government has protested, but seems not to have mounted a particularly strong objection, in the light of all the circumstances. The contention of the American judge that failure to give him a prison term would indicate the court was granting amnesty to persons who flee to avoid the draft sounds hollow, not to say ill-considered.

Peace force . . .

By Peter Ward

OTTAWA (CEF)

It may be years before the true story of Canada's efforts to be included in the latest middle east United Nations peace force is told in documented form, so for now you'll just have to believe those "usually reliable sources".

I'm told there was a certain amount of indecent eager panting at the doorstep of United Nations Secretary General Kurt Waldheim on the part of Canadian diplomats when the possibility of a U.N. peace force arose in late October.

Waldheim, who has the earmarks of being an extremely sensible man, brushed off initial Canadian offers of experienced peacekeepers at the ready-aye ready, because he was well aware of the difficulty Canadians on the ceasefire line might create.

The Soviets, he figured, would be bound to insist on equal time as peacekeepers for a Warsaw Pact nation, should Canada be suggested for the new UNEF force.

But so eager were the representations made by Canada's people at the U.N. that Waldheim relented, and worked out a formula whereby Canada could supply innocuous logistic support troops. The Soviet Union with some reluctance, agreed.

Then with triumph in the House of Commons came the announcement that once more the U.N. had called upon good old neutral NATO Canada to keep the peace albeit as logistic support troops. There was no mistaking the satisfaction External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp displayed when he made the statement.

Now into this sensitive international situation charges the Minister of National Defense, James Richardson. He announces that the core of Canada's logistic support unit for the United Nations peacekeeping force will be the crack Canadian Airborne Regiment - our best combat troops. Mitchell Sharp gravely endorses the choice - after all, there's nobody else left in the forces we can send.

The reaction from the Soviets was predictable or at least it should have been. They did an abrupt about face - largely because we proposed to send combat troops in a support role. They reverted to the demand that any contribution to the U.N. force in the middle east by a NATO power should be matched by similar representation from a Warsaw Pact Nation.

Then, to prove that he really wasn't that eager to send Canadian troops to the middle east as peacekeepers, Mitchell Sharp made ready to hustle down to New York to obtain "clarification" from Kurt Waldheim.

It's a pity that the ability of our troops as U.N. peacekeepers isn't matched by that of the diplomats.

Winter driving danger means remaining alert

With the possibility of a long, cold winter ahead, The Canadian, through the co-operation of the Camrose Detachment of the RCMP is issuing some advice for motorists to prevent possible disasters and loss of life if stranded or stuck by a winter storm with sub-zero temperatures.

The wise motorist will listen to weather reports and not travel during severe conditions or, if advised to stay off roads by the RCMP. Most radio stations give frequent reports and warnings when severe storms are due to strike. If travel is absolutely necessary make sure you start with a full tank of gas.

If a motorist is stuck, he should stay with the car and run the motor only after checking to see that the exhaust is clear. Do not attempt to walk for help as it is [illegible]

[illegible] a window should be kept open slightly for ventilation. If [illegible] is low, run the motor [illegible] frostbitten. The horn is valuable to alert someone to your danger.

[illegible]

Under the hood is more than a gallon of oil - a quart of which burned in a hub cap spews a cloud of smoke visible for miles.

Every hose can be converted to a siphon to draw gas from your tank. Windshield wiper tubing can be used as a tourniquet to stop bleeding. The engine dipstick is a skewer for cooking hot dogs or other meat. Unbolt the hood and you have a sturdy heat reflecting lean-to.

As it stands, your car is a bunkhouse but the interior can be stripped for survival. Door panels become ground blankets to insulate you from the cold or wet ground. Convex gadgets or dome light glass can be sun focusing fire-starters as can the car's cigarette lighter.

Headlights removed from their mountings but, not disconnected from their wiring, can throw a beam for search planes when pointed skyward.

Despite all this, it is best to be prepared. Besides having a full gas tank a supply of canned food (and an opener), blankets or sleeping bags and a small heater should be essential items in your car for winter travel. Bundles of newspapers inside your clothing can help ward off the cold.

Be prepared. Don't be a victim of winter. Stay alive and enjoy the summer.

Discontent is the first step in the progress of a man or a nation. — Oscar Wilde

Who trust whom

French speaking Canadians mistrust newspapers and trust TV, while English - speaking Canadians trust newspapers and mistrust TV. That's one thought provoking conclusion from an Ogilvy and Mather (Canada) Ltd. study of attitudes to communication media among a sample of 386 English - speaking Canadians in Toronto and Edmonton and 153 French - speaking Canadians in Montreal. About 40 percent of the Edmonton-Toronto sample rated newspapers "most honest and trustworthy" of the five media compared - newspapers, radio, television, magazines and direct mail. Fewer than 10 percent of these respondents believed newspapers were "least honest and trustworthy." Only 25 percent voted TV as the most credible medium, and 45 percent chose it as least credible. Montreal francophone opinion almost reverses these figures: 25 percent found newspapers most credible, 45 percent least credible. Nearly 30 percent vouched for TV's honesty, although 30 percent rated it as least honest. Other results from the in-depth questionnaire indicated a similar response pattern when it came to the question: 'What medium do you consider most informative? (Few of either group of respondents chose one of the other media as "most" anything. One thing both groups agree upon by a large margin, however, is that newspaper advertising is "least irritating". TV advertising is "most irritating."

GIEBELHAUS — DUPAS VOWS

A quiet wedding was solemnized on Saturday afternoon, 24th of November, when Mrs Leila Dupas and George Giebelhaus, both of Holden, were united in marriage at St Gregory's R.C Church with Father Ratjie and Reverend Stanley Bessey of Tofield officiating at the double ring ceremony.

The bride, entering the church on the arm of the groom, George Giebelhaus, was charming in a floor length gown of rose pink, with full wrist-length sheer sleeves and high neckline trimmed with diamente, complimented with silver slippers. She wore a corsage of creamy yellow roses.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Francis Maruszeczka of Bruce, a long-time friend of the bride, wearing a floor length gown of eggshell blue satin, trimmed with white lace bands on the bodice, high neckline and wrist length sleeves and also wearing a corsage of rosebuds.

Attending the groom was John Albrecht, a nephew of the groom and Leo Maruszeczka ushered guests to their seats.

After the ceremony a reception and supper was held in the church dining room for about 80 relatives and close friends, which was served by ladies of the R.C. Ladies Aid The head table was centered by a three-tiered wedding cake made by a sister of the bride and beautifully decorated by Mrs. Mary Zwierschke.

Seated at the head table with the bride and groom were Leo Maruszeczka, Mr. and Mrs. B. Appleby, Father Ratjie, Mrs. Francis Maruszeczka, John Albrecht, Rev. Stan Bessey, and Mr and Mrs. George Millar, a nephew of the groom, who was the master of ceremonies.

The table grace was offered by Reverend Bessey and the toast to the bride was offered by Bert Appleby and ably replied to by the groom. Father Ratjie also gave a few appropriate words and wished them happiness in their future life together. A telegram of congratulations was read from the Con... families of Fort St. John who were unable to attend. Out of town guests were from Kitsilano, MacKay, Edmonton, Vegreville, and Fort St. John, B.C. The happy couple are residing on the groom's farm north of Holden.

Export meat reinspection raises costs

An Edmonton transporter of meat products to the Western United States has announced that as of November 15th, they will no longer be assuming the cost of United States Department of Agriculture import meat inspection charges.

In the past, the meat reinspection was provided as a service to the shipper of meat products. A spokesman for the transportation company, Figol Distributors Limited of Edmonton, stated that rising fuel, labour and material costs have forced them to discontinue this service. He also stated that his company has made lengthy representations to the Federal Department of Agriculture and Department of Industry, Trade and Commerce who, he feels, should be responsible for these costs. So far no action has been taken.

"There could be up to a $5 per hunderweight depression on the price the livestock producer receives on export products", the spokesman stated.

The reinspection of imported meats has been used as a restrictive device to inhibit the flow of products between the United States and Canada and usually results in higher prices to the consumer in both countries. The reinspection occurs on product that has, a few hours previous, passed health inspection in the country of origin at time of shipment

The major meat item involved is pork. Tony Bukieda, Chairman of the Alberta Hog Producers Marketing Board, suggests the location of U.S.D.A. inspectors at Calgary and Edmonton to clear exports at the point of origin. This would have the advantage of: 1, reduced transportation costs. Meat would not be transported until inspected so there would be no return trucking. 2, reduce time involved in getting the product to its destination. 3, do away with handling, labour, and storage at the U.S. point of inspection, which also tends to lower the product quality. 4, allow delivery of product on schedule and avoid putting U.S. buyers in a position of being short of stock in any given week.

Does past driver record predict future driver performance

About 70 percent of all accidents that will occur in the future will involve drivers who do not have a past record of accidents and violations. This was the finding of a study conducted and just published by the Highway Safety Research Centre at the University of North Carolina. The study sampled 2,502,110 drivers.

Representing nearly the entire driver license population of North Carolina during 1966, this massive sample of more than 2½ million drivers was used to pinpoint the relationship between an individual's past driver record and his future driving performance.

For the study, researchers analyzed the computerized driver records of North Carolinians over two consecutive time intervals from December 1966 to November 1970. A two-year history was compared with the subsequent two-year driver record to determine if drivers with a greater number of traffic accidents or violations exhibited any tendency for violations and accidents later on. The sample was limited to drivers who were at least 22 years old at the end of the study period.

Additional data were collected over the last two years of the study from 388,025 drivers who were 21 years old at the end of the study period.

These data were compiled by a search of the entire North Carolina Department of Motor Vehicle Driver License File, which contains the officials driving records of all North Carolina drivers.

The results indicate that a person's past driving record has only limited validity in predicting his future driving performance. For identifying high risk driver groups, past accidents are somewhat better predictors of future accidents than are past violations.

Certainly, a major conclusion from the study is that traffic accidents are not a very predictable phenomena: about 70 percent of all crashes that will occur in the future will involve drivers who do not have a past record of accidents and violations.

"This fact does not mean that accidents are capricious events not subject to understanding or control," says Dr. Richard Stewart, co-author of the study.

"It does indicate limitations in addressing the accident problem by seeking out a relatively small number of drivers thought to account for a larger portion of the accident problem. As our data indicate, the majority of the accidents are sustained by the majority of the drivers."

In a way, this fact is unfortunate, says Dr. Stewart. "If it were true that most accidents were caused by a few drivers, then the financial burden of the countermeasure programs would be smaller. But since accidents strike 'everyone' it means that countermeasure programs must reach all drivers."

The Bad Driver

What about the so-called "bad" driver or accident repeater? The study shows that a tiny percentage of persons with extremely poor driving records have three times their proportionate share of accidents and violations in the future. Indeed, the worst 0.5 percent of all drivers in the state in one time period had 1.5 percent or three times their share of accidents during the next time period.

"Accident repeaters are a small but important part of the overall problem," the study notes. "They deserve attention through ingenious and cost effective programs.

"It should be realized, however, that countermeasures directed at the violation and accident repeater cannot bring about large reductions in total accidents, but can bring about small and important gains."

The study is published in an HSRC technical report, "The Statistical Association Between Past and Future Accidents and Violations."

who'd ever guess these fellows are creating stability?

WHO S to say what the price of anything really is?

When buyers and sellers come together in a free market system, the price is set by the man prepared to pay the most He becomes the buyer and the price he pays is clearly posted for everyone to see

It s called "Open Market Price Discovery" and it goes on every week at the Winnipeg Commodity Exchange. What makes it work is competition.

This method of marketing agricultural products results in two advantages to the producer. In the short term the current price is always the highest price And, what s more important, from a long term point of view, is that the prices made here are real prices. They re not artificially established by a group of civil servants. They reflect the hard cash that responsible buyers are willing to pay for the farmers' products—which is, of course, the most solid foundation upon which to build a self-sufficient Western Canadian agricultural economy.

Before you cast your ballot in the rapeseed poll, we suggest you give the matter plenty of thought.
After all, once you surrender freedom of choice, you never get it back.
